Kevin Lengel, Jim Martin winners at New Holland Fair

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

NEW HOLLAND — Spirited show competition, well-attended lively sales and a deluge of long-awaited rain highlighted the 4-H baby beef and pig feeding roundups at the New Holland fair on Thursday.

When the rain had settled the dust, top winners were:

Kevin Lengel, 15, of R1 East Earl, took the Baby Beef Grand Championship with his 1140-pound purebred Angus, Midnight.

Jim Martin, 13, of R2 New Holland, won the pig feeding grand championship with his 236-pound Duroc-Landrace-Spotted Poland China cross gilt.

The reserve grand champion in the pig feeding competition went to Mike McCauley, of R1 Kinzer, with his 199-pound Chester White.

The long afternoon of competition opened with the baby beef show, which included 19 entries in the three classes. Judge Michael Fourier, Bucks County Extension Agent, reached into the mediumweights for both the grand and reserve champion.

State milk marketing proposal taking shape

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's proposed milk marketing promotional program which will likely go to a referendum vote among dairy farmers early next year, began to take verbal shape this week.

More than a score of representatives of co-ops, independent producers and statewide farm organizations voiced their opinions concerning what should go into the program at the initial meeting of the Milk Promotion Advisory Committee called on Tuesday by Secretary of Agriculture Penrose Hallowell.

Their suggestions are now being put into a preliminary draft form to be considered by the various groups. The draft is expected to be ready for review by the groups at their various meetings which begin about mid-month.

Among various suggestions and comments voiced at the meeting were:

–While there was no concensus on the rate of assessment, the most prevalent figure cited was three-quarters of one percent, or 9 cents per hundredweight, which would yield about $7.1 million in promotional funds.

–Lehigh Valley Farms is opposed to the referendum because state law prohibits name brand advertising in programs conducted under the Pennsylvania Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act.

–Eastern Milk Producers Co-Op has not changed its position, favoring a three-quarters of one percent assessment with ask-out provisions. The State Marketing Act specifies mandatory participation.

–Inter-State supports the three-quarters of one percent figure.

–Pennsylvania Farmers Union policy favors an assessment of no more than one-half of one percent at this time.

–The National Farmers Organization is opposed to the program.

–Bear Lake Co-Op and NEDCO also support the three-fourths of one percent assessment.

The forecast of $7.1 million in funds, which would be provided by a three-quarters of one percent assessment, is based on last year's

Several farm bills approved in Senate

BY CURT HARLER

HARRISBURG — It was a banner week for farmers as several agricultural bills moved through the state senate and on to the Governor's desk.

HB 2640, which declares Johnsongrass a noxious weed, passed unanimously and was sent to the Governor for his signiture.

HB 1176, the inheritance and estate tax bill which requires farm land be taxed on its agricultural value and not on speculative market value, also passed the Senate. It was sent back to the House for concurence on some changes made in the Senate.

The bill, drafted by Rep. Reno Thomas, also provides agricultural and forest reserves. It passed with support in the Senate from Franklin Kury.

Farmers troubled by deer spotters at this time of year will be happy to hear that HB 893 also passed the Senate. It limits spotlighting of wildlife.

The measure prohibits spotlighting on buildings, barns or homes and says hunters can not carry a weapon while spotlighting.

A package of two bills, SB 988 and 992 also moved. They upgrade the state surface mining laws and give the Commonwealth rather than the federal government jurisdiction over surface mining operations.

Those bills are seen as important to farmers in Western Pennsylvania where coal companies often want to strip farm land to obtain coal.

Boyd given 4-H alumni award

LANCASTER — Darvin E. Boyd, former Lancaster County 4-H member, was named state winner of the 1980 Pennsylvania 4-H Alumni Recognition Award. Boyd, 39 Knollwood Drive, Akron, currently serves as vice president and director of the agri-finance department of the Hamilton Bank.

The announcement was made as Pennsylvania's 93,000 4-H members get ready to observe National 4-H Week, October 5-11, with the theme "Expanding Horizons". See related stores on pages C-18 and C-33.

Boyd, who was nominated for the award by the Lancaster County Extension office, said, "It is a great privilege to be selected for this award. Four-H has meant a lot to me and I know how important it is to our country. I am grateful to those who nominated me."

According to Nancy Myers, county extension 4-H agent, Boyd will receive a plaque and will be eligible for selection as one of the top eight alumni winners in the nation. He was chosen from among the quarter-million Pennsylvania 4-H alumni.

"I was surprised - I had no inkling I would be nominated. It is a humbling feeling to be selected for Pennsylvania," Boyd stated.

At 1981 Farm Show

Moratorium lifted on breeding swine

BY SHEILA MILLER

HARRISBURG — The moratorium that recommended no breeding swine shows be held until February, 1981 because of the threat of pseudorabies has been lifted for the 1981 Farm Show, announced a spokesperson for the Pennsylvaia Department of Agriculture on Wednesday.

The moratorium had been placed on breeding swine shows this past June after a pseudorabies outbreak had startled many swine breeders in southeast Pennsylvania.

At the time breeders unanimously agreed to the moratorium because no one knew how wide spread the problem was, according to Dennis Grumbine, President of the Pennsylvania Swine Breeders Association.

Meeting again on Monday, the representatives of the Bureau of Animal Industries, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Pork Council, the Pennsylvania Fair Funding Association, and the Pennsylvania Swine Breeders Association reviewed the status of pseudorabies in the state and voted to recommend the moratorium be withdrawn.

Sharing money-making ideas in milk production.

When it comes to dairy farming a little learning can be a profitable thing. Milk production can soar. Butterfat can jump higher. Profits can increase. That's why Pennfield spends so much time educating its own Penn Pro salesmen as well as dairy farmers in the latest nutritional, herd health, and farm management developments. These educational programs are, of course, an excellent supplement to the Pennfield Computerized Total Ration Service. And here's how the service works: 1. We collect samples of your forage. 2. Then we evaluate the quality of your forage. We determine the total digestible nutrients. The fiber content. The protein content. The amount of carbohydrates. 3. The computer quickly spots any nutrients lacking in the forage. For your milking cows. And for your dry cows. It immediately points out the overfeeding of nutrients. Underfeeding, too. Both, of course, may be different at different times of the year. And the printout will tell you what you need. And when. 4. Your Penn Pro Professional advises you on the quantity and type of nutrients that should be added, to balance your total feeding program to your cows nutritional requirements.

Try the Pennfield Computerized Total Ration Service. For better milk yields. For better profits. There's no cost or obligation. Just phone us today at Pennfield Feeds. Local calls: Lancaster 299-2561, Red Lion 244-4511. In 717 and 215 areas dial toll-free 800-732-0467. Pennfield Feeds, Rohrerstown Road, Lancaster, PA 17604.

Livestock market and auction news

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

OCT. 6-12, 1980

In for a wetting, we're betting.

Set new trees now . Pierre Trudeau born Oct 8, 1919 New moon Oct 8 Average length of days for the week, 11 hours, 20 minutes First glider license awarded a Mr Wiggens from Akron, Ohio, Oct 7, 1930 Cranberry harvest over A warm heart requires a cool head

Ask the Old Farmer: When I pick dandelion greens in the spring or wild berries later on, I have noticed that those growing around large rocks are bigger and more delicious Do you think these rocks somehow provide mineral or vitamins to the plants? G E, Brattleboro, Vt

Whatever the scientific reason, this was well known to old farmers They always planted melons around a rock They claimed the melons ripened sooner, were larger and sweeter This is usually the case of any wild fruit growing beside a rock

Home Hints: Place half an apple in an airtight container with baked goods to keep them moist

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Seasonal, then cool, light showers, midweek is warm, possible cold wave by weekend

Greater New York-New Jersey: Fair, then rain, heavy south, and cool by middle of week, weekend brings warmer temperatures

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Rainy and cool throughout the week, then partial clearing, warmer for week's end

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Rain, very cool temperatures through middle of week, by weekend, sunny and warm

Lancaster Farming says...

Read those balance sheets

"I don't care what the accountants say as long as the milk checks keep coming."

"I can't make out all those fancy figures and terms. Is a retained margin like a retained placenta?"

"It's all a bunch of numbers and they can make them say anything they want, anyway."

Fall, in addition to being the season of colorful trees, is the season of annual meetings for a host of Pennsylvania farm organizations.

Almost all groups are required by their by-laws to submit to their members a treasurer's report or balance sheet.

The report should list all revenue taken in, all money spent, disclose outstanding debt, accounts payable and recievable.

It should disclose how excess funds were handled during the year (a bank account is good, high-interest notes is better).

Depending on the type of organization there should be figures telling what each member's equity in the group is, whether or not there will be a membership dividend, how much money was paid in taxes.

The statement should be compared to last year's statement line for line. Any major differences should be questioned by members.

After all, it's the members who own the organization and the financial statement is just like a doctor's physical for the membership.

Nothing puts a group's directors or officers on the spot so fast as intelligent questions about the group's financial status.

Any question should be answered quickly and openly. If it isn't, it's time to look for new leaders.

All it may take is a year or two of the members' accepting sloppy accounting to put an end to those milk checks.

If there are serious questions about the accuracy or validity of a report's figures, the members must demand an independent audit.

Know the terms accountants use and what they mean. A clue: retained margins have nothing to do with calving problems.

After all, it's your financial future that is at stake.

Fall: reds, yellows, and some blues

As the first few ears of corn clunk into the wagon the feeling of Fall takes over.

Fields no longer are green and growing. They are brown and yellow. Finished and dying.

There's a feeling of relief that the silos are full . . . the same feeling reflected in the face of an old man who has just climbed a long flight of stairs.

No longer is it wise to head out for the fields without a sweatshirt. The days of sunshine baking down are pretty much gone for this year.

Fall: it's the time of crunchy apples and warning the children not to drink too much of the freshly squeezed cider.

It's watching the yellow bus come and go twice a day and having to remind one's self that they're in second grade now, not first.

The brown thing bouncing across the road most likely is not a rabbit but a large oak leaf pushed along by the chill breeze.

Yellow, red, and brown somehow aren't the right colors for trees. While there is no question of their beauty somehow it's like seeing an empty and darkened meeting hall. There is a finality and a loneliness.

As Spring reminds us of the hope of new birth so Fall brings to mind our shortcomings: there's the pasture that never did get fertilized although it would have taken just a phone call to get it done.

That board is still loose on the shed. And the cracked glass in the barn never got replaced.

Why is it we think of these things only in Fall? June, July and August always promised another day to get the job done. Suddenly it is as if a deadline has passed.

Has our family, our community, benefited from the season's work or has it been another year of survival from one bank payment to the next?

Fall: if we are making progress in this life why is it such a melancholic time for so many people?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

A HOUSE IS NOT A HOME

October 5, 1980

Background Scripture:
2 Samuel 7;
1 Chronicles 16: 1-36
Devotional Reading:
Romans 14:1-9

King David had a brilliant idea!

It was the kind of brilliant idea that one would have expected from such an illustrious leader. It was original. It was exciting. It would be symbolic of David's and the nation's devotion to the Lord. It would become a focus of national price for the people of Israel. And it wouldn't do David's already staggering reputation any harm, either.

For generations God had traveled with the people of Israel in a tent, the desert tabernacle that was put up and torn down wherever the people of the Covenant wandered. While they were a nomadic people, it had been a great idea. They were a people who could take their God with them—or was it that he was taking them with him?

A HOUSE TO LIVE IN

But they were no longer a nomadic people. They had settled down in the Promised Land which God in his Covenant had promised them. There was no longer a need for God to move around in a tent. Just as now David had a permanent home—a rather fine one too, a house of cedar—so now God also should have a permanent home. "See now," David tells Nathan the Prophet, "I dwell in a house of cedar, but the ark of God dwells in a tent." (2 Samuel 7:2).

I don't want to take anything away from David's desire to build a permanent house for the Lord, but I'm sure that his grand impulse was at least partly accounted for by some very personal considerations as well as faith and reverence. Now that David had become a first-rate monarch over a nation that until recently had not been much of a nation—still wasn't, really—it was natural that he would want to enhance Israel's status—and his own—with a building program. A temple would say to Israel's neighbors: "Hey, look here, we're somebody, too" plus "What do you think of our great King?"

There may have been another very human emotion that figured in David's desire to build a temple: he may have felt just a twinge of guilt with the opulence and pomp with which he was surrounded. It would be easier to live with his own extravagances if he could salve his conscience with an extravagance for God.

I WILL MAKE YOU A HOUSE

But it was not to be. In a dream, God told Nathan the Prophet that the Lord did not need or want a "house" from David. A house made with hands was not what was important to him. Instead, "the Lord will make you a house" (7:11). The same word "house" is being used, but it is in a different sense that the Lord is using it. Instead of David building him a house of lumber and stones, God would make of David and his family a "house", a lineage, a family line through which God would continue to live. The Lord lives through people, not buildings and a house, no matter how sacred or reverently built, is not his home.

TO UTILIZE TESTING SERVICES

Several times each week we talk with farmers or gardeners who continue to apply lime and fertilizer without having their soil tested. It seems this has been the practice with some families for several generations. This might not do much harm but in some cases it is poor use of lime and fertilier dollars. This is the time of the year to be drawing soil samples for testing to learn the needs for the 1981 cropping season. To continue to add lime and fertilizer without knowing of the soil needs is a poor practice. Many of our soils are high enough in one or more of the fertilizer elements; dollars can be used more efficient on materials that the soil actually needs.

TO MANAGE HORIZONTAL SILOS

Even though the local corn crop is not a record yield, we do have some livestock and dairy producers that need to store silage in a temporary structure. In many cases this is a trench or a bunker silo, mostly above ground. In these cases, it is very important to keep out excess water and air from the silage mass. This will require tightening down the plastic cover week by week as the silage settles. Also, surface water should be drained away from the silage area. I've noticed in some cases the black plastic is flapping in the wind during the fall months. This will usually result in larger amounts of spoiled silage.

TO DETERMINE HAY NEEDS

With the wet weather earlier in the haying period, and extremely dry weather later in the summer, it is quite likely that good quality hay will be scarce and prices on the increase. It might be good management to get your supply of hay on hand, or get it lined up, before prices get out of hand. We've

Livestock market and auction news

Omaha Cattle

Thursday, October 2
Report supplied by USDA

Closing prices on Slaughter Steers ranged .75-1.25 lower and Heifers were .50-.75 lower, instances 1.00 off. Cows were 1.00-1.50 higher and bulls firm.

Four day receipts this week 10,300; Last week 10,000; year ago 11,100.

The fed cattle trade continued to operate in a bearish atmosphere in reflection of a dull carcass trade the forepart of week, and a general lack of optimism. Prices on Slaughter Steers and Heifers were forced downward early despite modest marketings and only a portion of the downturn was regained at midweek in a rather forced trade on meager supplies. ost buying interests were still selective, and were usually competitive only for minimum numbers. The overall finish of the steer and heifer supply was rather attractive with a fair percentage Choice, although steers weighing 1200 lbs. and heavier were still scarce. Slaughter Steers made up appoximately 37 pct and Heifers 28 pct. Cows comprised 9 pct and feeders 24 pct.

STEERS: Early, load Choice with end prime predominantly 3 1116 lbs. 69.00 at midweek, two part loads Choice predominantly 3 1150-1200 lbs. 68.50, load Choice 3 1271 lbs. 68.25. Load Choice and Prime 3 with moderate end 4 1227 lbs. 68.00. Choice 2-4 1050-1225 lbs. 67.00-68.00. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 975-1200 lbs. 66.00-67.25. Good 2-3 60.50-63.00.

HEIFERS: On Monday, load Choice and Prime 3-4 1028 lbs. 67.50, small consignment Choice 3 68.00. At midweek, three loads Choice and Prime predominantly 3 975-1075 lbs. 66.75-67.00. Choice 2-4 875-1050 lbs. 65.25-66.75. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 850-1050 lbs. 63.50-65.00. Good 2-3 60.50-63.00.

Average of LS 214 detailed quotations for Choice 900-1100 lb. steers 67.32; 1100-1300 lbs. 67.70. Average cost steers this week 67.13; average weight 1132 lbs. as compared 67.89 and 1106 lbs. a week ago. Average cost Heifers 65.21, average weight 990 lbs. as compared 65.92 and 975 lbs. a week ago.

COWS: Utility and Commercial 2-4 45.00-47.50, some high-dressing 47.50-48.25. Cutter 42.50-45.50. Canner and low-cutter 41.50-43.50, occasionally 43.75-44.00.

Food is still bargain in U.S.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Last year, according to a Department of Agriculture study, the average American wage earner worked only 4 minutes to earn enough to buy a 1-pound loaf of white bread that cost 52 cents; only 13 minutes to buy a pound of sliced bacon that costs $1.85. Only 15-½ minutes to earn enough to buy a pound of sirloin steak that cost $2.17; only 13-½ minutes to buy a pound of pork chops that retailed at $1.90.

He or she had to work 4 minutes to buy a pound of broiler chicken; about 4-½ minutes for a pound of tomatoes that retailed for 64 cents; only 16 minutes to buy a dozen oranges that sold for $2.25. Just 11 minutes to earn enough for a pound of butter that sold for $1.56; only 5-½ minutes to earn enough to purchase a dozen large eggs for 77 cents. That adds up to only 87 minutes for the whole order.

Around the world only Canadian workers averaged better. They had to work only 83-½ minutes for that same food-purchasing power.

On the other hand, the Japanese worker had to spend 7 hours and 15 minutes on the job to earn enough for those same groceries. More than 2 hours and 54 minutes just to earn enough for the sirloin; 88 minutes just to buy the dozen oranges.'

Workers in the United Kingdom had to stay on the job 3 hours and 18 minutes to earn the full order; French workers, 2 hours 46-½ minutes. Those in Denmark, 2 hours and 28 minutes. Italian workers, 2 hours and 19-½ minutes; Belgian workers, 2 hours 4-½ minutes. Swedes and West Germans, 2 hours; Australians, 1 hour and 57 minutes. Dutch workers, 1 hour and 53 minutes.

A breakdown of prices of the items shows sirloin, which cost $2.17 in the U.S. was $3.73 a pound in France, $5.68 in West Germany, $15.66 in Japan. Pork chops, just $1.90 here, cost $2.55 in France, $2.58 in West Germany, $2.67 in Sweden, $4.70 in Japan.

Eggs, which cost only 77 cents a dozen in the U.S., were $1.46 a dozen in France, $1.12 in the United Kingdom, $1.09 in Japan, $1.73 in Sweden, 83 cents in Canada.

On the other hand, oranges, which cost $2.25 per dozen in the U.S., were only $1.92 in France, $2.11 in West Germany, $1.67 in the United Kingdom, $1.65 in Australia, and $1.68 in Belgium. But, they were $2.29 in Denmark, $7.92 per dozen in Japan.

All-risk crop insurance program ready to roll

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation stands ready to begin immediate implementation of the provisions of the "Federal Crop Insurance Act of 1980" signed by the President, says Everett S. Sharp, acting manager.

The new law will permit rapid expansion of the present FCIC program from 1670 counties and 28 crops into a nationwide "all-risk" insurance plan covering all farm commodities. Also included is extension for one year of the low-yield disaster program administered by the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The basic plan is to expand into an additional 250 counties, including 25 in Pennsylvania in each of the next five years with priority consideration given to counties which produce the basic disaster crops of wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley, cotton and rice, Sharp says.

"We anticipate announcing the initial 250 counties prior to planting of the 1981 Spring crops. This will permit farmers to purchase "all-risk" crop insurance on about 94 percent of all the acreage planted to these six disaster crops this first year," he adds.

A more gradual expansion is planned for 22 other crops presently insured by FCIC and all other crops and commodities will be included as rapidly as funding and actuarial data permit.

The legislation, Sharp says, provides a unique opportunity for private insurance agents and companies to help market "all-risk" crop insurance in conjunction with the Federal system.

"All FCIC regional offices have been instructed to begin completing commission sales agreements with licensed private agents and brokers effective for the 1981 crop year which is now underway.

"This arrangement," Sharp states, "will provide farmers an opportunity to insure their crops under the 'all-risk' plan through their local participating private insurance agent or direct with the government."

Complete information on the agent system and any of three sales and servicing agreements is now available at each of the 18 FCIC regional offices across the country or through the national office in Washington, D.C.

We anticipate a heavy signup of new policyholders this Spring especially due to the estimated $283,000,000 in crop loss benefits now being paid to some 125,500 insured farmers across the country mainly due to the severe Summer drought, Sharp says.

"The 1980 year undoubtedly will be record breaking in terms of indemnities paid by FCIC in the history of its 42 years of assisting farmers through the voluntary insurance plan," he adds.

In the Harrisburg Region serving four states, Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland and Delaware, the estimated insured crop losses to corn, soybeans, wheat and grapes totals $910,000, according to Joseph C. Schmidt, director of the Harrisburg regional FCIC office.

About 800 insured farmers are in the process of receiving indemnity payments.

Counties included are: Adams, Berks, Chester, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Lancaster, Lebanon, Northumberland, Perry and York.

The most notable program improvement for the 1981 crop year under the new legislation will be the 30 percent discount in premium for those farmers to participate in the shared-cost insurance program as compared to other types of disaster assistance programs, Sharp says.

In general, farmers will be offered a choice of three levels of insurance coverage based upon average crop yields in their area for the past 10 to 15 years. These coverage levels generally will be 50, 65, and 75 percent of average production.

"The premium subsidy will be paid only on coverage up to and including the 65 percent level. Farmers will pay full premium costs for insurance on the increment between 65 percent and 75 percent if they select the highest coverage," Sharp adds.

In addition, farmers will be offered three choices of price election to value any production lost under the insurance plan. The top choice will approximate market price for the commodity being insured and will be determined in advance based upon the best information available, he indicates.

While complete program details are not yet fully determined, producers in areas where crop insurance coverage is now available may begin signing up at any time by contacting their nearest FCIC representative. Additional opportunities will be announced as new counties and new programs are made available, Sharp says.

The FCIC regional office is located at: Harrisburg Regional Office, 75 S.o Houcks Rd., Suite 320 Harrisburg, Pennsylvania 17109; phone 717/782-4803.

Some funds to go to farms

EPA, state sign $172 million agreement

HARRISBURG — Gov. Dick Thornburgh and Evironmental Protection Agency Regional Administrator Jack J. Schramm Monday signed an agreement outlining a joint environmental strategy for the state of Pennsylvania.

As a result of the agreement, an estimated $172 million in federal funds will be flowing into the state for environmental programs during the next twelve months.

The bulk of the funds, about $160 million, would be earmarked for grants to municipalities to fund the construction of publicly-owned sewage treatment plants.

"These funds will be enormously helpful," Thornburgh said, "as we seek to reconcile our environmental and agricultural concerns with our need for continued economic growth in Pennsylvania."

Schramm said that "the agreement, along with the adoption of the state's tough new program to combat illegal dumping of hazardous wastes, indicates that Pennsylvania is committed to protecting its environmental resources from abuse."

In addition to sewage treatment plant construction money, the agreement provides approximately $12 million to operate this and other state environmental programs.

Thornburgh said that Pennsylvania's number one environmental priority is the hazardous waste program. Schramm noted that EPA plans to allocate $2 million to help the Commonwealth put this recently enacted program into operation.

Gov. Thornburgh and Schramm said the agreement should virtually eliminate duplication of state and federal efforts in the grant approval process - thereby freeing local governments from needless paperwork and delay.

Montgomery Grange to meet with legislators

COLLEGEVILLE — The Montgomery County Pomona Grange No. 8 plans a legislative dinner for Friday, October 10.

Grange master Robert Zimmerman announces the occasion to greet local legislators, recognize various legislative actions in which the Grange is interested, and also to mark the 105th anniversary of this Pomona Grange. The public is invited.

The dinner will be at 6:45 p.m., Wismer Hall, Ursinus College, Collegeville. Dinner is available by advance reservation only; tickets can be obtained from Pomona Grange officers and legislative comm. members.

Richard L. James, executive director of the Schuylkill Valley Nature Center, Roxborough, will address the group. His illustrated talk is entitled "The Ultimate Consumer".

Music will be provided by Merle Reitz and Miss Meribah Sweet.

The Pennsylvania State Grange will be represented by master Charles F. Wismer, Jr. He will introduced several local legislators, who will give brief remarks.

During the evening program a local legislator and a service group will be honored for community service by the Pomona Grange, and a subordinate chapter, Keystone No. 2 of Trappe, respectively.

Transmissions That Get The Job Done

The Allison HT 740 and HT 754 offered in Steiger Panther PTA Series tractors from 295-350 Horsepower, offer these unique features for performance and profitability.

- Provides eight or ten ideal field and transport speeds when combined with Steiger's two-speed power divider.
- Converter and automatic lock-up positions in each of the forward ranges. Converter permits tractor to start off with implement in the ground. Lock-up provides maximum efficiency in engine operating range.
- Fully automatic upshifting and downshifting in all forward ranges under full throttle and full load, as drawbar requirements dictate.
- Driveline repairs are significantly reduced.
- No downtime due to mechanical clutch replacement and repair.
- Ease of operation reduces fatigue and improves driver efficiency and comfort.
- Smooth transmission of power extends driveline life by reducing harmful shock loading.

KILE opens 24th annual show

HARRISBURG — The 24th Keystone International Livestock Exposition swung wide it's doors and welcomed a record number of livestock exhibitors and visitors yesterday.

Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Penrose Hallowell was on hand for the kick-off ceremonies and the official declaration of October as Livestock Month.

Friday's events included a first-time event for KILE with the premier Simmental breeding cattle show. Feeder calves and pigs were shown and sold. Other events included the Appaloosa horse show along with two breeding sheep shows, and the Charolais cattle show.

Also on hand was the Etzler sheep driving team and the ever-popular barnyard babies area.

This year's livestock entries showed a marked increase except in the swine division where the pseudorabies moratorium limited exhibitors to feeder pigs and market hogs only.

According to Charles Itle, show director, the number of cattle entered for this year's show totaled 1003, up 150 from last year. Horse numbers came in at nearly 600 head which is about a 200 head increase over the 1979 KILE. Sheep numbers are also up, closing out at 1225 head.

Activities under the spacious Farm Show Complex roof continue to bustle today with more cattle shows, sheep and horse competition and the National 4-H Horse Bowl and Judging Contest. See the show scheduled on page A16.

The Agricultural Craft Show will be making its debut on Sunday, featuring all sorts of crafts that make use of agriculturally-related products. Kit Carson will be there with his hand-painted Ukranian eggs, along with other craftsmen who use everything from corn cobs to wool to create their masterpieces.

Crowning Sunday's activities will be the selection of the Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool Queen. This will be followed by the ever popular Ladies Lead Class and the Junior sheep shearing contest.

Monday wraps up the 24th KILE with more sheep, hogs, cattle and horses.

Alcohol, politics, computers highlight PennAg meeting

HERSHEY — "Anyone contemplating getting into the production of alcohol should be made aware of the economics involved and the possible pitfalls which could develop."

That's the opinion of T. A. Bailey, president of Distillers Feed Research Council, Muscantine, Iowa.

Speaking at the 102nd convention of PennAg Industries Association held here last week, Bailey said that due to the recent energy crunch, corn raisers, who for years had been battling rising costs and lower prices, have been caught up in the dream of higher corn prices.

But for gasohol to be competitive in the fuel market, it has to be subsidized Bailey explained.

"Between 1.55 and 1.80 times as much energy is expended to produce ethanol as is recovered by burning the ethanol," he explained. "And that doesn't include the energy necessary to produce the corn."

Bailey noted that as corn is diverted away from livestock into gas tanks, the livestock will lose the energy, which will probably be replaced by more corn grown. The doubling of the corn demand will cause price increases which will not only put the gasohol plant out of business, but will drastically increase food costs.

In the end, he believes, the "protests of the housewife will drown out the moans of the gasohol entreprenour."

"Use your Congressman first, not last" to fight the regulatory jungle facing ag businessmen today. That was the word from a panel including Jeffrey Boese, Director of Member Services, Indiana Grain and Feed Assoc., Indianapolis, Ind.; Gerald V. Livadas, Manager of Public Affairs and Government Relations, Agway, Inc., Syracuse, NY; and Donald Parke, PennAg Industries Vice-President.

Part of the problem in the past with government regulatory action was that businesses were not politically aware, they noted. In the future, this attitude must change.

There will be seven key states in the political race for President, and Pennsylvania is one of them, according to Bernadette Budde, Director of Political Education, BIPAC, Washington, DC.

"Whoever carries Pennsylvania will have a good chance at winning," she noted. Other key states include New York, Texas, Ohio, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Indiana. She also stated that farm-related groups will be one of the determing factors in many states, deciding which way the state will vote.

Objectives of your farm or farm business need to be analyzed before one decides whether to purchase a small computer. Costs, needs, and business objectives should all be considered, experts noted.

An afternoon session on microcomputers and calculators led by Earl Fuller, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn.; Richard S. Adams, Lester Burdette, and David MacKinsey, all from Penn State, and Sandy MacGilvray, Victor F. Weaver Co., New Holland, showed some of the varied uses of computers in agriculture.

Benefits are not all in dollars and cents though they warned, many of the assets occur in terms of personal satisfaction. But the cash flow will have to stand the purchase of such equipment or competitive needs should be considered. Programmable calculators, and other kinds of farm record books for cash flow may be the answer.

Trucks were also the subject of a special session at the convention. Deregulation, maintenance and accounting were discussed by Tom Mannix, President, Transportation Advisors, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; Ernest Horn III, Pennfield Corporation, Lancaster, William J. Poorbaugh, Poorbaugh Grain, Lancaster, and William D. Angstadt, Reading Bone Fertilizer Co., Reading.

Representing the Governor's Energy Council in Pennsylvania, Robert Shinn told his audience that it is in everybody's best interests to support a plan to help manage the cost and availability of energy prices. A bright future will be maintained if all make a massive commitment to increased energy efficiency, he stressed.

PennAg Industries Association, the state-wide trade association of agribusiness firms, for the first time has over 500 members, it was announced at the general business meeting. The group's 1981 convention will be held September 15 to 17 at The Inn at Buck Hill Falls.

FFA members win at Beaver Fair

The long list of prize winnings include, showing, dairy cattle, market hogs, hay, grains, project books, small display exhibits, and a large FFA exhibit booth.

The individual prize winnings include: FFA large exhibit booth which won a first out of 4 entries. Of the small class exhibits, the Vocational Agriculture classes won a 1st, second, and a fourth place. James Hassinger from McClure took home a sixth place with his dairy heifer and a first place with his entry of grass hay.

BY SHEILA MILLER

FONTANNA — A Lebanon County couple and their 10-year-old Arabian gelding are on their way to a national championship. At least those are the hopes of Karen and Martin Kleiner for their Mishugina Stable equine.

While Karen brushes the gray-turning-white coat of their prize winner Al-Marah Selfras Sun, nick-named "Pudgy", Marty runs down the gelding's long list of accomplishments.

In the four years that Selfras Sun has belonged to the Kleiners, he has been a consistant winner.

In 1979, the Arabian was selected as the Pennsylvania Arabian Horse Association High Point Champion in the Open Show Horse Division, and received the Reserve Champion trophies for Mounted Native Costume and Hunter Horse.

And, with Marta Lipensky astride, last year Selfras Sun took the Reserve Championship in English Pleasure at the Pennsylvania State 4-H Show.

His accomplishments in 1978 followed much the same course, with a PAHA championship in Mounted Native Costume and Open Show Horse and a reserve championship in the Hunter Horse division.

That year, with Karin Shengrund on board, the gelding worked his was to a PAHA reserve championship in the Youth Horse division.

What year end awards are in store for Selfras Sun this year will soon be decided. But with a show record that includes a reserve championship in Native Costume at the Mason-Dixon Show in Quentin and the East Coast championship at Devon, he is well on his way to surpassing his all-time record.

What makes this Arab's show record so outstanding? As Marty explains, Selfras Sun only started on the show road after he was six years old and then he was started slowly.

"We didn't want him to turn sour and hate the show ring so we only took him to a few shows the first year. By the next year, he started coming into the ribbons," Marty explained.

This is completely contrary to the sentiments of the woman from whom the Kleiners purchased Selfras Sun who believed "the horse didn't belong in a show ring".

The Kleiners bought Pudgy from a woman who kept the gelding at a stable near Bloomsburg where Karen stabled her Quarter Horse "Sunny".

"He always seemed spooky ... weird," said Karen. "But later when the opportunity to buy him turned up, I jumped at the chance because I believed he was a good horse. His sire was the leading producer of Arabian brood mares from the famous Al-Mirah Arabians in Barnesville, Maryland."

At the time they bought their first Arabian, Marty and Karen had to squeeze their pennies to afford him. "But he's paid off for us," smiled Karen.

Now the Kleiners have expanded their Arabian stock and have another purebred filly and a new addition named "Spot", their first part-blooded filly.

Three-year-old Saborra lets her presence be known in her stall down the alley way, demanding attention through a series of whinnies. As Karen tells the jealous female to be quiet, she boasts of Saborra's accomplishments.

As a yearling, Saborra was the Reserve State Champion PAHA Hi-Point Halter filly. And a third-place ribbon in the East Coast Futurity adorned this member of Mishugina Stable's halter.

Peering out over the wooden stable door in the stall next to Selfras Sun, the latest addition to the stable is a marked change from either of the two purebred gray Arabians.

The foal, Spot, has part of her Arabian ancestory mixed with the bloodlines of a Paint. One look at this charmer gives her breeding away — her coat is marked with blended patches of red and white.

Even at her young age, Spot has been nominated for five Futurities. Her Egyptian Arabian grandfather was the Reserve National Champion stallion.

The Kleiner stable no longer has Karen's Quarter Horse, Sunny, keeping the Arabians company. Karen recently sold him (he was her first horse, won in 1970 in a county-level 4-H contest) to a Lebanon County 4-H'er.

Before Poco Bar Sundance was given to her, Karen had never had a horse of her own. Her knowledge of horses came through her involvement in the Schuylkill County 4-H club and her summer work experience at a local stable near her home town of Shamokin.

Marty, who was born and raised in the suburbs of Philadelphia, had never ridden a horse before he met Karen. Their paths crossed while they were students on the Bloomsburg College debate team.

"I learned to ride at the riding stable where Karen boarded Sunny. A corrupted 5-gaiter by the name of Dusty taught me how to stay on with his rocking-chair trot," Marty recalled.

"With Karen, it was 'love me, love my horse' so when we got married the horses were part of the deal."

Now, Marty says he is satisfied to let Karen do most of the showing while he takes pictures and "plays" with the horses at home.

When Karen isn't bathing and grooming horses, cleaning tack, or getting the trailer loaded with food and equipment for the weekend shows, she is busy sewing all of her costumes and riding clothes she wears in the show ring.

"My mother bought me my first hunt jacket when I was 15 years old — since then I've made all my riding clothes," she said.

As far as the hectic schedule that showing requires, the Kleiners insist that they show and breed their horses "for the fun of it" and to please themselves.

"The big thing in showing is not to take yourself too seriously — take yourself with a grain of salt," said Marty.

"Someday we hope to have a national champion, but even placing at some of the big shows is satisfying enough," said Karen. At the present time, Selfras Sun is qualified for a national championship in costume, she pointed out.

Next year the Kleiners are planning to go for the Legion of Honor for Selfras Sun. This honor requires the amassing of 75 points, said Marty, and this year the gelding has gotten 23 points to add to the 13 or 14 points he earned in 1978 and 1979.

Karen has ridden Al-Mirah Selfras Sun to win the PAHA Hi-Point Championship in Mounted Native Costume in 1978 and the Reserve Championship in 1979. Karen sews all of her own costumes.

"Once this award is presented at Devon, we plan to retire him in 1982," said Karen

In their four-years of showing, Karen and Marty have experienced the highs and lows of the show ring. One of the things they would like to change about showing in Pennsylvania is the fact that judges here are not required to be certified.

"Just about anybody can be a judge here, with very little qualifications. It's a problem. You pay your money and take your chances on whether your horse will get an honest look and the judge knows enough to do a fair job."

When asked which shows they enjoy more, the Kleiners said they like the professional circuit, the A-shows, best.

"People are more cut-throat at local shows, whereas at the bigger shows the horse people don't have time for dirty tricks," said Marty.

Karen agreed but added that at shows where the professionals are pushed to a must-win mentalitity the shows are not as much fun.

They concluded by advising fellow horse people that it is possible to "win and lose with more grace if they don't push to win constantly. Showing can be a fun and pleasant experience for horse and rider if you just relax."

That's good advice from the editors of the Eastern Amateur Arabian Horse Show Circuit newsletter, "The Circuit Rider".

Karen and Marty will be at the up-coming State 4-H Horse Show, representing the Pennsylvania Arabian Horse Association's 4-H Promotion Committee, as they give away a purebred Arabian gelding to a worthy 4-H member.

"You can't take yourself too seriously when showing" Marty and Karen remark. They pose for a humorous picture, complete with their Springer Spaniel.

The latest edition of the Mishugina Stable is "Spot", a part-blooded Arabian. Karen and Marty have high hopes for her in both Arabian and Paint competitions.

Old fashioned conservation field day slated

GAITHERSBURG, Md. — The Izaak Walton League will hold an old fashioned "conservation field day", Saturday, October 11, at its Lois Green/Sligo chapter grounds in Gaithersburg.

According to Malcolm King, chairman of the event, the purpose of the field day is to preserve the 55-acre open space area using modern conservation practices to protect soil and water quality and to develop it into a wildlife sanctuary.

The focus of the day's activities is the completion of a soil and water conservation plan. Designed by the Montgomery Soil Conservation District and USDA's Soil Conservation Service, the plan includes construction of a one-acre pond, a diversion to channel runoff safely into the pond, a spring development, tree planting and thinning, a one-mile long road on the land's contour, and wildlife habitat improvement.

The Lois Green/Sligo chapter is staking out a nature trail. The "Save Our Streams" program, which King established during his tenure at the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, will carry out a stream stabilization project along a small tributary of Cabin Branch that runs through the property.

The Maryland Wildlife Administration will provide several thousand wildlife trees and shrubs to be planted that day by volunteers. There will also be a hydroseeding demonstration.

In addition to the conservation activities, the field day will feature all the fun and fanfare of an old-fashioned barn raising, says King.

Governor Hughes is expected to declare October 11 "Conservation Day" statewide.

Senator James Clark and Charles Savage will set up a still to demonstrate the production of gasohol from farm crops.

Robert Herbst, Assistant Secretary for Fish, Wildlife and Parks of the Interior Department, will be keynote speaker. Also scheduled to speak is Jack Lorenz, Executive Director of the national Izaak Walton League. The dedication program, at 10 a.m., will be staged at a newly constructed 34'x64' pavilion.

There will be music and exhibits, hay wagon rides, food and prizes, and a drawing for an energy efficient, micro-car.

The site of the field day, 55 acres of farm and forestland off Snouffers School Road in Gaithersburg, was donated to the Sligo chapter by the late Lois Green.

A retired District of Columbia school teacher and conservationist, Mrs. Green deeded an adjoining 220 acres to the county's park and planning commission. Her home, situated on the P&P parcel, predates 1800 and has handsplit ceiling beams. According to a local historian, the stone used in the basement had been ship's balace.

Mrs. Green made her bequests to the League and the county with the stipulation that the land be maintained as open space for farming and wildlife. King, who helped set up one of the first farm game refuge areas on her property in the late 1940's under the old Department of Game and Inland Fish, says the only change the chapter made was to plant some wildlife shrubs.

Last year the concept of a conservation field day began to take form. With King spearheading the effort, the Sligo chapter announced their plans at a statewide meeting of League members in October 1979 and began enlisting help from other organizations.

"The response from individuals and groups wanting to help has been wonderful so far," says King. "We hope to have several hundred volunteers working during the event itself."

Herr takes Southdowns to Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Barbara L. Herr, Narvon, will be an exhibitor at the 1980 North American International Livestock Exposition, according to Harold Workman, Manager of the Expo.

Workman said Herr has entered nine head of Southdown sheep for competition at the North American International, an event which will take place during November 8-22 in Louisville, Kentucky. The NAILE will be held at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center.

The North American International Livestock Exposition is entering its seventh consecutive year this season, and those who compete will vie for more than $250,000 in total premiums and awards. Beef cattle, dairy cattle, swine, Quarter Horses and sheep will be shown during the two-week Exposition. Workman said entries this year promise to break the show record at 12,000 or more.

Livestock activities this year will include: five major Dairy shows; three National Beef shows and open shows for eleven other Beef breeds; four National Sheep shows and open shows for seven Sheep breeds; AQHA, NCHA, and NRHA approved Quarter Horse events and Open Quarter Horse Show; a Purebred Swine show and Market Hog show; Junior Steer show; Feeder Calf Show and Sale; Junior Market Lamb show; and twenty-five major sales for all species.

In addition to the extensive number of livestock which will be at the NAILE, Manager Workman has confirmed that the Great Lakes Circuit Finals Rodeo, school tours, a horseshoe pitching tournament, children's barnyard and an extensive variety of other events, will be featured.

Second year hog showman wins Berks roundup

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

LEESPORT — Karen Smith, an 18 year old student nurse who has been showing hogs for only two years walked away with Grand Champion honors and a check for $1100 for her winning entry at the annual Berks County 4-H Swine Round-up.

Karen became interested in showing hogs through her friends who have been involved in 4-H livestock projects for several years, never dreaming she would top them and every other contender in a countywide show.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith, Shoemakersville, Karen is a 1980 graduate of Hamburg Area High School. She has been a 4-H member for nine years but has not shown livestock until recently.

Her champion hog was a 220 pound Yorkshire gilt which first took middleweight honors during the show judged by Cheryl Moran, Chester County Extension Agent, September 24 at Leesport Market and Auction, here.

Exhibiting the Reserve Grand Champion hog was 15 year old Mark Rohrbach, also of Shoemakersville.

The Reserve grand champion hog was shown by Mark Rohrbach, Shoemakersville. Hatfield Packing buyer, Jerry Clemens bid it up to $2.70 per pound.

The Grand champion market hog was a 220 pound York gilt shown by Karen Smith, Shoemakersville. Buyer who paid $5.00 per pound was Wayne Shabler.

Mark's hog was a Duroc crossbred gilt weighing 225 pounds, which captured reserve middleweight champion honors earlier during the show, placing behind the Champion twice.

Mark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rohrbach, and a 10th grade student at Hamburg Area High School. He has been showing hogs for about six years even though his family operates a dairy, milking about 45 head.

Buyer of the champion gilt was Wayne Shabler Trucking, Hamburg, out bidding other potential buyers with a bid of $5.00 per

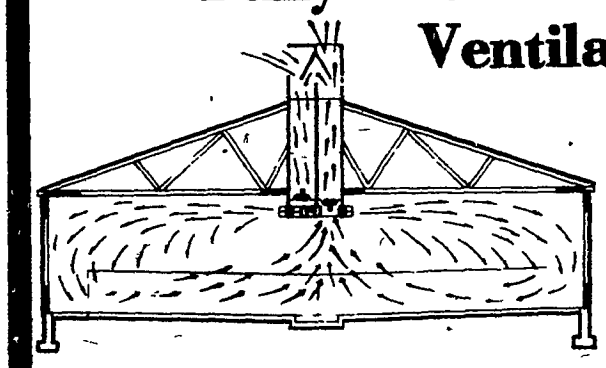
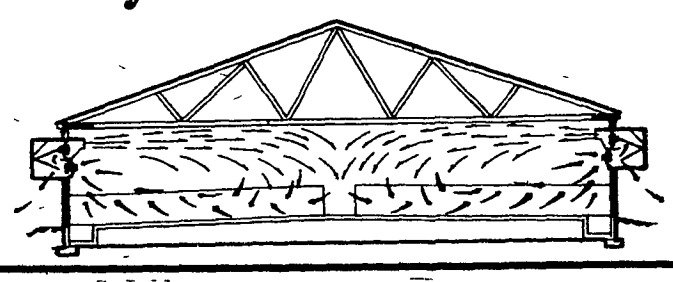
'MARTIN-AIR' PATENT PENDING

Fully Automatic Total Confinement Ventilation Systems





A unique air blending process provides even temperatures and controlled, draft-free air flow.

- Reduce animal stress
- End temperature fluctuations
- Reduce drug costs
- Reduce incidence of pneumonia and disease
- Reduce labor
- Lower condensation
- Confine manuring

Why The 'Martin-air' System is best for you

The success of Martin-air systems rests on a different concept than that used by most ventilation designs. Others work by exhausting air completely then drawing cold air from outside—usually at the other end of the barn. Martin-air units use an exclusive damper system which mixes fresh air and exhaust air so the output of the unit is never more than 4°F different from the room temperature. And, at any given spot in a properly designed barn, the temperature should seldom vary more than 1°.

The Martin-air principle is simple and effective. Thermostats control fan speed and a dampered mixing chamber to blend fresh air with warm air. Constant circulation throughout the building maintains uniform temperature, eliminates drafts and reduces condensation to provide a dry environment.

'Martin-air' can fill your specific needs

No matter what your livestock confinement requirements, a Martin-air System can be designed and installed to fulfill your needs. Systems are designed to create a stable, draft-free environment based on building architecture, insulation, number of animals, and all heat sources. Successful installations are operating in many calf barns, dairy houses, hog, poultry and rabbit operations and even horse barns.

Martin-air units are available in a wide range of ceiling or wall-mount models and each installation is carefully designed by ventilation specialists.

Martin-air ventilation can be installed in any existing building you may be using for livestock confinement, even old bank barns.

Erosion control clout changes hands

BY SHEILA MILLER

HARRISBURG — The enforcement responsibilities of the state's erosion and seimentation control program changed hands October 1, 1980, announced Walter Peechatka, Executive Secretary of the State Conservation Commission.

Transferring of this responsibility from the Department of Environmental Resources' Bureau of Water Quality Management to their Bureau of Soil and Water Conservation was the decision of DER Secretary Clifford Jones. His decision received the endorsement of the Conservation Commission at its meeting on July 9, 1980.

From October 1, then, the Bureau of Soil and Water Conservation will have the responsibility of handling the entire erosion and sedimentation program, from minor complaints to inspection and enforcement action on serious violations.

According to Peechatka, the Bureau will not be getting any personnel transferred from Water Quality to handle the extra work load. However, the Bureau will be filling several position vacancies that Water Quality is transferring to them.

"The Commission staff will have little increase," stated Peechatka. "I'm not optimistic about having a lot more staff to run the program."

How then will the program be carried out under the new Bureau? Peechtaka said he hopes to see more involvement from local Conservation Districts in enforcing the program.

"At the present time, we have twenty-six Districts in the state that already have inspection authority for the program," he said.

As an incentive to become involved, the state has $100,000 available to Districts for cost-sharing an executive assistant program, Peechataka stated. "Each county's funding will be determined by their level of involvement and how much they will be helping the Bureau with the erosion and sedimentation control program," he said.

The details of this "sophisticated system" for delving out dollars will be outlined at the October 6-8 annual meeting to be held at Pocono Manor, Peechatka added.

Whether or not a District will opt for just referring complaints to the Bureau staff or go for the ultimate Level 6 responsibility which involves total county-level enforcement will be the decision of the local board members, he pointed out.

In those Districts that have already assumed the whole responsibility, Peechatka said the effectiveness of the program ranges from outstanding to marginal. He eluded to the fact that most Districts face a 30 to 35 percent turnover rate each year in executive assistants. "Districts don't offer much career opportunity so there's not much incentive to stay."

As a result, he said, the statewide training program hasn't kept pact with the new personnel rate. This may soon be remedied through a certification program, similiar to that for sewage enforcement, Peechatka noted.

Helping the Districts with the technical reviews of erosion and sedimentation plans will be the Soil Conservation Service's county staff. This branch of the US Department of Agriculture has been assisting Districts in their conservation efforts for nearly half a century.

Peechatka pointed out some of the reason behind the move from Water Quality to the Bureau of Soil and Water Conservation for carrying out the erosion and sedimentation program was the result of the low priority it received in Water Quality.

"Water Quality had eight or nine other programs besides erosion and sedimentation control to take care of. In assigning priorities, controlling sediment was given the lowest ranking. I'm not criticizing them for this assignment — there are more severe problems, like dumping toxic wastes.

"Secretary Jones however, knows the interest the Bureau has in conservation and controlling erosion, so we were given the program. He knows we'll give it the proper priority and follow-up."

"We hope to bring the program up to speed during the first few months with our present staff and hope we keep from sinking in the mud. In the long run, between the Commission and the Districts, I believe we'll see a better program."

4-H Week October 5-11

National 4-H Week: "Expanding Horizons"

LANCASTER — Throughout the nation, more than five million 4-H'ers are observing National 4-H Week, October 5-11, with the theme "Expanding Horizons."

In Lancaster County, 4-H has 2,685 members in its regular projects and 1,365 members enrolled through the Expanded Foods and Nutrition Program for a total of 4,050 members who have chosen projects in over 100 subject areas to learn new skills. In Pennsylvania, there are 92,872 members.

To carry out the program in Lancaster County, a total of 537 volunteer leaders served in 1980 in teaching the projects and guiding the young people, from ages 8-18, as they participated in regular club meetings, special events and other activities designed to enhance their leadership abilities and help them learn responsibility. Throughout the state there are over 12,000 volunteer leaders.

In Lancaster County over 4,569 projects were carried out by members during the course of the year.

Four-H is changing from a strictly rural organization to one which meets the needs of all young people. In 1980, in Lancaster County, the highest number of members were living in small towns and open country; the next largest lived on farms; followed by towns of over 10,000 population and central cities. Diversity of projects reflects this changing character of members.

Throughout the week members of the nation's largest out-of-school educational youth organizations are taking part in special activities that focus on the values of 4-H.

The theme challenges members to seek new knowledge, acquire life skills and build on personal strength. Members are encouraged to strengthen their citizenship and leadership abilities and to assume positive roles in a free democratic society.

4-H members learn-by-doing, becoming involved in a variety of practical, real life activities. Programs vary according to youth needs and community resources.

4-H is the youth education program of the Cooperative Extension Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the land grant universities.

Boyd said that 4-H has played an important part in his life and not just in the 4-H projects and county and state activities. Boyd was an International Farm Youth Exchange delegate to Korea and one of his greatest contributions to the 4-H program was in developing the worldwide youth program while he served for six years as 4-H program director for the American Korean Foundation in Korea.

Boyd states, "A great part of my life has been dedicated to 4-H, and I know the value of 4-H to the kids."

In his present position, Boyd actively supports area 4-H fund raising and development programs.

As a 4-H member, the alumni recognition winner was involved in 13 project categories including livestock, field crops, small fruits, apiary, poultry, soil conservation, tractor and electrical maintenance.

These projects required an investment of over $15,000. Through careful management and skills learned through 4-H work, they netted over $4,000 profit. He completely financed his undergraduate college work with proceeds from his 4-H projects.

Darvin Boyd

Boyd was state 4-H achievement winner, receiving an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago; was selected to attend the National 4-H Conference in Washington, D.C.; attended the National Youthpower Congress in Chicago; and was president of the Lancaster County 4-H Council.

Boyd received a bachelor of science degree in animal husbandry from the Delaware Valley College of Science and Agriculture and master of public administration degree from Penn State.

Boyd serves as a member of the agriculture and land use committee of the Lancaster Association of Commerce and Industry and as vice chairman of the Lancaster City-County Human Relations Committee.

Boyd is married to the former Linda Stehman, of Lititz.

Leaders learn with 4-H'ers

NORRISTOWN — "In 4-H...it's kids that count!" the poster says. But so do the leaders. Volunteer leaders are vital to Pennsylvania's 4-H program.

What do 4-H leaders do? Leaders teach a variety of skills to 4-H Club members - skills which a 4-H'er can use all of his life - from cooking and woodworking to public speaking and leadership. But the club members aren't the only learners. Leaders learn just as much as their "students". "We 'learn by doing' just as the kids do," said Gail Malsbury, a Berks County Pennsylvania 4-H leader. "I really like working with kids," she said. "I especially like seeing them come to me at 13, all gangling, and then leave me at 18 as young adults. It's satisfying to know you've been part of that growth."

4-H leaders have as much fun as their youngsters. "My work keeps me more involved and interesting - it keeps me young," said Mrs. Malsbury. "And I get to go to places I wouldn't otherwise get to see like Massachusetts and Washington, and the people I meet are super."

"That's the same with me," Dorothy Strickler, another Berks County leader agreed. Mrs. Strickler decided to start a 4-H Club years ago. "You see, I have several daughters," she explained, "and when they were younger they had nothing to do since we live in the country - away from many activities. I though 4-H was a worthwhile thing to do and started a club which is mostly in Home Economics."

Mrs. Strickler gets a great deal, of satisfaction out of her 4-H Club work. "What really satisfies me," she said, "was when one of my daughters (recently married) told me, 'Mom, I'm so glad I had 4-H. Since I can cook, we don't have to go out and eat."

4-H is for everyone - kids and adults. October 5-11 is National 4-H Week, and Pennsylvania's more than 12,000 4-H Club leaders should be commended for their fine work.

New Holland

Kim, 14, was also a class winner. Her 990-pound Angus took first in the lightweight division. The brother and sister team got their steers in December from the Carl McIntyre farm in Virginia.

Kim and Kevin are the children of Betsy Lengel, R1 East Earl, and Mark McGlauflin, West Chester.

The heavyweight champion was shown by Janae Martin, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Martin, R3 New Holland. Her 1310-pound entry was a purebred Hereford.

In the well-attended sale at New Holland Livestock Sales Stables, the grand champion was purchased by Willie the Butcher for $1.57 a pound, totaling $1,790. The reserve champion was sold to Weaver Martin for $1.01, totaling $1,085.

Top price in the beef sale was $2.40 a pound, paid by People's Restaurant, New Holland, for a third-place heavyweight shown by Emily Weaver. The 1200-pound steer brought a whopping $2,680.

The baby beef sale average was $1.15 a pound.

Jim Martin, who showed the grand champion in the pig feeding competition, is the son of Mrs. Mary Martin, R2 New Holland. In his sixth year of competition, this marked his first grand champion. He previously won two reserve grand championships.

His grand champion also went to Willie the Butcher for $5 a pound. Average at the pig sale was $1.13 with the champion and 77 cents without the top sale.

Competition in the pig feeding roundup was somewhat curtailed when six head were eliminated. These entries had come off a farm with pseudorabies problems.

Milk price support at 80% of parity

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Manufacturing milk will be supported at 80 percent of the October 1 parity price, according to Ray Fitzgerald, executive vice president of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation.

The exact support price will be determined after USDA's Sept. 30 "agricultural prices" report is released.

However, Fitzgerald said, USDA economists expect the support price will be about $12.73 per hundredweight for milk with a milkfat content of 3.5 percent, compared with the present support of $12.67.

The $12.73 support price is equivalent to $13.03 for milk with 3.67 percent milkfat, the U.S. annual average, compared with the present support of $12.36 at average test, he said.

Fitzgerald said the law requires the price of milk be supported between 80 and 90 percent of parity in order to assure an adequate supply of milk, to reflect changes in the cost of production, and to assure dairy farmers an income that will enable them to maintain sufficient productive capacity to meet anticipated future needs.

To enable manufacturing plants, on the average, to pay producers at least the support price for their milk, the government offers to buy butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk at announced prices. The government purchase price will be announced at the same time as the milk support price, Fitzgerald said.

Moratorium lifted

Unless a new outbreak of the disease would once again require a moratorium, the Farm Show will be having a breeding swine show on Saturday, January 10 and bred gilt sales the following Monday and Tuesday.

The show and sales are open to all pigs with the following stipulations:

Entries must be from either a qualified pseudorabies negative herd, or must have a pseudorabies blood test that is negative within 30 days of exhibition.

The PDA spokesperson commented that it was felt the consequence of not lifting the moratorium would pose a more serious economic threat to the swine industry than the potential spread of disease from carefully regulated shows.

Speaking for the swine breeders he represents, Dennis Grumbine emphasized the fact that a lot of hogs change hands at the Farm Show. He added the purebred breeder has not been able to exhibit swine at most of the state's fairs all Summer.

"To continue the moratorium now - we'd be spinning our wheels and it would only be an economic hardship for the purebred breeder who participates in the state's health programs."

Grumbine, voiced his concern that if the moratorium was not lifted, fairs would soon take a negative attitude toward hog shows. "They wouldn't want to count on us to fill their barns because they wouldn't know if the hogs would show up."

The Swine Breeders Association president stated he felt there needs to be a federal policy established on pseudorabies so that all states are uniform. "As it stands now, we could have taken our hogs to New York, Ohio, Maryland and New Jersey and shown them, but not here."

He explained that Pennsylvania swine breeders and PDA reacted to the pseudorabies outbreak in a similar way to the reaction the disease brought to the Midwest when it was first discovered.

"We got excited and quarantined everything. But there's no real way of finding out where you're going to or coming from.

"Now, out in the Midwest, they treat pseudorabies like a common cold. If it turns up in a herd, the reactors are culled and go to slaughter under permit. The other pigs that have negative tests after two bleedings are back on the market within 30 days."

Grumbine emphasized that the consumers who come to Farm Show 1981 to buy hogs are coming to a safe market. "There's no safer place to buy," he said, pointing out the fact that all the hogs had to be tested for brucellosis and psuedorabies.

In consideration of the swine breeders and BAI recommendations, PDA has recommended the psuedorabies moratorium be lifted. Further definitions for moving interstate swine will be discussed at the January meeting of the Pa. State Association of County Fairs.

Invest in the future

UNIVERSITY PARK — Without question, 4-H is an investment in today's children who will soon be tomorrow's adults.

4-H involves 156,000 boys and girls in Pennsylvania each year in citizenship, animal care, clothing, entomology, nutrition and a long list of other projects. Yet those 156,000 represent only 6% of Pennsylvania's youth.

4-H could reach many more youngsters, but it needs additional resources to train more volunteer leaders and to develop new programs to meet new needs.

The purpose of The Friends of 4-H is to provide the 4-H program with additional resources.

Interested in becoming a member of The Friends of 4-H? For more information write to: Executive Director, Friends of 4-H, The Pennsylvania State University, 405 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802.

Cindy Risser captures state gardening award

LEOLA — Gardening may be a dreaded chore for most people, but to Lucinda Risser, 16, it's been a favorite pasttime as well as a way of capturing the state gardening contest winner title.

Cindy, who has compiled an outstanding record in 4-H work, won the award at the 1980 4-H National Awards Program.

To receive her award, Cindy completed projects in 13 categories. Some of her favorites are: vegetables, strawberries, cooking, geology, swine, dairy, and teen leadership.

Cindy said, "Horticulture is probably the one I enjoyed the most because I was on the state horticulture judging team for 2 years.

Cindy will be eligible to attend National 4-H Congress in Chicago, November 30 to December 4. At nationals, the top 18 4-H'ers will have their trip completely paid, and the top 8 will each receive a $1000 scholarship.

Cindy, who was picked from among the 106,000 youth who annually take part in the 4-H program, was judged on the basis of project work, leadership ability and participation in county and state activities. She won a $75 U.S. Savings Bond for her efforts.

The young gardener is the daughter of Allen and Ida Risser. She is a senior at Manheim Township High School.

Cindy, winner of the state gardening award, enjoys working with bushes as well as vegetables and fruits.

As a member of the Manheim 4-H Club, she has been in 4-H for eight years. She has served as president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, news reporter and recreation leader.

Locally Cindy took part in the 4-H achievement day, dairy roundup, exchange program and leadership banquet.

She has participated in the State 4-H Achievement Days, Pennsylvania 4-H Leadership Congress, Regional 4-H Demonstration Day and Citizenship Short Course.

She also took part in the National Junior Horticultural Convention and is the president of the State Junior Horticulture Association.

As part of her 4-H projects, Cindy maintains a 500 square foot garden at her home in Leola. For her cooking experience, she frequently holds 4-H cooking meetings at her home.

As for the future, Cindy is quite content to continue in 4-H for now. Eventually, she plans to attend college where she hopes to incorporate everything she has learned in 4-H by studying science and engineering.

Cumberland County sets DHIA banquet

BOILING SPRINGS — The Cumberland County Dairy Herd Improvement Association will hold its annual meeting on Thursday evening November 20.

The dinner meeting will be held at the South Middleton Firehall, just West of Boiling Springs. Dairy refreshments will be available at 6:30 p.m. and the meal will be served at 7 p.m.

At the meeting the high herds on DHIA test in the county will be announced. Dairymen who have the high herd in milk and in fat production; high cow in milk production; high cow in fat production; and high two year old in milk and fat production will be honored.

The public is welcome to attend.

Tickets to the dinner can be purchased from Cumberland County DHIA supervisors, DHIA directors, or the County Ag Extension Office, 1100 Claremont Road, Carlisle.

It sometimes take two to convince prospective blue ribbon winners that the thrill of victory is worth the scrubbing, clipping and combing.

Clipping a Suffolk ewe makes Walt Johnson of Alliance, Ohio smile, but the ewe seems to be voicing her objections to the whole ordeal.

Adams Farmers' Assn. sets annual meeting

BENDERSVILLE — Six directors will be elected and more than 14 policies voted on at the Thirtieth Annual Adams County Farmers' Association Meeting to be held beginning with dinner at Bendersville Fire Hall, Monday, October 6 at 7 p.m.

The business meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Meal tickets are by reservation only.

Delegates to the Annual Pennsylvania Farmers' Association Meeting, to be held at the Hershey Convention Center November 23 to 26, will be chosen.

President Guy Donaldson, R3 Gettysburg, will be presenting his annual report as well as many other Committee Chairmen.

The ACFA is active in community affairs and is a lobbying organization working to secure favorable legislation for the rural community. It also offers many business services to its nearly 800 county farm families.

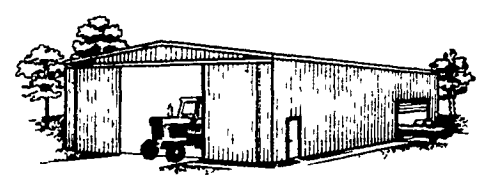
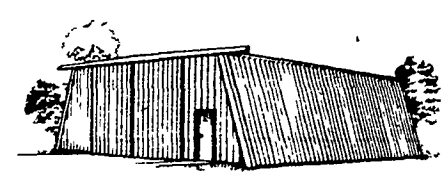
ATTENTION FARMERS! ADVANCED AG SYSTEMS INTRODUCES CIRCLE STEEL BUILDINGS





DO YOU REALLY NEED A STORAGE BUILDING THIS GOOD?

If you could afford a new building every 10 years, a Circle Steel building wouldn't be necessary. But most farmers make an investment in a building that will last longer than 10 years...many are investing in Circle Steel to get that longer life with less yearly maintenance.

If you want long-term return on your building investment, make it a Circle Steel...from already got some inquiries from other parts of the state relating to the hay situation and the fact that hay is available at this time. Dairymen depend upon quality hay for large amounts of their nutrient needs. Also, sheep producers may not have sufficient hay for their breeding flocks. Some attention to hay needs at this time is in order.

TO BEWARE OF VENTILATION PROBLEMS

Cooler weather is here and colder weather is on it's way. This could mean some ventilation problems for livestock and dairy producers. When the outside temperatures drop we can get considerable sweating, or condensation, on windows and ceilings. This usually means the lack of proper insulation, or insufficient air circulation. Condensation is hard on the wooden structures of a building and could mean too much humidity. Exhaust fans are widely used to pull out the foul air and bring in fresh air through ducts or special inlets. Proper ventilation is very important for good herd health and efficient production. Don't wait until zero weather arrives to check your ventilation situation.

"Harvestall Chillcuring works.

I get better quality corn for less cost."

Clarence Harnish, Lampeter, Pa.

This was my first year with the Harvestall When my corn was dried commercially last year it cost me 27¢ per bushel With the Harvestall it didn't cost over 6' ¢ per bushel and the test weight was 58 to 59 lbs

I'm pleased with the quality corn I get and I'm pleased with the savings. I would recommend the Harvestall system to farmers who are looking for storage or drying, because it has done for me the job it was designed to do

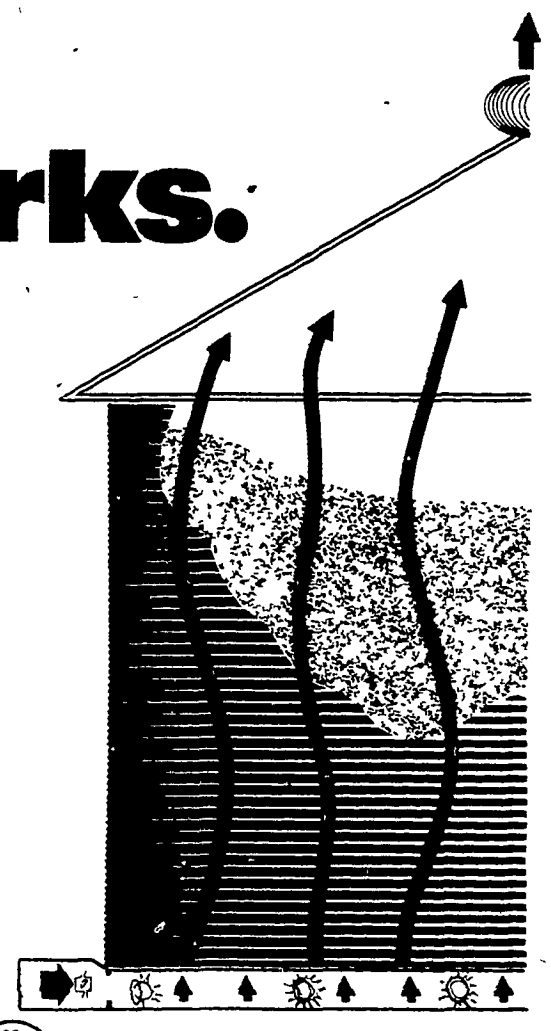
CALL NOW TO GET THIS YEAR'S CROP IN A HARVESTALL.



The Harvestall Chillcuring System

It's simple. When grain comes out of the field it's a living seed. So instead of destroying the seed with high heat, moisture is removed with natural air ventilation. The grain keeps all its feed value; there is less shrinkage than with heat drying because only moisture is removed, not dry matter. You'll never see white dust in Chillcured corn. You actually save half of what you're used to losing in heat shrink.

There's no gas or oil to buy. Natural air carries away heat and moisture as the corn releases it.

Harvestall Chillcuring is a back-to-basics system that just simply makes good sense. Find out more about it.

Millborn Farm dominates NY Hereford show

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Millborn Farm, Sherborn, Massachusetts, dominated the Hereford breeding show at the recent New York State Fair.

Judge A. I. Eller, Jr. of the Animal Science Department at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va., selected the spring yearling, MBF L1 Dom 460, sired by MBF L1 Brooks 290, as grand champion bull.

The reserve grand champion award went to the senior yerling, POW Mr Britisher 386 by JV Britisher 221, shown by Powisset Farm, Dover, Mass. They also exhibited the junior champion bull, a senior calf, POW Mr Britisher 35 H, by JV Britisher 221.

The reserve junior champion bull was a junior calf, GH Prospector 3530 by RH Prospector 7002, shown by Woodbury Stock Farm and owned by Timothy J. Dennis, Penn Yan, N.Y.

Both the grand and reserve grand champion females came from the spring yearling class.

The top honor and senior championship went to MBF L1 Miss Dom 461, by MBF L1 Brooks 290 and shown by Millborn Farm. The reserve honors went to another Millborn entry, MBF L1 Miss Dom 456, also by MBF L1 Brooks 290.

The junior champion female was a junior calf, GH MS Prospect 2360, by RH Prospector 7002 and shown by Woodbury Stock Farm.

The reserve junior champion was a senior calf, POW MS Britisher 38H, out of JV Britisher 221 and shown by Powisset Farm.

Millborn Farm was named premier exhibitor and premier breeder, and won the best six-head class, pair-of-yearlings and get-of-sire. with the Get of MBF L1 Brooks 290.

Powisset Farm won the two bulls and pair-of-calves class.

Woodbury Stock Farm was the winner of the New York Special for the best two-head bred and owned by a New York State exhibitor.

Diane Stape of Stanley won the New York Junior Hereford Showmanship Contest.

Other first-place winners were: summer yearling heifer, Millborn Farm; winter bull calf, Woodbury Stock Farm; summer yearling bull, Millborn Farm.

Shonely wins goat show

NORRISTOWN — "Ambie", a two year old Nubian Crossbred Doe, owned by Margaret Schonely, Barto, won the Grand Champion of Show honors at the Montgomery County 4-H Dairy Goat Show held recently in Lansdale. She also won the Champion Senior Doe title.

Reserve Grand Champion went to "Missy" a Yearling Crossbred Alpine shown by Christy Heffner of Palm, who also won Reserve Champion Senior Doe.

The Champion Junior Doe was "Alicia", a three-month-old Nubian owned by Jennifer Blum of Harleysville. The Reserve Champion Junior Doe was "Ginger", a three-month-old half-Nubian doe bid shown by Carol Weaver of Harleysville.

Champion Fitter honors went to Margaret Schonely, Barto, Barb Warner, Palm, won both Champion Showman and Reserve Champion Fitter, while Dana Trumbower of Hatboro won Reserve Champion Showman.

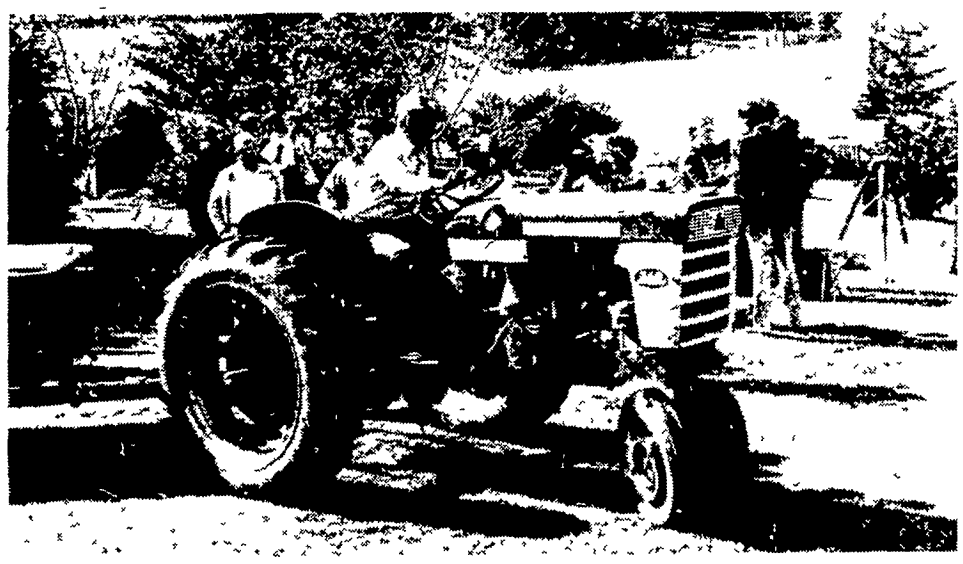
Farmers use straight alcohol as fuel



Seeing is believeing. Frank Goodlander maneuvers his Farmall 340 around the fields outside of Lewisberry. The demonstration was sponsored by York County FUEL, a farmer cooperative.

Plenty of urban reporters were interested in the innovations of the York County alcohol cooperative. Here Frank Goodlander, Lewisberry, explains the operation of his alcohol powered tractor.

learn by doing in 4-H

George Hoke, president of York County FUEL, gets ready for a spin in an alcohol-powered pickup. In the truck's bed is Albert Bentz, owner of the vehicle which has 1000 miles of alcohol fueled driving behind it.

Stewart sentenced to 5 year prison term

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Former University of Maryland Professor Wolcott E. Stewart, president and sole stockholder of Exchange Market Traders, a commodity broker from Laurel, Maryland was sentenced on Tuesday for 5 years imprisonment for each of three counts of mail fraud.

Stewart was charged ten months ago and indicted by Federal Grand Jury in Baltimore, Maryland on 14 counts of Mail Fraud.

The indictment charged that during a three-month period from March, 1978 to June, 1978, Stewart contracted with farmers in Maryland and Pennsylvania to provide their grain to graineries in Baltimore and Salisbury, Maryland and in McGaheysville and Harrisonburg, Virginia.

Stewart then instructed the graineries to make payment directly to him for the delivered grain. Upon receiving payment for the grain, Stewart deposited the money into his own personal account and used the money for his personal gain.

Stewart was arrested by Postal Inspectors on January 17,1980.

Stewart was convicted on July 11, 1980 of swindling 40 farmers out of $200,000 worth of grain. He was convicted on three counts of Mail Fraud; the jury was unable to reach a decision on the eleven other counts.

Stewart is appealing the case.

Heistands show grand champ Charolais bull

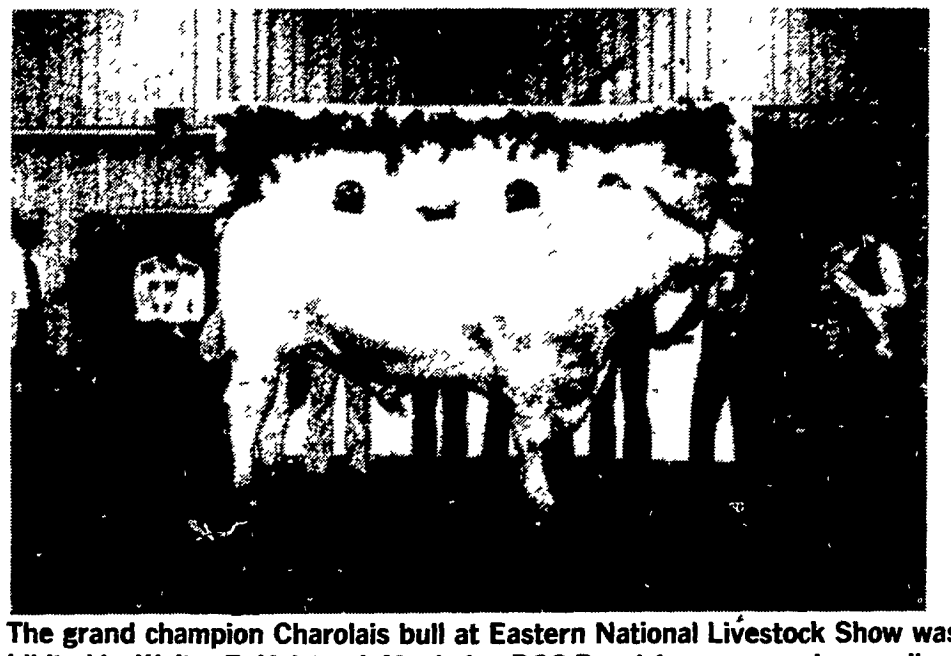
Competing first in the senior yearling class, the bull was named senior champion on his way to the purple ribbon. Team of judges John Mitchell, Loshkonong, Mo.; Miles McKee, Manhattan, Kansas; and William Gray, Shellsburg, then picked him as the best bull at the show.

Reserve grand champion bull was a Royal Charolais entry, RCC Royal Constructor I, a late yearling.

Grand champion female was awarded to RCC Royal Temptress, also shown by the Royal Charolais Co. Reserve champion female was shown by J.C. Enterprises, showing Riverwood Jane 819.

As part of the show, a Charolais heifer, donated by the Royal Charolais Co. was sold, with the proceeds of the sale going to the Junior programs of the Eastern National Livestock Show. The calf sold for $1250 to Dr. Herman Purdy, Alexandria. —KBA.



The grand champion Charolais bull at Eastern National Livestock Show was exhibited by Walter E. Heistand, Manheim. RCC Royal Jaguar, a senior yearling, was one of the Royal Charolais Co. get that swept the Charolais competition in Timonium on Monday.

Milk marketing

statewide milk production volume of 7.9 billion pounds.

If the assessment were set at one percent, the amount of promotional funds would total about $9.5 million.

Federal order promotion revenue in the state yielded about $2.5 million up to July 1. Following various assessment increases in mid-year the federal revenue total is expected to increase to about $4.3 million.

Secretary Hallowell set the stage for the discussion of the assessment figure by favoring an amount that would yield more funds than are presently being generated through the federal orders.

Under discussion of the method of collecting the assessment funds, it is expected that dealers would be utilized as agents for the collection. If the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board were to become involved in the collection, an amendement from the General Assembly would be needed in the milk marketing act. This would likely take about two years to enact.

Some discussion was also directed at whether there should be some form of compensation for dealers and co-ops who act as the collection agents. The potential exists for some form of compensation, but no firm concensus was expressed concerning this item.

A question was asked concerning the possibility of 75 percent of the members of a co-op voting to oppose the collection of the assessment. It was explained that an injunction could be sought to enforce the collection regulation and further refusal could bring a contempt citation.

Under the use of funds, it was pointed out that administrative costs are limited to five percent. In the use of funds for advertising and promotion, nutritional education and research, the present programs of existing statewide dairy promotion groups would likely be basically utilized, with a portion of funds retained to attempt new and different efforts.

The advisory committee, which is an unofficial group, also discussed the formation of a permanent Advisory Board, which would oversee any marketing program.

Size of the permanent board will likely range between 20 and 25 members. Some difference of opinion was expressed concerning membership on this board. Secretary Hallowell and the larger co-ops favor a weighted membership, with the number of representatives dependent on the number of producers or the volume of milk produced.

Smaller farm groups favor a non-weighted method of selecting members. If a weighted method were used, smaller groups could pool members to gain representation and independents could be represented geographically, also based on producer population.

General concensus favored funds flowing into those market areas where consumers are located. In this way, funds could also be utilized outside the state, but there would be no conflict of expenditures between two states with programs, such as Pennsylvania and New York.

Overall objective of any promotional program would be to increase the consumption of milk and other dairy products and not to promote one state's milk over another.

But the group did favor some possible labeling effort to define the country of origin of products in order to help combat the competition from imported dairy products.

The permanent Advisory Board under any program would act as the overall overseer of how monies were spent, likely following present promotional themes of existing dairy organizations and reserve some funds for new research or marketing efforts.

The need was also expressed that educational efforts could be exerted in the state's system of schools to stress proper handling of milk so that students are getting quality products.

After the draft proposal is completed and reviewed by all of the state's farm and dairy organizations, the informal advisory committee will meet again to present their individual comments and make any changes in the draft.

This second meeting will be held in the latter part of November.

Following the completion of a final draft, Secretary Hallowell would give notice of a public hearing.

The actual referendum vote could come late in January and the final tally of how producers cast their ballots sometime in March.—DA tri-axle trucks moved. It permits a maximum gross weight of 60,000 pounds on state highways but not on Interstates.

SB 1253 prohibits state or local governments from passing any law which would require farmers fence livestock from streams. It was sent to the Governor for his signiture.

HB 1608, which would give farmers exemption from the one percent capital stock franchise tax levied on the total assets of family held corporate farms, moved to third reading.

Amendments were offered which would expand the bill to include certain small businesses. The amendments could be withdrawn if they were seen to endanger the bill's passage.

Observers on the Hill said there should be sufficient time to get the bill passed next week which will be the last week lawmakers are in town until after the election.

There also is a chance the solons may return for a brief session after the election recess.

Al Meyers, Pennsylvania Farmers' Association's public affairs director said this year's round of lawmaking was one of the most successful legislative sessions in history.

He had just returned from seeing the General Assembly approve a joint resolution supporting import quotas on foreign mushooms. The resolution asks for action on the recommendations by the International Trade Commission.

Both the PFA and Grange lobby are keeping tabs on HB 1608 which is the only major farm bill yet to recieve the nod from lawmakers.

Its passage would round out a fine term for farmers on the Hill.

$2.00 per MINUTE FOR PART TIME WORK

putting soft rock phosphate on your stable manure daily, or weekly in pens It produces much better than when they are applied separately A state agricultural experiment station claims more than twice as much on tomatoes $6 to $10 for an extra ton of manure for 3 to 5 minutes work at home is "you name it" It is yours

The vast amount of mineral and trace elements in soft rock phosphate strengthen the bacteria in the manure and it retains the ammonia (nitrogen) starting the first day, and it buffers the acid The manure makes the phosphate available faster like chemical fertilizer but without the toxic effect Only $95 per ton in bags We also have it in bulk at $85 Custom spreading about $10 per ton locally It supplies the phosphorus to balance the high potash from manure Also high in calcium We have excellent reports from it Some say it grows their best corn Others say the crop is just as good this dry year as it was last year it doesn't burn Gives considerably more protein, disease & bug resistance, better health in livestock which eat the crop

The price is cheap, not because it isn't good, but because it comes direct from the mines instead of through a blending plant It doesn't leach or dissipate so apply in the fall for next year for best results Excellent for all crops Our big repeat business proves it

SOIL COMPACTION, TIGHT SOILS & HARDPAN GREATLY RETARD YIELDS OF COURSE

Bacteria cannot breed, multiply & function right Rain & roots cannot penetrate

NATIONAL AG SOIL TREATMENT liquid spray opens it up Lets water down in swamps by breaking hard pan. Then the spongy subsoil holds water that comes up in drought like a wick effect Mellows lumpy clay banks Money back guarantee if no improvement Dealers wanted in other counties & states

LOST & FOUND - bacteria lost because of chemicals are found in our BX liquid spray to replace those that were lost. Can be used in same tank as man came here with his chemicals?, Farmers report bigger & healthier crops with less than half of the former fertilizer, or on side by side tests Dealers wanted in other areas We have a combination of materials that really work, especially noticeable in drought & storm, in comparison to others Our blended Fertrell is also excellent where needed Our soil testing here at the shop tells us what you need We are working and advising for your profit first so that you can survive & city people stay alive Free Literature

Letters To The Editor

Dear editor:

Our office represents A. Ray Mellot and his son, Gregory Mellot. In a story appearing in Lancaster Farming, dated September 20, 1980, you report Mr. Ray Mellott's and his son, Gregory's "relinquishing of (a) dealership license..."

This story is erroneous in three respects and, on behalf of our clients, we demand a published correction. Ray Mellott did not relinquish his license "in the wake of a scheduled PDA hearing..." He took this action because his health prevented him from taking part in any hearing until at least November. Secondly, Ray Mellott has not agreed to assist in tracing any brucellosis-infected animals, since he has never had or sold a brucellosis infected cow in the third (30) years he has been in farming. Third, Greg Mellott, and his brother, Chris, because their father gave up his license, were both granted dealer's licenses by PDA on September 18, 1980.

It is irresponsible journalism for you to print a story of this type without at least checking the facts with the subjects of the story, namely the Mellott's. This story has caused the Mellot's both economic and emotional distress. Consequently, a correcton is demanded in the next issue of your paper.

Theodore A. Adler, P.C.
Harrisburg

Editor's note: The Agriculture Department has issued a separate livestock dealer's license to Gregory and Christopher Mellott, sons of A. Ray Mellott. Lancaster Farming has rechecked the article with the Agriculture Department and stands by its story.

Dear Editor:

Thank you for your support through the editorial "Farmers must plunge into Octorara studies" of August 16, 1980, of our efforts to get local people involved with the study of the Octorara for Scenic Stream designation.

Our experience with the Schuylkill River and French Creek situations strongly points to the need for local interests to be the lead in these studies, not the Department of Environmental Resources. DER function should be limited to resource assistance.

The Chester County Planning Commission believes this stream is a valuable resource. It is at present relatively unspoiled. Experience shows urbanization often changes these attributes. Development is a slow process, and we tend to adjust to it with little notice it is taking place. We feel now is the time for local residents and property owners to make a self determiniation of how this stream and its corridor should be developed and used.

The designation could be of several classes, if it qualifies. For example, the Schuylkill has: recreation, modified recreation and scenic designation for portions of its corridor.

Farming is a compatible activity in all except wild designations. Pastorial designation is now being considered as an amendment to the Scenic River Act.

The legislation designating a stream may include the limits set by the local interests - such as delete use of State condemnation power under Scenic Rivers Act.

Your continued interest is vital to this effort for local decisions about a local resource.

George W. Fasic,
Director
Chester County Planning Commission

Dear Editor:

In regards to the question by Howard Longhead in Sheila's Shorts, Lancaster Farming, Aug. 23, 1980, hens lay what they eat?

I will give an experience I had some years back.

The Dealer I sold my eggs to said his customers complained about the eggs having an ugly flavor. He asked if I had made any changes in the way I took care of the eggs.

I was raising a flock of pullets, and the man that delivered that feed made a mistake and put the pullets feed which was medicated, to the laying hens, and that is what made the off flavor.

Just recently my wife baked pumpkin pie. It tasted so bad we could hardly eat it. The hens that laid eggs that were in the pie also were fed medication. We no longer raise chickens and the eggs were bought from a poultry farm. His customers also complained about the eggs. I know medication in feed will cause bad flavor in eggs.

I still get teased by my nephew about those pumpkin pies.

and enjoy writing for them. I think I know what they want to read and learn," she commented, "after all, I was a farm child for almost 22 years!"

Debbie feels her farming experience will be a great help to her as she prepares the women's section each week.

"I am very close to my mom, so I've shared with her things a farm wife spends her time doing as well as what more she wants to learn. I hope to be a great help to a lot of women through these pages," she said.

Debbie says she feels at home here in Lancaster County. According to her, the northern part of Bedford County and Lancaster are much alike.

"They're both so green and beautiful. Both have rows and rows of farms and fields and both have the horse and buggy traveling their roads everyday. The only difference, and I know my dad will love this, is that the corn is much bigger in Bedford County. And," she laughs, "my dad will be glad to prove it if you call him."

Besides writing, Debbie enjoys dabbling in art and playing piano. "I also love animals, something we never lacked around my farm. Between the cows, pigs, chickens, cats and dogs, you never had a quiet moment, but also never a lonely one." She hopes to get a puppy for her new apartment because "a calf wouldn't please the landlord very much."

Debbie also said she is excited about starting a career at Lancaster Farming.

"I like to write and this gives me a chance to write about things I know. It also gives me a chance to correspond once a week with my folks who are now 3½ hours away. We used to have a joke around my house that if you wanted to tell my father something, put it in the Lancaster Farming - he'd be sure to know it then.

"So here's my chance, look dad, I finally made it!"

Dear Editor:

There should be a correction in the Sept. 20/80 paper on page D2.

In the Angus Show for the March Junior yearling bull, the reserve junior champion was Paul Hoffman not Erdeheim Farm as stated in your paper.

Economic losses predicted

Farmers told TMI cleanup will affect agriculture

BY CURT HARLER

MIDDLETOWN — A small but vocal group of farmers met Monday night with government officials to discuss the cleanup of Three Mile Island and how it will affect agriculture.

It soon became obvious the government people intended to discuss only cleanup procedures while the farmers were interested in answers to a wider range of questions.

The lineup from the government agencies was impressive. John Collins, currently the Nuclear Regulatory Agency's senior man at TMI; William Kirk, the Environmental Protection Agency's TMI Site Monitor; and Thomas Jaworski, Pennsylvania Department of Enviromental Resources all were on hand at the meeting organized by the state Grange.

"Potential economic impacts include possible resistance to consumption of agricultural and fishery products that the public may think are radioactively contaminated," NRC's Collins told the group.

Property values in the TMI area may drop, he said.

While he maintained any fears of contamination were unfounded, he conceded they could cut into farm product sales, especially sales of milk.

"I don't see any real affect on agricultural land," he said.

None of the agencies had any dollar figures on potential losses or projections of how long the area's farms would be in a poor light.

The only recourse farmers would have, DER's Jaworksi suggested, was to sue General Public Utilities for damages. Legal action would have to prove the TMI accident caused financial damage to growers.

TMI

presented a slide show which was chock full of figures, including several on exposure to radiation and transportation of waste from the TMI site.

NRC estimated it would take between 660 and 1700 truck loads of nuclear waste to remove all of the nuclear material from TMI Reactor 2 to Richland, Washington where it will be buried in shallow disposal sites.

The meeting was held to gather public comment. The comment period will end November 20, 1980. A similar meeting, open to the public, is set for Lancaster City this Monday, October 6.

After the organized slide show part of the program things came apart quickly.

A group of Goldsboro area farmers had crossed the river to attend the meeting and wanted to discuss a number of problems they linked to TMI.

The government officials pleaded ignorance on such problems as cattle abortions, few birds, no bees, cows not breeding, and other problems the farmers brought up.

Officials said there was no proof of any of the problems and told the farmers to talk to the state Agriculture Department.

. PDA, throughout the TMI crisis, has deferred comment to the state DER or gencies.

DER's Jaworski confirmed that a few milk samples had shown between 20 and 40 picocuries per liter of radioactive material in testing.

"That milk was not as affected as milk during the Chinese Fallout," he said, refering to radiation dumped on the state following explosion of a nuclear device two years before the TMI accident.

When asked why, if nuclear plants like Three Mile Island, Peach Bottom or Limerick are so safe, they can't be built closer to the big cities they serve, farmers were told by Collins that NRC would not allow construction of a nuclear plant so close to a major urban area because of the increased risk of a major accident.

"It's OK to blow us up, but not Philadelphia?" asked Jane Lee, Rl Etters. She received no reply.

Indeed, although promised they later would be provided with facts and figures on a number of questions they raised, none of the government men, nor an assistant who was along to run the slide show, took notes, names, or addresses.

Vance Fisher, also of Rl Etters, said he and his neighbors lost 25 head of cattle.

When the agency representatives were quick to say the white muscle disease was not becuase of radiation Fisher said he tended to agree with them.

Fisher said the problem likely was caused by chlorine used in the cooling water towers. He said he figured the chlorine settled in the valley where the farms are located and tied up the selenium in the cattle feed. He said he'd solved the problem by feeding his cattle selenium.

The agency men said they were not there to discuss the plant or pollution, only the cleanup and radiation.

"Where are the specialists? Where is the government?" Mrs. Lee asked.

EPA's Kirk defended the value of the NRC's environmental impact statement as far as it covers humans. He said he saw no great health or genetic impact on animals.

If the study is valid for humans, then it should be valid for animals, he maintained.

But a farmer in the group noted that human food comes from sources all over the nation while animals and insects usually eat feed from a limited area, perhaps only a couple of square miles.

Samuel Collins, Rl Etters, noted his brother had moved away right after the accident. He too raised questions but was told to consult with the Agriculture Department.

The meeting broke up with seemingly little solved.

Loads of questions were raised on the statistics presented and the impact of TMI on agriculture.

The bottom-line answer given by NRC, EPA, and DER to most of the problems was that a speedy cleanup of TMI is in everyone's best interest.

The projected timetable for the cleanup is five to seven years from the date of the TMI accident, March 28,1979.

Beef club meets

NEW HOLLAND — The New Holland 4-H Baby Beef Club met September 19 at the home of Lisa Heft, a 4-H member. The roll was called with each member giving a report on their steer. Following this was a discussion of the farm show which is October 2 and 3. The leaders gave reports. Refreshments were served.

Try Australia for a great vacation

BY R. RHEINHEIMER

EPHRATA — Enthusiasm, optimism, a sense of humor, and good business sense, that's what I found when I recently visited Australia and New Zealand. It was delightful.

That enthusiasm goes a long way to make a trip enjoyable, but more than that, the scenery and sights visited are very fascinating. For example, there are sheep dogs so well trained to handle sheep that they will actually run across the backs of a flock of sheep to move the front ones along, and then retreat to the rear to bring up the stragglers.

The visit started in Sydney, and while that city is certainly fascinating, I couldn't wait to get out into the country and onto a farm. We flew into a small country town called Albury, and were met by Neville Lowe, the owner of a sheep and cattle property. Lowe took me to his station, or farm, to see at first hand how one farms in this area.

He told us that he and his brother own a very small property-only 1200 acres. That is small by Australian standards, but still enables the brothers to raise around 2000 Merino sheep, and 120 head of beef cows.

The sheds (barns) were not very big or modern, but actually were not used to house animals. There was a bit of hay stored in one of the sheds, and another had farm machinery in it. The primary one, however, was the shearing shed-a shed approximately 40 feet wide and 60 feet long. There are holding pens at one end, with a shearing and grading area at the other.

During shearing season the Lowe brothers, with help from neighbors, shear up to 200 sheep a day, moving them through two chutes to the shearers. There they are shorn, the wool graded and baled, and the sheep turned loose again.

It all looks a bit primitive, but you can be assured that the production line of sheep shearing is very efficient indeed.

Through a very inexpensive irrigation scheme, the Lowes raise some crops not normally grown in that part of Australia. They irrigate several paddocks (fields) and grow grain sorghum and oats. All in all, it is a very fascinating place to visit.

Lowe, along with his neighbors, has organized a "Farm Home Hosting" program, so that visitors to Australia can actually stay overnight at a farm home, if they choose, to visit with, and observe the life of an Australian farmer. Almost every American who visits Australia reports this as one of the chief highlights of their tour.

Following the visit to a farm, the local community also has a "Country Affair" for visitors. This is a gathering of local folks and visitors that includes a demonstration of sheep shearing and handling, country music, and excellent food. Australian humor, hospitality and enthusiasm are very much in evidence at these country affairs, and everyone has a very good time.

The Australian English is 98 percent understandable to an American, and that two percent that is different makes a very delightful twist.

Fields, for instance, are called paddocks. A farm is a property, or a station. Wells are called bores, a pig farm is called a piggery, and barns are called sheds.

The differences aren't much, and usually one can catch on without having to have things explained, but those little twists do tend to keep one alert.

Some of the Australian cities and towns remind one very much of American Western towns of a century ago. The streets are very wide, and dusty, and you almost think that you're going to see a sign that says "Last Chance Saloon."

The shops are modern, though, and almost all air conditioned inside. The economy of Australia has its ups and downs, similar to ours, and the standard of living is universially high.

One just can't help getting a bit enthusiastic, when you talk to the people, and when you read and hear about all the opportunities available in Australia. Just to read the newspapers and to see all the advertisements for new ideas and areas opening up gives one a feeling of newness and enthusiasm.

Do visit Australia if you possibly can.

Berks Conservation Tour coming Oct. 16

LEESPORT — Participants in the annual conservation tour in Berks County will get an early taste of Christmas. The first stop on this year's tour, scheduled for October 16, will be the Tom DeLong Christmas Tree Farm, in Brecknock Township.

While visiting the well-known farm, visitors will be able to see many types of conservation practices, including a pond and tree plantings of all sizes.

From there, the conservation tour will travel to the Sam Schlouch family farm where contour strips and cropland terraces help to keep the land in top-notch condition. The Schlouch farm raises tobacco and buckwheat.

Everything goes up after the stop at the Schlouch farm, with a climb up the Hopewell Fire Tower next on the agenda. Lunch will precede a tour of the French Creek State Park.

The final stop on the tour will be the Joanna Furnace Historical site where the tour guests will see a sawmill in operation.

Cost of the bus tour, including a box lunch, is $8 per person. All reservations are needed by October 10.

Sponsors for the tour are the Berks County Conservation District, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, DER Bureau of Forestry, Farmers Home Administration, and the Soil Conservation Service.

Buses will be leaving the Ag Center at 9 a.m. on October 16.

Champs at Eastern National go out of state

TIMONIUM, Md. — The Grand Champions at Sunday's 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America competition of the 34th Eastern National Livestock Show went to two Ohio youngsters and an Indiana shepherd.

Nineteen-year-old Belinda Melton of Washington Courthouse, Ohio beat 127 other 4-H'ers to take the Grand Champion steer trophy with her 1265 pound entry.

Her crossbred Chianina x Angus steer sold for $4 a pound to Pasadena Super-Thrift, Pasadena, Maryland. Melton also received $1000 from the American Chianina Association for her win.

Another Ohio youth exhibited the Grand Champion market hog. Eighteen-year-old Jeff Frobose, Pemberville, showed the top hog, a 230 pound Hampshire crossbred.

Frobose's grand champ sold to Hatfield Packing Company, Hatfield for $2530 — $11 a pound.

Frobose also took first place in the 195-210 pound class and second place in the 235 pound class with his entries in the 4-H and FFA contest.

Shelley George of Wakarusa, Indiana, and her 130 pound Suffolk lamb were tagged Grand Champion of the 34th Eastern National Livestock Show. The lamb brought $6.25 a pound at public auction held at the Maryland Fairgrounds, selling to Pasadena SuperThrift for $808.50.

George also won first place in the 110-115 pound Suffolk class and her sister, Tammy, won with her champion crossbred lamb and took second place in the 121-130 pound Suffolk class.

The Reserve Grand Champion steer was exhibited by David Carlson, 19, of Edwards, Illinois. His 1305 pound entry sold to Esskay Quality Meat Company, Baltimore, Maryland, for $1.45 a pound.

The Reserve Champion market hog was a 225-pound Hampshire shown by Todd Brown, 13, of Edinburg, Virginia. The hog was also purchased by Esskay Quality Meat Company.

Brown's sister, Teresa, took first place in the 215-220 pound class.

The Reserve Grand Champion market lamb was shown by Wendy Harmann of Woodbury, Connecticut. Her 132 pound Hampshire brought $330 from Henry Stapf Meat Market, Baltimore, Maryland.

Harmann also took third place in the 90-101 pound and the 102-115 pound Hampshire classes, second place in the 85-100 pound Suffolk class and third place in the 121-130 pound Suffolk class.

Local hog places high in Minnesota test

EPHRATA — W.J. Ruoss, Ephrata, placed high in the recent National Barrow Show Production Tested Barrow Contest.

His barrow was put on test in the National Barrow Show Production Tested Contest at the National Barrow Show Test Station in New Ulm, Minn., on May 23. The test was completed on August 29 and the barrows were evaluated at Geo. A. Hormel & Co.'s Austin, Minn., plant.

There were 757 barrows which started the test and 196 or 26 per cent of the barrows finished the test meeting all of the requirements. His barrow met the requirements excelling in Average Daily Gain and carcass merit.

Ruoss is a Duroc hog producer.

The carcass measurements on his barrow were: length 29.6; fat depth 0.75; loin eye area 5.45.

The National Barrow Show is sponsored by Geo. A. Hormel & Co., and the National Association of Swine Records.

2000 come to protest York County farm dump

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

SPRING GROVE — Support, in large numbers of voting citizens, was what North Codorus farmers fighting a proposed chemical dump were hoping for a fact-finding meeting last Tuesday with the Department of Environmental Resources.

And support was what they got, with an estimated 2000 people turning out at Spring Grove Junior High School to protest, to a person, the DER permit held by Sunny Farms, Ltd. to bury industrial and possibly hazardous wastes in North Codorus farmland.

Farm owner Steve Marsh, president of the citizens' group OUCH, Inc. (Opposing Unnecessary Chemical Hazards), chaired the session geared to bring out new facts that opponents hope may boost their drive for permit revokation.

John Embich, assistant attorney general for the solid waste department told the citizens that DER recognizes Sunny Farms as a separate entity from Stabatrol, Inc., which recently purchased the corporate assets of Sunny Farm. The permit to dump industrial waste, issued in December of 1979, has been granted to Sunny Farms and is not to be transferrable.

Who actually owns the land and who actually holds the dumping permit had been two key issues with area residents fighting the dumping proposal.

Their concern focused on the former solid waste landfill that Sunny Farms had operated on the site, which was suspended in 1976 for violations of regulations during 1974. Among those violations was the illegal dumping of hazardous substances.

OUCH, Inc., and its attorneys say they hope to use Sunny Farms history of operations as a lever to demand that DER reopen the permit application for further consideration.

If the permit studies are reopened, legislator working with the group figure that Stabatrol can be brought under a tough new state environmental law that took effect September 5, which would require that DER look at the past operational history of dump permit applicants.

One incident cited during the fact-finding dealt with a truckload of 55-gallon drums that had been brought to Sunny Farms former solid waste facility in the Spring of 1974. When a bulldozer operated crushed a drum during waste burial, liquids inside the drum sprayed over the surrounding immediate area.

A DER inspector happened to be observing the process.

While that truck was then sent back with most of the remaining waste, a DER spokesman said records showed the truck weighed 1200 pounds less upon leaving than when it had arrived.

Farmers demanded to know if contents of the drums crushed had ever been removed or records show its location.

Rural residents of the valleys adjacent to the steep ridge dumpsite have repeatedly told DER officials that the area is laced with old worked-out iron mine veins and shafts. Their pleas had been turned aside, with DER representatives previously insisting that if such shafts were in existence, they would have been found during geological survey of the site.

However, DER hydrologist Steve Curran told the fact-finding audience that an 1874 map, just recently brought to his attention, does indicate the presence of mines in the area.

He noted that only one 8x4x20-foot shaft is indicated and the exact location of the former access opening is not known.

"But, if it is discovered by Sunny Farms during its disposal process, DER would require that no wastes be buried in that spot," he added.

His statement evoked laughter, hoots and hollering from the mostly well-behaved assemblage.

OUCH Inc.'s attorney Ed Golla claimed that Sunny Farms committed perjury on its application by not including information on those old mines and suggested that concealment of such facts would be reason enough for revoking the permit.

Financial bonding of the operation was also a sore point with the dump opponents. Although Sunny Farms posted a bond obligation of $1.2 million with the state for its 1979 permit, the firm has paid out to date $15,000, based on a fee of $5,000 per acre of land it plans to use for actual disposal.

Officials of DER readily concurred with 93rd district legislator A. Carville Foster who insisted that the sum is far too small. Opponents suggest millions of dollars might be needed should a dump-related disaster ever strike the land, water, health or earning ability of the area's farmers and rural residents.

Additionally, a federal regulation slated to take effect on November 19 will require operators of hazardous dumping facilities to have assets of at least $10 million, which Stabatrol, Inc. does not now possess.

One after another, residents of the valleys' farms and their neighbors rose to the microphone to question other aspects of the dumping proposals: the engineering and stability of the plastic encased vaulting for the wastes, the potential run-off problems from the hillside site, possibilities of eventual storage of nuclear wastes at the site, mixing of the various chemicals and length of the toxicity of the materials.

J. Robert Snyder, of Blue Ball, called the DER approved permit methods the "cheapest current technology available," and claimed it would "allow the operators to make a killing."

He cited an EPA study recently published claiming that 90 percent of the nation's landfills are leaking toxic substances into the ground water.

Almost as if on cue, a House subcommittee Monday released a list of some 250 sites across the country where hazardous chemicals might be leaking into groundwater supplies.

Their report called on the federal Environmental Protection Agency to "locate potential threats to groundwater and eliminate them before precious groundwater supplies are irreversibly damaged."

Harvest continues in cool dry weather

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania farmers continued fall harvest work as the first week of fall brought clear cool weather to the state, during the week ending September 29.

According to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service, farm field activities included harvesting of vegetables, fruit, potatoes, corn for grain and tobacco; fall plowing; baling hay; clipping pastures; filling silos and general farm chores, with five days rated suitable for this work.

Apple harvest is in full swing, with harvest of fall cabbage about 50 percent complete. Potato harvest is 75 percent complete statewide, compared to 77 percent a year ago. Northern operators reported potato harvest at 71 percent, central farmers reported 73 percent and the southern farm operators reported harvest at 90 percent complete.

Rain fall from widely scattered showers and thunderstorms totaled less than 0.5 inches in all portions of the state, with a few isolated sections in the west. Soil moisture levels were rated as costly short to adequate.

Northern farm operators rated soils as 46 percent short, 46 percent adequate and eight percent surplus. Central soils were rated as 77 percent short and 23 percent adequate, while in the south, soils were rated 80 percent short and 20 percent adequate.

Silage corn harvest was 62 percent complete compared to 43 percent last year. Corn for grain is 43 percent mature and seven percent harvested statewide. Last year the corn crop was 23 percent mature and less than five percent harvested, while a five year average shows 31 percent mature and less than five percent harvested.

Harvest of tobacco is virtually complete, on a par with 1979.

Fall plowing is 70 percent complete across the state, compared to 75 percent completed a year ago. While central counties are at 76 percent, northern and southern counties are at 63 and 65 percent complete, respectively.

Barley planting is now 56 percent completed, behind last year's 65 percent. Barley planting is 55 percent complete in the north, 63 percent in central counties and 43 percent in the south.

Lampeter livestock bring good prices

BY SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Correspondent

WEST LAMPETER — Gerald Hess's 1180 pound FFA champion baby beef at the West Lampeter Fair last week was sold to Willow Valley for $1.44 per pound. Last year's champion was auctioned off at an even $1 per pound.

The reserve champion, shown by Mike Nissley, was purchased by Dagen's Market, Willow Street, for $1.12. August Birchler, Penn Manor vocational agriculture teacher and coordinator of the sale, quoted last year's reserve champion price at 85 cents per pound.

The average price per pound for the thirteen steers sold the closing night of the three-day fair, according to sale bookkeepers, was 84 cents this year.

Gerald Hess's brother, Wayne, sold the Grand Champion hog, a heavyweight weighing 245 pounds for $3.60 a pound. Hatfield paid a full $1.10 more than last year for the champion.

West Willow Farmers Association, Inc., bought the reserve champion hog shown by Wayne's and Gerald's younger brother Brian. Tom Bowman, general manager for the asssociation, bid the hog in at an even $3.00. Last year's reserve champion sold for $1.20.

One of the champion pen of two hogs, shown by Kevin Landis, died, according to sale officials, of a heart attack before the sale. The remaining 200 pound hog sold for 91 cents per pound. The reserve champion pen of two, shown by Gerald Hess, sold for 77 cents. The pair were heavyweights totaling 495 pounds.

Seventy-five hogs were auctioned off Friday night in lots of one, two, three or four hogs each. Champion and reserve champion hogs in each class sold for prices ranging from 79 to 91 cents per pound. All other individuals and groups sold for from 45 cents to 78 cents per pound.

After the sale was completed Penn Manor FFA president presented Hatfield buyers Jerry Clemets and Ezra Good with plaques commending them for the company's long-standing practice in supporting the youth at the fairs by purchasing many animals both champions and other show exhibits.

Wood stove seminar set for Tuesday

CHRISTIANA, Del. — Increasing costs and shortages of electricity, natural gas and fuel oil are causing many homeowners to use wood and coal as alternative heating fuels. Because of the hazards involved, it is essential that stoves burning these fuels be properly installed, operated and maintained.

In an effort to reduce the number of home fires related to burning wood and coal, the extension service will conduct a safety seminar Tuesday, October 7, at 7 p.m. in the Christiana Fire Hall, Located at the intersection of Routes 7 and 273 in Delaware.

The seminar is designed for homeowners who presently operate, or are considering the installation of wood or coal burning stoves. Proper installation, safe operation, required maintenance, and other safety factors will be discussed.

Speakers will include a fire safety instructor, forester, energy official, insurance representative, and building inspector.

Co-sponsors of the seminar are the Christiana Volunteer Fire Company, the Delaware State Fire School, and the Delaware Department of Agriculture.

There is no admission charge. For more information, call 302/738-2506.

Garden State farms to hold open house

CLOVER HILL, N.J. — Three Hunterdon County, N.J. farms open their gates to the public on Sunday, Oct. 5, in what is billed as Agriculture In Action Day.

The three farms involved are located in the Clover Hill area, on or near the Somerset-Hunterdon County line, about four miles east of Flemington.

Host farmers are David Kyle, specializing in hogs and field crops, Laine Bros. in association with George Conrad, corn, soybeans, wheat and hay; and Tom Kanach, a large dairy and grain operation.

"In action" will be large combines harvesting field corn, a chisel plow preparing a field for winter wheat planting; grain drying, handling and storage; chopping corn for silage.

The swine breeding facility on the Kyle Farm will be open for inspection. You will be impressed by its cleanliness, efficiency, and the quality of the breeding stock.

The visit to the Kanach Farm will provide an opportunity to see a large, up-to-date dairy farm. The herd numbers over 100 milkers, plus youngstock. Modern milking equipment, feed storage and handling, and more will be demonstrated.

Machinery, grain handling and drying equipment will highlight the stop at Laine Farm. Hosts will discuss the facility and the marketing of grain.

Coordinating "Ag in the Action Day" are Dave Kyle for the Somerset County Board of Agriculture, and Fred Clucas, Oldwick, Hunterdon's Ag Board.

Clucas reports that wagons will be used to transport people from field to field and farm to farm. There'll be a guide on each wagon to provide information and answer questions. Activities begin at 10:00 a.m. and conclude at 3:00 p.m.

An added feature will be a pig roast arranged by host and co-chairman Kyle. Pork sandwiches and hamburgers will be available at a food stand for those interested.

With the exception of food, it's all FREE. This should be a good family outing. Remember, it's Sunday, October 5, with a rain-date of October 12.

USDA reports grain reserve figures

WASHINGTON, D.C. — There were 929 million bushels of feed grains and wheat in the three farmer-held grain reserves as of last Friday according to Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Date supplied via telephone by the USDA's state offices showed the following reserve activity since the previous report and the reserve net totals:

CROP —bushels—	REDEMPTIONS	NEW ENTRIES (bushels) —* denotes hundredweight—	TOTAL IN RESERVE	TOTAL IN RESERVE (metric tons)
barley	28,000	139,000	9,214,000	200,611
corn	26,036 000	977,000	672,899,000	17,092,537
oats	597,000	61,000	16,509,000	239 628
sorghum	1,250,000	8 929	16,900,000	429,283
	*700 000	*5,000	*9 471,000
wheat	1,152,000	1 462,000	213,605,000	5,813,378

The "total in reserve" figures for corn will not balance with the previously reported total; the previous report inadvertently failed to include 26.7 million bushels of corn in the reserves.

Local bank tops farm lending list

HARRISBURG — Commonwealth National Bank, according to statistics compiled and released recently by the American Bankers Association, ranks as the leading bank in Pennsylvania for agricultural loans.

On a nationwide basis, Commonwealth National Bank ranks 27th among all banks in total agricultural loans.

The ABA report shows agricultral loans at Commonwealth National Bank totaled $58,678,000 as of December 31, 1979. The total includes loans made directly through the bank's Agri-Loan Department as well as through its wholly-owned subsidiary, Commonwealth National Agri-Loan Corp. The 1979 total is a 5.3 percent increase over the December 31, 1978, figure of $55,743,000.

Commonwealth National Agri-Loan Corp. was formed in 1970, when the bank had total agricultural loans of $11,486,000.

Robert P. Bucher, Lancaster, president of the subsidiary and vice president and manager of the Agri-Loan Department, points to two main factors for farm loan growth at Commonwealth National: "Our specialized staff and our ability to meet the credit needs of customers, by providing an alternate source of financing for them."

Another ingredient for success, according to Bucher, is the strength and diversity of the farm economy in the 20 central Pennsylvania counties that the subsidiary and department serve.

"Between the subsidiary and the department, Commonwealth National can finance anything the farmer and his family need," said Bucher. For example, all operating needs, the expansion or remodeling of facilities and the purchase of equipment, additional facilities, livestock, and the farm itself.

Exotic newcastle task force to be dismissed

HARRISBURG — A state-federal task force has recently helped control the possibility of another outbreak of Exotic Newcastle disease in Pennsylvania.

State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell said, "For all practical purposes, the investigation in Pennsylvania is complete. Unless new sources of exposed birds are uncovered, the task force will likely be dismissed."

Hallowell said the disease was confirmed in exotic birds at a dealer's facility in Miami, Florida. Several dealers in Pennsylvania received birds which were exposed to those in the Florida dealership.

Exotic Newcastle is a virus disease which affects poultry and other birds, causing losses of up to 100 percent in commercial poultry flocks. The disease is among the most contagious foreign animal diseases that periodically threaten the nation's farm animals. A major outbreak of exoric Newcastle in California in 1971-72 cost taxpayers $56 million and caused the death of nearly 12 million birds.

Hallowell said the task force had traced 391 birds which were exposed to those with exotic Newcastle. The disease has been found in pet birds at eight other aviaries and petshops in four states since March, including Pennsylvania. More than 3,000 birds were destroyed in these outbreaks to keep the disease from spreading.

Sources in at least 39 states have recently received birds from dealers in Florida with infected birds.

The Agriculture Secretary complimented the Avian Health Division of the Bureau of Animal Industry for its quick and effective reaction to this latest threat. He noted that no serious outbreak is expected in Pennsylvania at this time.

"The cooperation of bird dealers, bird owners, federal and state regulatory personnel has been an important factor in this control effort," he said.

Hallowell added the Department had contacted the U.S. Department of Agriculture suggesting that action should be taken on a national level to better control movement of birds until the situation is under control.

Egg output up 4%

HARRISBURG — August 1980 egg production in Pennsylvania totaled 341 million, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

The August production was four percent above the 329 million eggs produced in August 1979. The August average of 16.1 million layers was five percent higher than a year ago.

Egg production per 100 layers was 2120 compared with 2148 in August 1979.

The nation's laying flocks produced 5.75 billion eggs during August, one percent fewer than the 5.80 billion produced a year ago. The number of layers for August averaged 284 million, compared with 286 million a year earlier.

Egg production per 100 layers during the month was 2020 compared with 2031 a year ago.

TORQUE AMPLIFIER, CLUTCH & WATER PUMP PARTS & SERVICE

Rebuilt TA assemblies for IH tractors from SMTA through 1586. Water pumps, Dyna-Life clutches and pressure plates from A, B, C through 1586 and for many of the combines, 101 - 303 through the 915.

If you are operating a shop or are a farmer who does his own mechanical work, then you will do well to compare the parts which I have to offer. Complete rebuilt TA assemblies for 706 - 1586 are priced from $525.00 and come with a Dana Co. heavy Duty Sprag clutch instead of the usual IH sprag. These TA units are being installed in many of the leading IH shops across the country instead of the IH units.

Also have available assorted parts for TA's which are not available individually through new parts at IH. I am prepared to do complete installation at competitive prices and will match any guarantee that is offered on TA units or rebuilt clutches, pressure plates & water pumps. I will also install original factory parts on request

For a no obligation estimate or for information and references write or call me.

For profit minded farmer/feeder or Dairy operators! Take a look at the

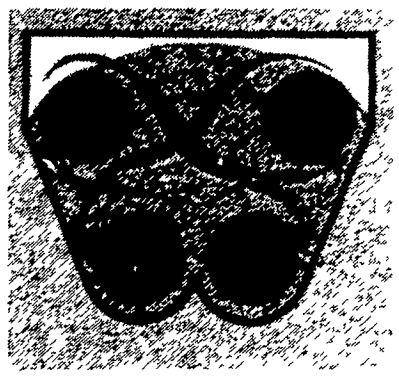
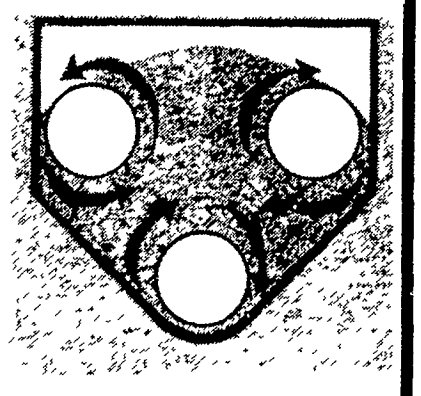
Our four-auger system moves feed ingredients in a double figure-8 (both horizontally and vertically) as it tumbles, churns, folds and blends for more complete mixing And, since the mixing action always converges at the center of the box, adjacent to the discharge chute, feed moves only half the distance required by other units That means mixing time is also faster with Van Dale



The VAN DALE Four-Auger System
Our four augers mean a fast thorough mix of all ingredients How fast? How's 3 to 5 minutes sound? And that's with a half or full load And, since we're moving feed half the distance and have four augers to do it, Van Dale requires less horsepower than most mixer feeders



Ordinary Three-Auger System.
The competition Three augers forced to move ingredients the full length of the box for a complete mix Compare that to Van Dale And other makes can't promise a total mix with a partial load because the single bottom auger just rolls the feed in stead of mixing

GUNITE Silo Relining & Repairs

Extensive tests have been conducted on Gunite Below are some of the properties of Gunite
1. Excellent bonding
2. High Density
3. Extreme strength and hardness
4. High resistance to absorption

The excellent physical properties of the material are due to the water content being only the amount needed to satisfy chemical hydration
Reseal and re strengthen your silo with Gunite

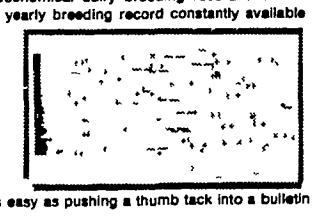
The ATTA GLANCE COW DIARY
The simplest most economical dairy breeding record available keeps your entire herd's yearly breeding record constantly available Atta Glance



50 cow size costs $44 95 is 24 x 42" has mounting straps and can be wiped clean

Keeping records is as easy as pushing a thumb tack into a bulletin board
Each cow's name or number is placed in the left margin on any of the 50 horizontal lines using embossing tape (shown above) or use felt tip or grease pens Color coded pins are then placed on that line to record the dates of breeding and freshening

PAX FARM DAIRY GOAT

★ N-NEFERTITIS ALEX CORRIGAN - N390741
Sire - Amyr Doric's Alex - N230636
Dam - Nefertiti's Cleopatra - N231289
Nice long body, extremely nice set to the hind legs. Showed well never lower than 3rd. Jr. Herd Sire.

★ N-TRI OAKS CHERRI'S ST. PATRICK - N379139
Sire: Muirhill Tricia's Fantastic - N290488
Dam: GCH Tri Oaks Domino's Cherri - N240091
Buck has been shown only once under "Harvey Considine" went Jr. CH. and Best Jr. Buck in Show.
Dam has been recently purchased by Pax Farm. She has only been shown twice this year. Once by previous owner Spring Show! "Doc" went "GCH Nubian", "Best udder of Breed", "Best udder in Show". "Best in Show"!
Shown 9/28/80 Virginia State Fair, Pax Farm took with this Doe: Champion Challenge Winner, Best of Breed, Best Doe in Show, Best udder in Show! Look for what she does at N.C. State Fair!

★ L-LUVU MASTER BAITER - AL373726
Sire: GCH Amyr B.B. Master Key - AL249330
Dam: WeLuv Mindy DEE - AL 302031
This Buck has been shown many times: 6 - times Grand Champion; 4-times Res. Grand Champion; 2-times Jr. Champion.
When this buck went Res. GCH his father was GCH. What a team! 3-times Sire & Son winners; 4-times Sire & Son winners over all Breeds.
This year Pax Farm & LuVu Farm were given a trophy for undefeated sire & son. Every time shown they were winners. This Buck is a powerful animal. Harvey Considine said "he has one of the nicest set to the hind legs he has send in a long time for a Lamancha.

★ T-STONYBROOK SHEM — T373596
Sire: Stonybrook Jester - T300030
Dam: Stonybrook Shannon - T300027
This Buck has been shown only once: in N.J. & he went 2nd under Norman Austin.
This animal has tremendous depth of body & spring of rib, also great deal of width in the hocks. He has a long body and almost nearly level in the top line in the area of the chin - loin & rump from Hooks to Pins & Thurl to Thurl.

Hisex White wins more contests around the world than any other layer! The secret is consistency — more eggs on less feed, more profit over feed cost flock after flock, under all sorts of commercial conditions! No wonder so many more egg producers are scoring with our white bird. Hisex Brown, so easy to grow and handle, has everything, too — high peak, big hen-housed production, penny-pinching feed conversion. You have to look to be sure it's brown! So whichever league you're in, get with a winner! Talk it over with your Hisex Representative. Soon.

A new hand-held pH meter — you could get one free.

How do you buy your seed corn?

We are looking for 600 additional good men to join our 6,000 dealers. If you are in a township where we don't have a dealer, we will give you a hand-held pH meter as an extra bonus for joining us during the next four weeks.

In the last 10 years, the Jacques Seed Company has risen to a top-ranking brand in each of the corn belt states. If you are in a township where we need a dealer you can buy your own corn, alfalfa, soybeans, sunflowers and sorghum at low direct prices. And you can supply your friends with the seed they want as you're doing what comes naturally — talking about different hybrids and how they compare.

The biggest reason Jacques has grown so fast is their field trials and a large new hybrid development program.

New hybrids are brought out fast and tested carefully on 500 to 600 farms all across the corn belt. Not one bag is sold until the results of those field trials are in. That way new numbers and the best of last year's numbers are compared in side-by-side testing against major competitive varieties.

The news of how well Jacques hybrids do is carried to farmers by the largest farm paper advertising program in your state. Early in the season, farmers are told about Jacques not selling early before the field trials are in. That way you always know where you're at with Jacques. You know just how much corn yield it is costing you and your friends to stay with some of the old favorites that were good producers but are now outmoded. Nobody has to talk you or anybody into anything. It's the field trial results that tell the story.

There are many benefits to you in a Jacques dealership. You and your relatives and friends can pool your buying for maximum discounts. You can make money on any corn others buy from you. And you qualify for trips all over the United States plus Hawaii and Mexico.

Many of our dealers could afford to go anywhere they wanted but they never went because they didn't have the opportunity to go with friends. Now they know that on a certain date they can take a trip with from 500 to 1,000 other like-minded people, where many are good friends.

Why not find out more information on what a direct buying relationship could mean to you. Let us know where you live. We have 600 places where we need dealers so chances are good we need you. Then you can experience the cost-saving advantages of buying direct, the second income from taking orders from your friends and neighbors and the fun of traveling all over.

You owe it to yourself to look into this. Send in the coupon at the bottom of the page. Do it right away and if you qualify as a dealer, you get the new pH meter right away. It's free if you sign up as a dealer within the next four weeks and you place orders for 50 bags of corn, alfalfa, or sunflowers during the season.

Jacques Free Gift

SEED SUPPLY: We're in such good shape that we don't have to sell early...even in this tough year. Who else has their seed production so widely dispersed? Seed plants at. Lincoln, IL; York, NE; Schaller, IA, Stockbridge, MI; Hastings, MN; Cuba City and Prescott, WI.

Adams fruit grower

Dwarf apple trees challenge Starner

BY SALLY BAIR

Myles E. Starner is an inventor, an innovator and a philosopher, though not necessarily in that order. A small fruit grower in an age when bigness often seems to be better, Starner successfully operates a 34-acre apple orchard north of Bendersville at Aspers R1 in the heart of Adams County's fruit region.

Up until three yers ago, Starner owned just 23 acres of land. Starner is proud of the fact that his is a family operation, with the exception of hiring some additional pickers during the height of the season, which for Starner begins in August and concludes in November. His pickers are all local, either retirees or others who may have jobs which allow them a few hours of work at Starners. Saturdays are very busy days at Fruit Haven, but there is no work done on Sunday.

Starner says, "We have good pickers, but we pick the majority of fresh apples ourselves." His wife Dot adds, "We guarantee no bruises on our fresh apples."

This year Starner estimates that 25 percent of his crop will be sold as fresh apples to Sandoes Packing in Biglerville. He said, "Fresh apples are a lot more work and a lot more expense. They must be a certain color and a certain ripeness." The remainder of his crop will be factory apples which he markets through Knouse foods. The drops and other damaged apples will become cider.

Starner is quick to point out that he has no ambitions to become anything but a small fruit grower. He said, "I always felt I wasn't going to take anything with me. All I want is a decent living for myself. If you raise a family and train them what more do you want?"

He pointed out that his enterprise has always been a family one, with the children working alongside. "In a large orchard the children would be lost. Here they do everything we do. Our children know how to work."

Two of the Starner children have moved into professions of their own. Arla, 24, is a nurse and Laura, 23, is a medical assistant and married. Neil, 19, helps fulltime in the orchards. Brenda, 21, is married but lives close by and also works in the orchards. Joyce 17, is a senior in High School. Starner said, "They all picked in the evenings after school."

Arla was selected Adams County's Apple Blossom Queen in 1974 and went on to win the Pennsylvania Apple Queen title in 1975. Brenda was selected as Pennsylvania's Cherry Queen in 1977. Starner says that she's one of his best pickers - on a recent Saturday she picked 6 bins, holding 25 bushels each, of apples.

Starner's current delight lies in his dwarf apple trees which are trellised to wires. Eight years ago, Starner decided to begin planting dwarf trees because, as he puts it, "I felt it would be a challenge. The challenge had gone out of growing regular apples and I have to live on a challenge. I thought there had to be a better way to grow apples and I had to see if it could be done."

Well, it can be done, and quite successfully, if Sterner's orchards are any example. Since it takes three years for dward trees to come into production, he is already harvesting the benefits of the dwarf trees in many ways.

Starner began by taking out the standard trees and semi-dwarfs he had planted in the 1950's as their production started to go down and training and pruning them became more difficult. Starner pointed out that it takes a standard tree from seven to ten years to go into full production and most fruit growers will use the same set of trees throughout their lifetime.

One of the most obvious advantage of the dwarf tree is ease of harvest. Starner says, "Anybody can help." In fact, he feels that people who pick apples will one day dictate what kind of trees are planted.

Indeed, picking apples from a dwarf tree couldn't be easier. Seven feet tall is the maximum height, and trees are trained to trellises, with the limbs fastened in place with plastic ties. "Each tree looks like a fan," Dot points out, and all the fruit is within easy picking range.

But Starner is always looking for a better way of doing things, and now that his dwarf trees are coming into production, he has invented a "picking aide" which allows a driver to sit close to the ground on a slow moving vehicle and pick the low apples comfortably. Other pickers can follow the rig and pick the remaining apples, all of which are within an arm's reach.

For his un-named invention, Starner put a nine horsepower engine (out of his pruning rig "which had worn out twice") onto a truck bed, placed a low seat and steering wheel on one side. He positioned one bin for putting apples into and arranged to have three bins carried on the top of the vehicle. When the low bin is full, it is dropped off and another bin is lowered into place. This arrangement keeps the machine moving and the pickers busy.

The rig moves at a snail's pace, so Dot and other pickers can keep up to it as it moves closely along the row of trees. The driver, as his bucket is filled, simply sets it on the ground and one of the pickers who is walking empties it into the bin. There is a place for several picking buckets, so when one is full the driver reaches for another without moving. The whole operation is a smooth one, and gives everybody a comfortable position for picking. Dot pointed out that she never stoops. There is an extra bag attached to the bin for drops or damaged apples, but on the trellised trees, they are amazingly scarce.

There are differences in working with dwarf trees and Starner credits Dr. Loren Tukey of Penn State with giving him many of the answers he needed to go into dwarf production. "Everything I learned about dwarfs I learned from him," Starner acknowleges. Tukey does research on dwarf trees at Penn State along with his teaching duties. Starner also spends about two hours dailying reading periodicals and other publications.

Noting that dwarf trees are "strictly European in concept," Starner said, "I think its going to take time before they catch on. Most fruit growers want to be big. Dwarf trees are so much more concentrated and per acre there is more work. One person can handle 16 acres of dwarf trees." Starner the philosopher says," Trees are like people. They don't grow the same. Some are short. Some are tall."

Pruning on a dwarf tree begins in June, and Starner says he just completed his 16 acres. "You want a small tree and pruning in summer will give a dwarf effect." As they work on the trees throughout the summer, going through the rows at least twice, they also take off poor quality apples. Starner said, "You get almost 100 percent quality apples on dwarf trees."

Starner pointed out that the cost of putting in dwarf trees is much higher per acre than in standard trees. "There are fixed costs that go into raising dwarf trees. You plant five times the number of trees per acre and you need posts and wire. But they also get into production years earlier. For me as a small grower I wish I didn't have anything that isn't on wire."

In a normal year, Starner expects to get about 800 bushels per acre on his dwarf trees. The total harvest is about the same as with standard trees because of the close concentration of trees.

In training the trees, Starner said one limb is allowed to grow per wire, and the ends are never nipped. He added, "You never let a branch go straight up." You grow it, bea it and cut it off. Only the main limbs remain permanent." The limbs are trained to the wire with tomato staples an plastic ties.

"We put a guard on every tree we plant," Starner said adding that deer and rabbits are a constant problem. "We've tried every crazy thing thats ever been suggested. A lot of things work for a short period."

Starner buys root stock "wherever it is available. You have to know what you want to plant two years ahead. Most of ours is bought locally."

As is the case almost everywhere in this part of the state, the weather has played havoc with fruit. Starner said, "The weather has been so dry there will be quite a few drops we won't be able to pick at all. They are all dried up. It has been too dry and the apples are dropping. The stems are drying on the tree."

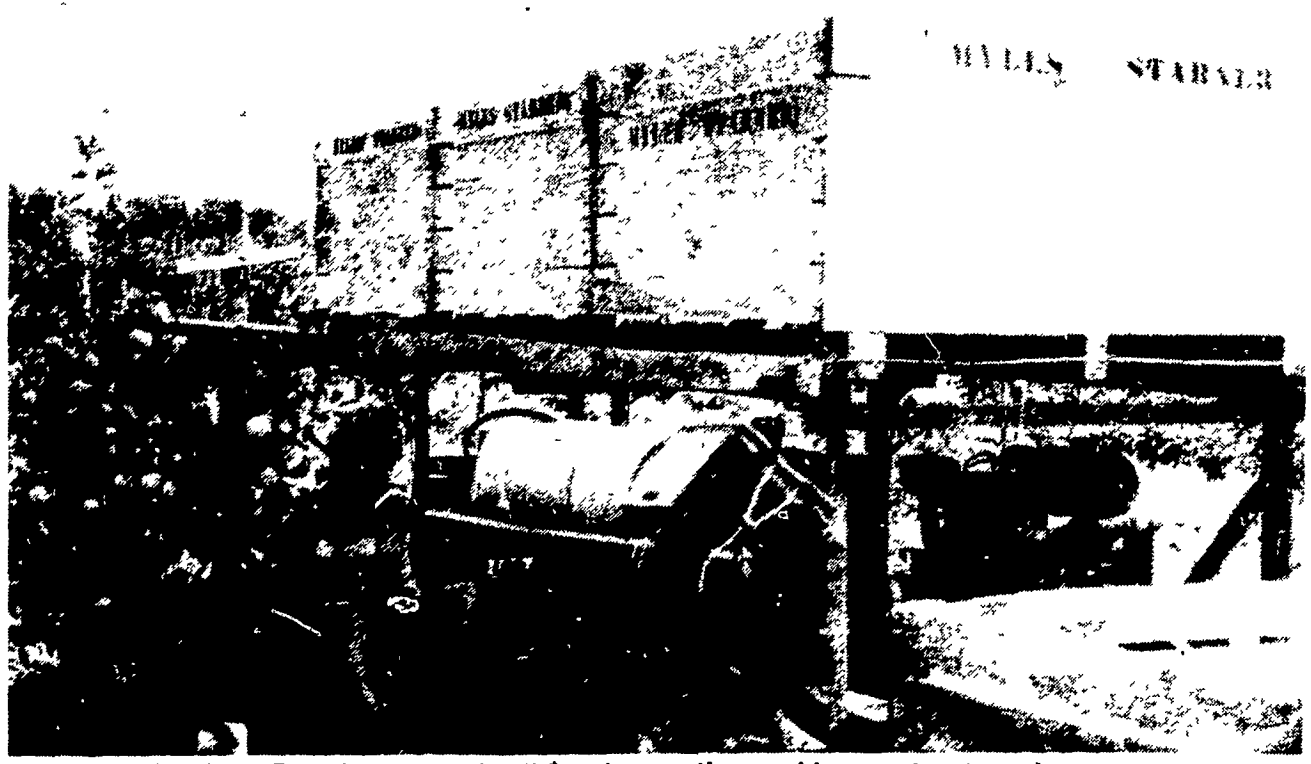
This year the total crop will be small because apples are about 30 percent smaller than usual. "This will cut way back on the harvest," Starner notes. "In this area everybody is the same."

Starner said he doesn't think apples will be much more expensive to the consumer because the estimate for total harvest is about the same as last year. Nevertheless, Dot points out that estimates on production levels were reported before the prolonged dry spell was underway

In the area where Starner's Fruit Haven is located, there had been less than two inches of rainfall from May 29 to the second week of September. There were only light sprinkles during those 111 days. Starner said the last time rain was so scarce in that part of Adams County was in 1966. But he said realistically, "This is one business you can't get in and out." He also feels his dwarf trees came through the drought better than his standards.

(Turn to Page C7)

Starner stands by one of the dwarf apple trees. It is easy to see the fan-like appearance of the trained trees, which are pruned and trained to wires. The small tree is easy to harvest and allows many more trees per acre than standard trees.



Starner's daughter Brenda steers the "dwarf apple picking aide" into position very close to the row of trees. Since the trees are trained to wires, the machine can be close enough for easy picking for the driver, who merely picks the low apples within reach.

A view from the front end of the picking aide. The driver is actually seated with his back to the direction the aide is moving, but it's extremely slow movement still allows easy steering as needed. Brenda is picking from the lower portion of the tree and Dot is following behind the machine picking the remainder of the apples, all of which are within arm's reach.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Our daughter has always been an animal lover. Her memory goes way back and includes the names of all of our cats for the past decade or more.

I'm content to remember Smokey, the good mother cat, who always sat on the kitchen window and got the panes dirty. Or, Rainbow, whose colors matched her name, and who we found dead in her tracks in the snow back of the barn one morning many years ago.

But not Cindy, she even remembers the relationship between the present cats and those old-timers. She'll say, "That one is Smokey's granddaughter of "He's Rainbow's son."

Well, this summer she and a girlfriend took a bicycle ride one Sunday evening. Philip had taken me for a nice ride on the Conestoga in our alumnium row boat and when we returned the girls had also come home.

They said something new was up in the barn and finally admitted that they had brought home two tiny black and white kittens that they found on the road in the middle of nowhere.

Yes, there still are a few places like that around here.

Soon the kittens were moved to the back porch as heavy tractors and wagons were not conducive to their safety. Even now we put them in a box at night to protect them from the big cats. Pepper and Sparky are such a joy to watch as they tumble and play in my purple lilies or as they purr on our laps.

The other morning one was stranded at the top of a very large pine tree and it took a lot of coaxing to get it down low enough to jump on the porch roof.

The kind of animals on Lancaster County farms has changed somewhat over the years. My Grandmother had peacocks on her home farm and we had guineas when I was a child but now these are seldom seen. The guineas were noisy and acted as our watch dogs.

The farm that I live on now had turkeys running wild in the woods and goats and sheep in the meadow when I was a youngster. But now we specialize and our barns are full of cows, heifers and calves.

Haven't we lost something somewhere?

Program for handicapped seeks volunteers

QUARRYVILLE — The Silver Shoes 4-H club needs volunteers to help them carry out their program of assisting handicapped persons in learning to ride. The club currently meets two evenings per week with an average of 12 riding members.

Ages of members ranges from 4-27 in a special arrangement which allows any interested handicapped person to participate. According to Leader Carol Henkel, Quarryville, the club currently needs people to lead horses and people to serve as "sidewalkers" who act as aides to the young people in their riding program.

The group meets at Hidden Acres, located four miles south of Quarryville, and some limited transportation is available through Easter Seals which transports some of the riders from Lancaster. Carpools are also arranged to make it easier for volunteers to travel there. Mrs. Henkel said volunteers can work on a weekly basis or monthly basis as their time permits.

She pointed out that three persons are needed per horse - a leader and two sidewalkers. She noted that riding is done outside until cold weather sets in, then the program is continued inside with therapeutic exercises and other teaching sessions which help the participants learn more about the care of a horse and parts of a horse.

Anyone who could volunteer to help in this project is asked to call Mrs. Glenn Myer, Kirkwood, at 529-6201.

For snacks or desserts, bake a cake

Fresh, homemade cake is sure to please the crowd at your table now that cooler weather has arrived and appetites are back to normal. Any of the cakes in this week's column will add the final, delicious touch to your daily meals, or appeal to those hungry children as they jump off the school bus after a hard day at their work.

Try several, and while the cake is still fresh and at its peak cut off a few slices, wrap them individually and put them in the freezer to be grabbed to fill the lunch boxes on those mornings when the cupboard may be bare.

Begin now, select the cake which appeals to you and make it for dessert tonight. Your family will respond with smiles of appreciation.

PINEAPPLE CAKE ROLL

1 15½-ounce can crushed pineapple
½ cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
4 egg yolks
½ teapsoon vanilla
⅓ cup granulated sugar
4 egg whites
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 recipe Pineapple Sauce

Drain pineapple, reserving syrup. If necessary, add water to syrup to make ¾ cup liquid; set aside for sauce.

Stir together the drained pineapple, brown sugar, and melted butter or margarine; spread mixture evenly in bottom of ungreased 15x10x1-inch jelly roll pan. In small mixer bowl beat egg yolks and vanilla about 5 minutes or till thick and lemon-colored. Gradually beat in the ⅓ cup granulated sugar. Wash beaters thoroughly.

In large mixer bowl beat egg whites to soft peaks. Gradually add the ½ cup granulated sugar, beating to stiff peaks. Fold yolks into whites. Stir together flour, baking powder, and salt; sprinkle over egg mixture. Fold in gently. Spread batter over pineapple mixture in pan. Bake at 375° oven for 12 to 15 minutes. Immediately loosen edges of cake from pan and turn out onto towel sprinkle with powdered sugar. (If any pineapple mixture remains in pan, remove with narrow spatula and spread over cake.) Let stand 1 minute. Starting at narrow end roll up cake, usine towel to help you roll. Cool completely on wire rack. To serve, cut into ½-inch slices; place 2 slices on each plate. Spoon Pineapple Sauce over. Makes 10 servings.

To make Pineapple Sauce: In medium saucepan stir together ¼ cup granulated sugar, and 1 tablespoon cornstarch. Add reserved pineapple syrup. Cook and stir till bubbly. Stir in 1 tablespoon butter and a few drops of yellow food coloring, if desired. Cover surface with waxed paper; chill.

RAW APPLE CAKE

4 cups apples, peeled and sliced
2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon baking soda
2 eggs
2 teaspoons cinnamon
3/4 cup oil
2 teaspoons vanilla

Mix sugar and apples in a large mixing bowl. Set aside for a few minutes. Mix dry ingredients with apples. Add eggs, oil and vanilla. Mix thoroughly. Pour in a greased 9" x 13" pan. Bake 50 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Top with a favorite frosting.

Mrs. Leon K. Martin, New Providence.

FRENCH POUND CAKE

½ pound of butter, (sweet butter is best)
1 pound confectioners sugar
4 eggs
3 cups all purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk

Cream the butter and sugar, add eggs, one at a time, beating well. Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Alternately add flour mixture and milk to batter. Beat well. Use a large tube pan, greased and floured. Bake at 350 degrees for 1½ hours.

Gertrude V. Haas, Lenhartsville

SOUR CREAM CAKE

7/8 cup sugar
1 cup sour cream
2 eggs
1 rounded cup flour
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
pinch salt

Cream sugar and eggs. Add soda to the sour cream and add baking powder to salt and flour. Add dry ingredients and sour cream to the creamed mixture. Add vanilla and bake in a tube pan at 350 degrees. (Very rich and light when made with real sour cream.")

Mrs. Donald Hill, Appalachin, N.Y.

CHOCOLATE ECLAIRE CAKE

2 3oz. packages instant French Vanilla pudding
3 cups milk
9 oz. container frozen whipped topping
1 box graham crackers

Mix pudding and milk until thick with electric mixer. Fold in whipped topping. Put a single layer of crackers in a 9" x 13" cake pan. (Do not crush - piece when layering crackers.)

Pour half of pudding mix on top. Spread evenly. Place another layer of crackers and add remaining pudding on top. Add another layer of crakers.

ICING

2 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons cocoa
2 teaspoons light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups confectioners sugar
3 tablespoons milk

Heat until dissolved. Pour on top of crackers. Refrigerate 24 hours.

Mrs. Belinda Myers, Dallastown

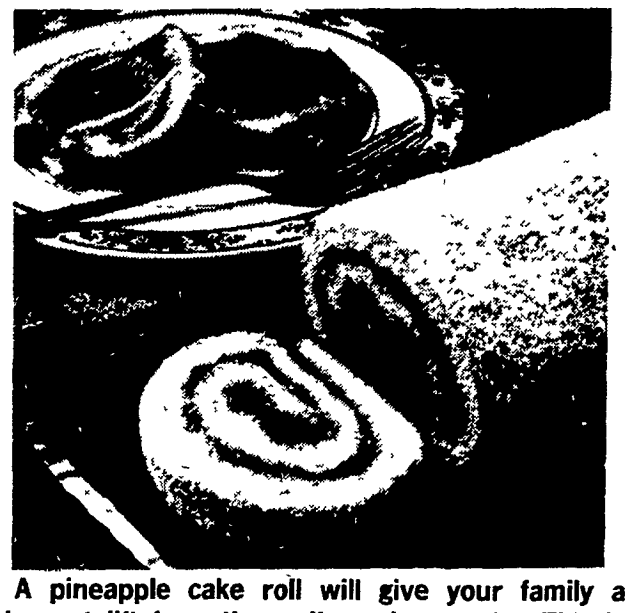
BOSTON CREAM PIE

3/4 cup cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks (¼ cup)
½ cup sugar
¼ cup boiling water
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon lemon flavoring

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour one 8" or 9" cake pan. Blend flour, baking powder and salt. Set aside. Beat egg yolks in small mixer bowl until very thick and lemon colored. Beat sugar in gradually. Blend in water and flavorings slowly. Quickly blend in dry ingredients; pour into pan. Bake about 25 minutes. Let cool 8-10 minutes; then remove from pan. When cool split layer and fill.

FILLING

¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla



A pineapple cake roll will give your family a pleasant lift from the ordinary layer cake. This is easy to make and the luscious pineapple sauce makes it elegant enough for company.

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Gradually stir in milk. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir at least half of hot mixture into egg yolk. Blend into remaining mixture. Boil one minute or more. Remove from heat. Blend in butter and vanilla. Cool, stirring occasionally.

GLAZE

1 square unsweetened chocolate
1 teaspoon butter
1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
2 tablespoons boiling water

Melt chocolate and butter together over hot water. Remove from heat. Blend in sugar and water. Beat only until smooth but not stiff. Pour over top layer of cake.

BANANA CAKE

3 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
3/4 cup shortening
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
1 cup mashed bananas
1 cup sour milk

Cream shortening and sugar, add eggs, sour milk and bananas. Add flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes in a 9"x13" cake pan.

Marie S. Martin, Ephrata

RED BEET CHOCOLATE CAKE

3 eggs
2 squares chocolate
1½ teaspoons soda
1 cup oil
1½ cup sieved beets (blended)
1 3/4 cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar and eggs. Add vegetable oil, beets and chocolate. Sift flour, soda and salt. Add vanilla to other ingredients. Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes in a 12"x 8"x 2" pan.

COCOA CREAM FROSTING

¼ cup soft butter
2 cups sifted confectioners sugar
¼ cup cocoa
¼ cup evaportated milk or cream
3/4 teaspoon vanilla

Blend ingredients together.

Annabelle Menegus

SPUD AND SPICE CAKE

1 3/4 cup sugar
1 cup cold mashed potatoes
3/4 cup shortening
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
3 eggs
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
2 cups flour
3/4 cup nuts, chopped
2 tablespoons flour

Combine and cream thoroughly sugar, mashed potatoes, shortening, cinnamon, salt and nutmeg. Add eggs, then combine 1 teaspoon soda, buttermilk and flour. Coat the nuts with the 2 tablespoons flour and stir into batter. Turn into a 13"x9" cake pan, which has been greased and floured. Bake at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes. When cool, frost with favorite frosting.

Dwarf trees challenge Starner

A year ago in June, Starner suffered a heart attack and has been forced to slow down his pace somewhat. He is still involved and works at "everything but the picking. I can't take the physical work." During the picking he keeps busy keeping trucks loaded and bins unloaded.

He has also given up some of his community involvement which he had felt was important, but notes, "There comes a time when somebody else can take your place."

He had been a member of the board of the Adams County Fruit Growers, Inc., for 21 years, taught Sunday School at the Bendersville Lutheran Church for 34 years, was president of the Upper Adams Young Farmers twice, was active as a school director and president of the PTA. He is an annual bus guide for the Apple Blossom Festival, something he feels is important because, "It gives the general public an idea of how much work goes into growing apples."

Starner now lives on part of the home farm where his father was a fruit grower and general farmer. Starner began at Penn State in agricultural economics and extension but his education was interrupted by the first peace time draft. He never went back to college and took a job with Duffy-Mott as an apply buyer. He also traveled to Mexico as an International Farm Youth Exchange student, and then got into the fruit business.

He points out, "Every building and shed I built myself." There is always work on a fruit farm, with machinery to fix and, as Starner puts it, "things to invent." His picking aide was not his first invention. He said. "I built a tree planter. There is now a commercial one, but I had mine built before the commercial ones came out." With good humor he says, "I built things that don't work too."

Starner's operation may be small, but he is quick to use labor-saving devices. He says proudly, "I have not used ladders to pick apples for 17 years." He adapted a hydraulic pruning device to use for picking, saying "It was only the second one to come into the county. It goes all winter to prune trees. I had to make a lot of changes to use it for a picker, and I put a fan on it to keep cool." With that, Starner, the observer of weather patterns, says, "It's been hotter in the Falls. We've had a lot of hot weather in October. The sun has really been hotter."

For the Starner family, a small orchard is what they prefer. It offers an adequate living and allows them to work together as a unit. And in those small orchards, the small trees are offering the challenge which Starner enjoys.

It's easy to predict that Myles Starner will continue to educate himself about the trees, and continue to think of ways to make production easier. It's that challenge which makes him a successful fruit grower.

Dot picks apples from the dwarf trees and will simply need to turn and empty her bag into the bin which is carried on the slow moving vehicle. When that bin is filled, it will be dropped off, and another bin will be lowered from the top. The aide is designed to carry four empty bins and there are several picking buckets so that the driver always has an empty one as hers is filled.

Hard Surface Rock Shares give you many advantages The nose of the share is protected on the bottom side with a deposit of tungsten carbide that is twice the area covered by competitive shares In addition tungsten carbide is deposited on the quarter bar of the share which gives the greatest possible life as well as holding the nose to the original shape for a much longer time Super high alloy hard metal is used on blade section of share and because of such high alloy deposit can be applied in a wider and thinner application Therefore the share is thin and sharp which greatly reduces friction and actually creates a self sharpening blade edge creating a huge savings in fuel consumption Many users claim fuel savings actually pay for shares in addition to the large increase in share life Most competitive shares have much too thick a hard metal deposit and share remains dull for its entire life

MAHOGANY CHIFFON CAKE

3/4 cup boiling water
½ cup cocoa
1 3/4 cups Softasilk flour
1 3/4 cup sugar
1½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup vegetable oil
7 unbeaten egg yolks (medium)
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup egg whites (7 or 8)
½ teaspoon cream of tartar

Heat oven to 325 degrees. Combine boiling water and cocoa, let cool. Blend flour, sugar, soda and salt in bowl. Make a well, add oil, egg yolks, vanilla and cocoa mixture. Beat until smooth. Measure egg whites and cream of tartar into large mixing bowl and beat until very stiff. Pour egg yolk mixture in thin stream over entire surface of egg whites, gently cutting and folding in with rubber spatula until completely blended. Pour into ungreased 10" tube pan. Bake at 55 minutes at 325 degrees, then at 350 degrees for 10-15 minutes. Invert. Let hang to cool.

Mrs. David Blank, Kinzers

GLORIFIED GINGERBREAD

½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons molasses
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk

Sift flour, measure and add spices. Sift again. Rub fat into dry ingredients to make fine crumbs. Take out ½ cup crumbs to spinkle over the top of the mixture. To the remaining crumbs, add the egg, molasses, salt, soda, and sour milk. Beat until the ingredients are well blended and batter is smooth. Pour into greaded, waxed-paper-lined pan. Sprinkle with crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Makes an 8"x 8"x 1½" cake.

Weaver B. Shirk, Ephrata

HOT MILK SPONGE CAKE

4 eggs, large
1½ cups granulated sugar
2 cups cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk

Beat 4 large eggs on high speed in small mixer bowl for about 5 minutes, until thick and creamy. Add granulated sugar and continue beating for five minutes more. Pour into large bowl, add two cups cake flour and the baking powder. Fold into egg mixture. Add the milk which is boiling hot. Mix in gently. Bake in 2 8" or 9" layer cake pans or 1 9"x13" pan. May be cooled and iced or served warm with fruit and milk.

Grange takes over film foundation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Edward Andersen, Master of the National Grange, announced here recently the acquistion of the Farm Film Foundation by the National Grange.

The 34 year old Foundation serves as a film distribution center for educational and informational films related to agriculture and rural communities.

Andersen said the name has been changed to Grange-Farm Film Foundation and will operate out of Grange headquarters at 1616 H St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20006.

He also announced that William Steel will be the new Director of the Foundation replacing Dana Bennett who announced his retirement recently.

Agri-Women Host National Convention

HERSHEY — Penn's Agri-Women held their 4th Annual Convention last Tuesday at Hershey Convention Center.

Ethel Gross, Pres. Manchester, York Co. presided. Joyce Hershey, Chester County, was Spokeswoman for Young Farmers. The afternoon session was highlighted with a talk by Richard Zook, York, representing the Federal Land Bank Association.

Gail McPherson, York County, was elected President for 1981. Gail gave a preview of what will take place at the American Agri-Women's Convention. This convention will convene Sunday, November the 9, and continue through the 14th at Hershey Convention Center. Each day there will be a Media Communications Workshop lasting from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Monday's opening session will be on the Incredible Bread Machine. On the panel will be Hiram Drachey and Susan Sechler. The afternoon session will include Peg Rogers, director of food advisory board, talking on critical food issues.

Tuesday's opening session will be Washington On The Line and will include an international panel of foreign agricultural attaches representing Australia, Brazil, and the Netherlands. Moderator will be Larry Waterfield, Washington, editor of the "Packer".

Land use, importing and exporting, fruit and vegetable trade will be discussed.

Following a luncheon, Eileen Nutting, Agriculture Advisory Committee, Michigan Departemnt of Agriculture, will talk on The Double Burden of Soviet Farm Women. The afternoon session Tuesday will include a debate, Should Food Be Used as a Foreign Policy Tool?

Wednesday there will be a convention tour to Donegal Mills Planation, Groff's Restaurant for lunch and to Sperry New Holland's plant.

Thursday morning's topic will be People on the Farm with Lilly Vincent, director of Consumer Information for the USDA. There will be a panel of AAW Affiliate Presidents put on the spot answering questions and criticisms by non-farmers. This panel will include Laura Heuser as moderator with Ann Herr, WGAL-TV, and Ann Kaiser, Wisconsin, Editor of "Farm Wife" magazine.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Co. Society 4

The Berks County Society of Farm Women 4, met at the home of Mrs. Mamie Hafer, Oley Rd. in September for their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Evelyn Becker, Kutztown, Pa. was co-hostess. Mrs. Kay Youse of Boyertown R3, gave an exhibition of Belly dancing which was most interesting.

The eight members and one guest, Mrs. Charlotte Mauger, Bechtelsville, Pa. answered the question - "What is your exercise routine."

The monthly Newsletter from Hamburg State School was read, also, a list of contest winners from Ocean Spray Cranberry Co. Eight members will attend the tenth Anniversary of Society 9 on September 17.

Nine members will attend the County Convention on October 4, at the Agricultural Center in Bernville.

Hymnals will be given by Society 4 to the Spangsville Church, Spangsville, Pa., in memory of Mrs. Katherine Harrison, a deceased member.

The October 6 meeting, will be held at the home of Mrs. Verna Taylor, Boyertown, R3.

Cumberland Co. Society 4

The regular monthly meeting of Cumberland County Society of Farm Women 10 was held September 18 at the home of Mrs. Nan Clugston, Newville R2. Devotions, led by Mrs. Margaret Smith, were followed by the Lord's Prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance. Roll call was answered by 10 members giving a safety hint.

The business meeting was in the charge of the president, Mrs. Gertrude Staver. Officers were elected for 1981: President, Mrs. Bernita Gilbert; Vice President, Mrs. Marie Myers; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Dorine Barnhart; Recording Secretary, Mrs Mary Ann Hershey; and Treasurer, Mrs. Margaret Smith.

The program was on safety. Mrs. Maxine Strohm gave some hints on wood burning stoves and distributed literature on safety in using them.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bernita Gilbert, Shippensburg R1, on October 16 at 7:30 p.m.

Lancaster Co. Society 4

Lancaster County Society of Farm Women 4 met on September 27 at the home of Mrs. Eva Gingrich. Twenty-seven persons attended.

Mrs. Gingrich and her co-hostess, Mrs. Maud Mohler, served refreshments during the social hour. Mrs. Carl Siegrist presided at the business meeting which followed. Devotions were led by Mrs. Mary Reapsome. Roll call was answwered by naming a favorite school teacher. Guests introduced were: John Gingrich, Elizabeth Robinson, and Hazel Crankshaw.

A bus trip to the Poconos is scheduled for Saturday, October 4. The bus will leave from the rear parking lot of Mountville Elementary School at 6:15 a.m.

Children from the Messiah Home in Florin will be entertained by the ladies with an old-fashioned "doggie roast" at the Ironville Band Hall on October 7 at 5 p.m.

On October 16, the group is scheduled to visit Conestoga View.

A by-law committee chaired by Mrs. E. Robert Nolt presented a set of revised by-laws to be voted upon next month by members.

The nominating committee, led by Mrs. Edwin Yesglin presented a slate of officers to be voted upon at the next meeting: president, Mrs. Charles Shellenberger; vice-president, Miss Alice Marie Nissley; secretary, Mrs. Henry Reist; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Garber; convention delegates, Mrs. Cyrus Gamble and Mrs. John Mellinger; alternate delegate, Mrs. Richard King.

Guest speaker was Miss Mary Holbrook, of New Holland Farmers National Bank. Her topic was "Wills." She was assisted by John Beatly, also of the New Holland Bank, in the question and answer period following her talk.

The next meeting of Society 4 will be held at the home of Mrs. Anna Campbell of Red Bud Drive in Millersville on October 25. Members are asked to bring dues and their contributions for the Needlework Guild.

Farm Women Societies

Society 5 celebrated their 60th anniversary by taking a bus trip on September 13 to Adams County where they had a home-style cooked meal at Hickory Bridge Farm Restaurant. They also enjoyed Neil Simon's Chapter Two at the Totem Pole Playhouse.

On September 20 they entertained Society 27 at the Hempfield Church of the Brethern. A memorial service was conducted by Mrs. Martha Heidman for Mrs. Gertrude Forney. A short comical dramatization was done by Mrs. Goldie Groff. Mrs. Emmie Snavely, accompanied by Mrs. Terri Mummau, sang two numbers relating to Mrs. Ruth Ann Fitzgerald's inspiring talk on How to Live with Illness Today.

On October 16, members of Society 5 will be visiting the guests at Conestoga View. The October meeting will be held on the 25th at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Thomas.

Lancaster Co. Society 8

Farm Women's Society 8 members have enjoyed several educational trips in September. Early in the month, they went to Shady Maple, to be entertained by another Society. There were many things of interest to be seen and they were served tasty food in the building.

Later in the month they took a bus trip to Annapolis, Maryland. This was a harbor trip and they were given a forty minute boat cruise. They went to a seafood house for a delicious meal which was a treat. Ethel Herr and Margaret Heisey were in charge of trip details.

On September 27, the Society met at the home of Grace Bixler. Twenty-six members and one visitor attended. Kathryn Heisey, president of the Society, presided over the meeting.

The song We plow the Fields and Scatter, was sung by all as Mary Grace Martin led and Pauline Miller accompanied on the piano. Mary Grace was in charge of devotions, giving thoughts on the changes appearing before us in the fall season. Temperature changes, leaf coloring and activities remind us that October has arrived. She also read scripture.

Anna Mae Derr, secretary, read the minutes of recent activities and took the Roll Call. Members told who was president the year of their birth, as response to Roll Call.

The Treasurer's report was given by Hettie Ginder. The Sunshine Committee reported having received notes of thanks from those who were hospitalized lately.

Grace Bixler had the main feature of the afternoon. She gave many pointers on successful growing of dahlias for much pleasure. she showed lovely blooms from her own garden.

Delicious refreshments were served during social time.

Hostesses were Grace Bixler, Elizabeth Shuman, Ruth Drager and Mary Shaeffer.

Some members will sew at the General Hospital on October 2nd.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Alice Myers, Mount Joy R1. The date is October 18 at 2 p.m. Vera Cox will present the main feature of the afternoon.

Lancaster Co. Society 21

Farm Women Society 21 met on September 10 at the home of Hazel Aument. Hazel opened the meeting by reading from Chapter 13 of Corinthians.

Roll call was taken. There were 22 members present and 2 visitors, Mrs. Corinne Nissley, past president of Lancaster Co. and Mrs. Opal Ruhl, Lancaster Co. president.

The secretary's report was read and approved. The treasurer, Joanne Roth, reported a balance of

ARE YOU THINKING ABOUT ROOFING?

SAVE $$$ FOUR WAYS

Whether re-roofing or re-siding an old structure, or building a brand new one, extremely strong and lightweight Durashield is ideal for barns, confinement buildings, storage sheds, garages, marinas, commercial structures and similar applications.

SAVE 1 Generally, the initial purchase of Durashield figures out to be lower priced than other types of corrugated roofing.

SAVE 2 Because new Durashield comes in 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 foot lengths it goes on faster. It installs directly on purlins, no decking necessary. So you have big savings on installation costs.

SAVE 3 New Durashield is an acrylic coated, asphalt impregnated, cellulose fiber material that can't rust or corrode. It insulates and helps control condensation. It's immune to animal wastes, fertilizers and many chemicals. Whatever you're storing under Durashield, it's better protected so saves you money with less loss and/or less maintenance.

SAVE 4 Accelerated testing proves new Durashield lasts long under all types of weather conditions. No need for early repairs or replacements, so you save in the long run.

New Durashield is sold and distributed throughout Eastern Pennsylvania by J.C. Snavely & Sons, Inc. of Lancaster, Pa. If you're interested in roofing your building, or as a dealer interested in stocking Durashield, contact us immediately.

$628.01. A profit of $116 was made from the Carol Herr sale. New flags for the meetings were purchased by the president, Lois Aument.

Lois read a letter from Doris Thomas on the Christmas in October Bazaar. A donation of $25 was made to the Southern Lancaster County Library Center in Quarryville. A $100 donation was made to the county project, Hospice.

The county convention is November 1 and the state convention is January 12 and 13.

Lois read an article on Volunteers by Erma Bombeck. The meeting adjourned with the singing of Brighten the Corner Where You Are.

Refreshments were served by Hazel Aument and co-hostesses Abbie Bradley and Linda Dreider.

Lancaster Co. Society 22

The September meeting of Farm Women Society 22 was held at the Lancaster County Blind Ass'n in Lancaster where Executive Director Mrs. Miriam Campbell, gave a tour of the new facilities and also a brief resume of the aims and goals of the Association.

Vice President, Mrs. William Weller, called the meeting to order. Mrs. E. Clair Witmer lead devotions. Roll call was answered with date of last physical.

It was decided to reprint the first cookbook "Dinner Bell". A motion was made to order the second edition "Dinner Bell Rings Again" at a later date.

Members were urged to make and freeze baked goods made from apples for the October 21 and 22 Town Fair. A motion was made to send a donation to LARC and to the Lancaster County Blind Association.

President Weller reminded members that husbands will be entertained at the Refton Fire Hall in November. A craft day is scheduled in October. The meeting will begin at 9 A.M. in the Lampeter Fire Hall, Lampeter, Pa.

Lancaster Co. Society 26

Society 26 had a cosmetics workshop by Shirley Burris and Verna Frey to learn proper makeup application. Plans were made for the food stand at the Manheim Farm Fair Oct. 6 to 11. Work schedules and donation charts were filled out. Programs are being planned for next year. The County Convention will be held November 1 at the Farm and Home Center. The Homemaker's Christmas Program will be October 20 and 21. In November couples night will be spent at the Spectrum seeing the Flyers hockey game.

York Co. Society 12

Friendly Society of Farm Women Group 12 met at the home of Mrs. Chester Craley. Twenty-one members and one guest attended.

Mrs. Romaine Shelley, a society member, told of her recent trip to Germany and to witness the Passion Play.

The group will hold a rummage sale in York, Wednesday, October 8.

Five members, having birthdays this month were recognized. They are: Mrs. Ida Lanius, Mrs. Ernestine Swagart, Mrs. Donald Lanius, Mrs. Carrie Chronister, and Mrs. Chester Craley.

The hostess, Mrs. Craley, won a prize.

The York County Convention is set for Thursday, November 6 at St. Matthews Lutheran Church.

The October meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Helena Stover, Yoe, on Tuesday, October 28 at 1:30 p.m.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

From outward appearances, the correspondence looked impressive.

The message of the elegant business stationary confided that my name had been given to their firm as an individual who might be interested in a position as an overseas agriculture consultant.

Overseas agriculture consultant? Who? Me?

Well. I was tempted to be impressed.

Except that the overture came as a form letter.

It immediately joined a fistful of similar pieces of the day's mail, destined for recycling into something more worthwhile through the various youth group paper drives sponsored in our community.

But, as the day wore on, the contents of the letter bothered me more and more.

Not that I had any desire to become an overseas consultant, although I must admit there are a few minimal things I'm very good at: yelling and waving my hands at cows streaking across the back yard; emptying household and barn varieties of wastebaskets; methodically breaking glass and china wares; hanging up on pesty telephone salespeople.

Why, I'm even good at sweeping out calf barns, my specialty. But I don't think that's what most State Department people refer to when they talk about making "sweeping changes" around the world.

Actually, what really bugged me was wondering who turned my name in because they wanted me packed up overseas.

One of his old girlfriends?

Certainly not my mother-in-law.

Someone who disagrees with this column?

Or even possibly the nearby resident who called in the dog law officer when our male dog visited his female dog, tied outside while she was in heat.

So if someone was subtly sending me a message, I have only one answer: forget it. I don't take hints very easily.

DEAL RATIONALLY WITH ADVERTISING

Approximately $29 billion per year is spent on advertisements and commercials and sixteen hundred of these reach each American daily. The purpose is to persuade you, the consumer, to spend your dollars for a particular product or service.

Advertising has a tremendous influence on consumers' decisions. This is why it is extremely important to analyze ads in order to distinguish between emotional and rational appeals.

Certain terms and techniques are often used to appeal to the consumer. For example, "wholesale prices" are often advertised, but how likely is it that you will be able to buy merchandise at genuine wholesale prices?

Sometimes the ad offers a free gift with the purchase of an item in order to entice you to enter the store or order by mail. The price of the "free gift," however, is usually included in the price of the sale item.

One practice to lure consumers into a store is fictitious pre-ticketing. An extremely high price tag is put on an item with no intention of selling it for that price. When the $90 item is advertised for $45 the consumer has the illusion of a 50 percent reduction.

"Lead" or "loss" items are used to lure customers inside a store. These are legitimate items advertised at a good price, possibly below cost. These items may be scattered so that you must look and walk through the whole store. Most people buy more than the "lead" item. The "lead" serves two purposes, bringing potential buyers into the store and tempting them to make purchases.

You may be drawn into a store by an ad offering a product at a fantastically low price. When you get there the salesperson may try to switch you to a higher priced item, making it sound so much better that the original item sounds worthless. Or he may use other tactics such as saying the sale item is sold out, is on back order, or never came in. This is referred to as a "bait and switch" tactic.

There may be situations where sales people try to sell you a higher quality item because it honestly fits your needs better. This technique is called "selling up" or "trading up". If the advertised item is in stock and appears of good value and the salesperson doesn't downgrade it, the "bait and switch" method is not being used. It is your free choice as a consumer to decide which item to buy.

Each time you are influenced by advertising and a decision is to be made, analyze the situation. Being aware of advertising's tactics and understanding its emotional appeals will help you be a wiser consumer.

PROTECT CHILDREN THIS HALLOWEEN WITH HOME FLAME RETARDANT TREATMENT

Don't take chances--protect your children from possible disaster this Halloween by making sure their costumes are treated with a flame retardant finish. A flimsy costume can catch fire instantly if it comes too near an open flame.

Costumes which are not purchased with a flame-retardant finish should be given a home treatment.

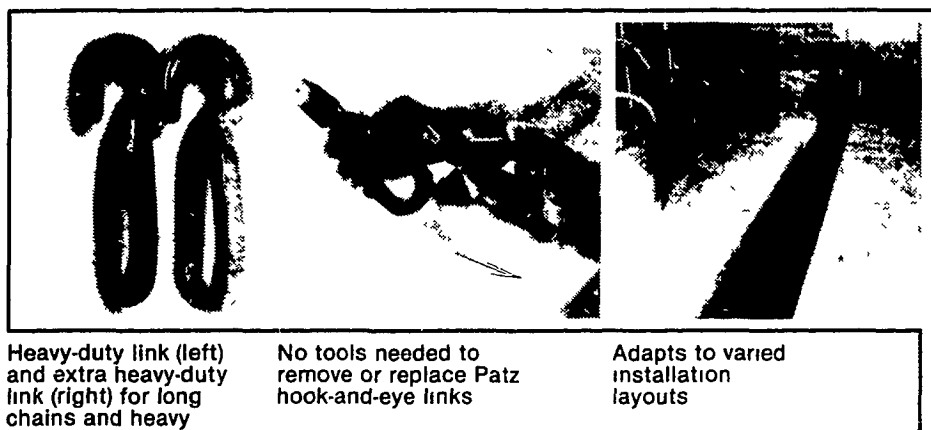
For 100 percent cotton fabrics, mix seven ounces of borax, three ounces of boric acid and two quarts of hot water. The soluation may gel as it cools but if this happens merely reheat it. Dip the dry fabric into the solution.

You can also spray on this treatment. Make sure however that the fabric is completely saturated with the solution or it will not be effective. Press the costume with a warm, not hot, iron when partially dry.

To treat rayon or easy-care cottons, dissolve 12 ounces of diammonium phosphate in two quarts of water and stir the mixture until it is clear. Dip the dry fabric into the solution and press it with a warm iron when the fabric is almost dry. You may purchase these chemicals at most drug stores.

Remember that this treatment is not permanent and needs to be repeated each year and after each washing. The costume is not made fireproof by this treatment. It will still char and crumble when exposed to fire.

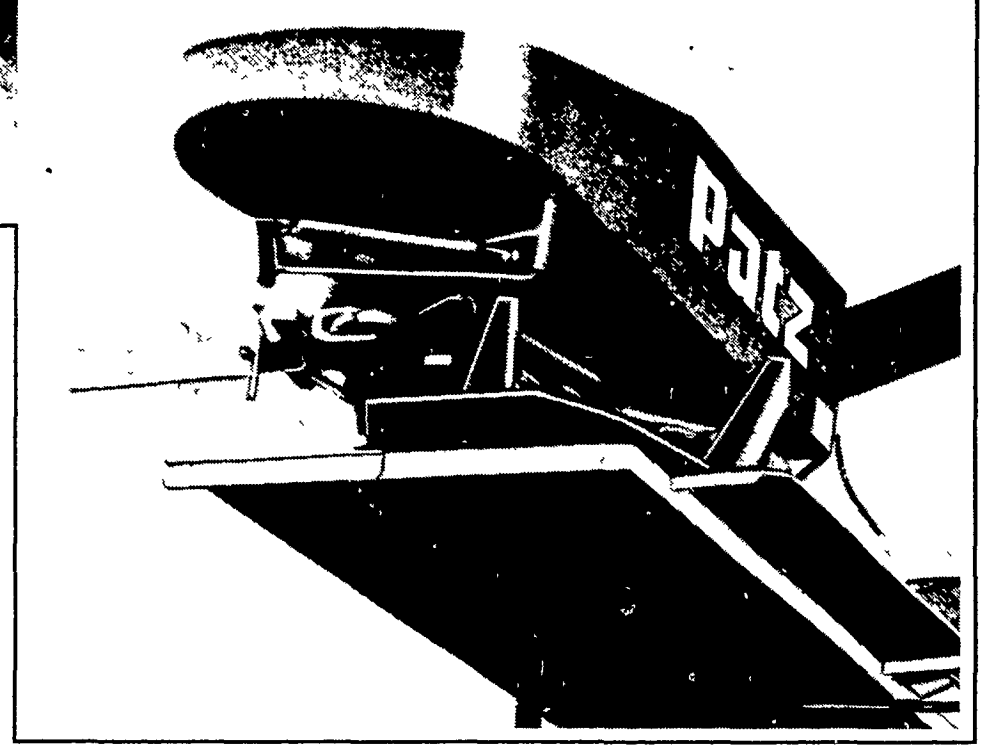
THE PATZ SOLUTION:
Rugged, Dependable Gutter Cleaners



Heavy-duty link (left) and extra heavy-duty link (right) for long chains and heavy loads.

No tools needed to remove or replace Patz hook-and-eye links

Adapts to varied installation layouts



Your gutter cleaner has to work day after day, year after year. Better make sure you can depend on it.

Patz gives you over 30 years of quality and dependability in every gutter cleaner we make. We're the ones with the proven forged steel hook-and-eye link . . . the secret to Patz performance. You can easily remove or replace links and flites without tools.

Your Patz gutter cleaner becomes a wise investment for you over the years because it's built to last. The all-steel slide and one-piece steel flites with wear shoes are engineered to withstand the rugged wear of everyday operation. And Patz gutter cleaners are adaptable to many layouts.

Thinking of stacking manure? Consider a Patz Tripod Supported Stacker or a Swinging Slide Stacker. You'll save with Patz because one motor and reducer run both the gutter cleaner and stacker.

Talk to your Patz dealer. He'll show you how Patz performance means fewer problems for you. And that gives you more time to manage your livestock operation for greater profit.

York County Holstein named grand champion

HARRISBURG — Northcroft Ella Elevation, owned by Woodbine Holsteins, R2 Airville, York County, moved from state to national prominence all in the span of a few short months this year.

The six-year-old Holstein, competing in the aged cow class, went on from winning her class to capture grand champion female honors at the 1980 Eastern National Holstein Show last week.

Earlier this year, on April 10, she took similar honors at the 27th Pennsylvania Holstein Show, which was also held in the Farm Show Building.

Sired by Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation, she is out of Northcroft Ella Arlinda. As a four-year-old, her production record totaled 34,107 lbs. of milk and 1369 lbs. of fat.

The reserve grand champion female, C Sunnydene Ned Ginger, was exhibited by Winter Place, of Winslow, Me.

The first-place state herd was shown by the Pa. Holstein Association, of State College.

Premier breeder and exhibitor of the show was Pinehurst Farms, of Sheboygan Falls, Wisc. Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation, owned by Select Sires, of Plain City, Ohio, was named premier sire.

Results of the Holstein Show in classes judged on Friday, Sept. 26, include:

Milking senior yearling – 1, Linden-Loch Holsteins, Oley, Pa.; 2 and 3, Kingstead Farms, Damascus, Md.; 4, Pinehurst Farms, Sheboygan Falls, WI; 5, Krahn Farm, Seymour, WI.

Cow, 2 years old – 1, Rowindale, Farm, Waterloo, NY; 2, Browndale Farms, Ontario, Canada; 3, Willowbrook Farm, Columbiana, OH; 4, Lantland Farm, Horseheads, NY; 5, Kaindale, Farm, Amenia, NY.

Cow, 3 years old – 1, Bower Farms, Inc., Lagrangeville, NY; 2, Pinehurst Farms; 3, Huntsdale Stock Farm, Carlisle, Pa.; 4, David S. Hill, Emmitsburg, Md.; 5, Michalle Main, Copake, NY.

Cow, 4 years old – 1, Pinehurst Farms; 2, Winter Place, Winslow, Me.; 3, Lantland Farm; 4, Stave Mill Farm, Centre Hall, Pa.; 5, Gary N. Darling, Groton, NY.

Cow, 5 years or over – Woodbine Holsteins, Airville, Pa.; 2, Winter Place; 3,

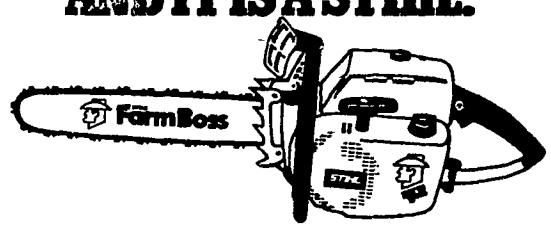
WE HAVE THE FARM BOSS™ AND IT IS A STIHL.



IT STARTS EASIER.
Because of a hotter spark better carburetion and a flood free design.
IT'S MORE RELIABLE.
Because it has longer wearing moving parts that won't break down.
IT'S MORE POWERFUL.
Because it has the biggest power to weight ratio of any popular saw
IT'S QUIETER.
Because its large, baffled muffler is more than just a tin box.
IT COSTS LESS
Because a saw that'll last about twice as long will only cost about half as much.
IT COMES WITH A BONUS
Over $30 worth of free accessories including a spare cutting chain really make the Farm Boss a Stihl.

STIHL®
The world's largest selling chain saw.

New Horizons for Chester 4-H'ers

WEST CHESTER — Over 1000 4-H members in Chester County will be celebrating National 4-H Week, October 5-11. This year's theme is "Expanding Horizons."

Expanding horizons for millions of youth and adults as they work to build their personal strengths, acquire life skills and master new knowledge - this is 4-H today.

For the 4-H members of Chester County, these new horizons begin with the very first involvement in a learn-by-doing project in one of 50 4-H clubs through the county. A 4-H project may be: raising an animal; growing a crop; learning to buy wisely; developing sound health and nutrition habits; becoming a more effective communicator; learning a specific skill such as clothing construction; any one or more than 100 projects that give 5,000,000 youth in 4-H practical, real life skills.

Clubs in Chester County have 172 adult volunteer leaders to assist over 1000 4-H members in learning new skills and having fun through 4-H. Members come from all areas of the county, Elverson, Phoenixville, West Chester, Downingtown, Coatesville, Oxford, Kennett Square to participate in a variety of projects.

To join one of these 4-H clubs or to start your own neighborhood 4-H club, call Jan Renner, at the County 4-H office, 696-3500. Expand your horizons today, join 4-H during National 4-H Week.

4-H is on the move

UNIVERSITY PARK — Last year, Pennsylvania's 4-H program reached over 15,000 boys and girls ages eight to nineteen. That sounds like a lot of young people, but actually it's only 6.5 percent of Pennsylvania's youth.

4-H has lots of room to grow. And with your help, it can. Last year in Pennsylvania more than 13,000 men, women, and teen volunteers helped youngsters 'learn by doing' in 4-H projects like photography, horsemanship, electronics, sewing, automotive care, and career exploration. These projects teach a youngster practical skills and responsibility—things he can carry into the future.

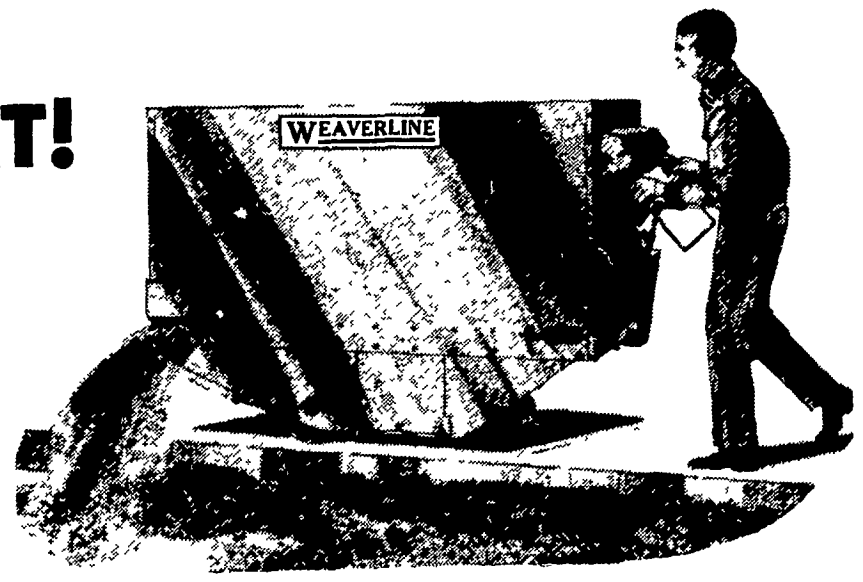
"Over two million hours valued at over 10 million dollars were volunteered last year to help Pennsylvania 4-H'ers grow," says Dr. Maurice Kramer, State 4-H Program Director.

The average Pennsylvania 4-H volunteer gives 200 hours of his time, energy, resources, and a whole lot more. "Our volunteers give so unselfishly," says Dr. Kramer. "But they do receive payment-they get the satisfaction of knowing that they made a youngster's transition into adulthood easier and a lot more fun."

4-H needs you. Would you like to be a 4-H volunteer? Call your local Cooperative Extension Service for more information.

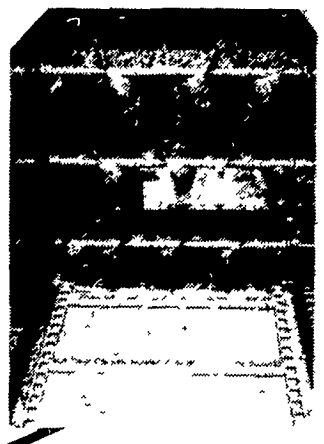
THE WEAVERLINE SERIES 300 BATTERY-POWERED FEED TRANSPORT CART!

TWO SIZES: 24 BUSHEL MODEL 323
30 BUSHEL MODEL 330

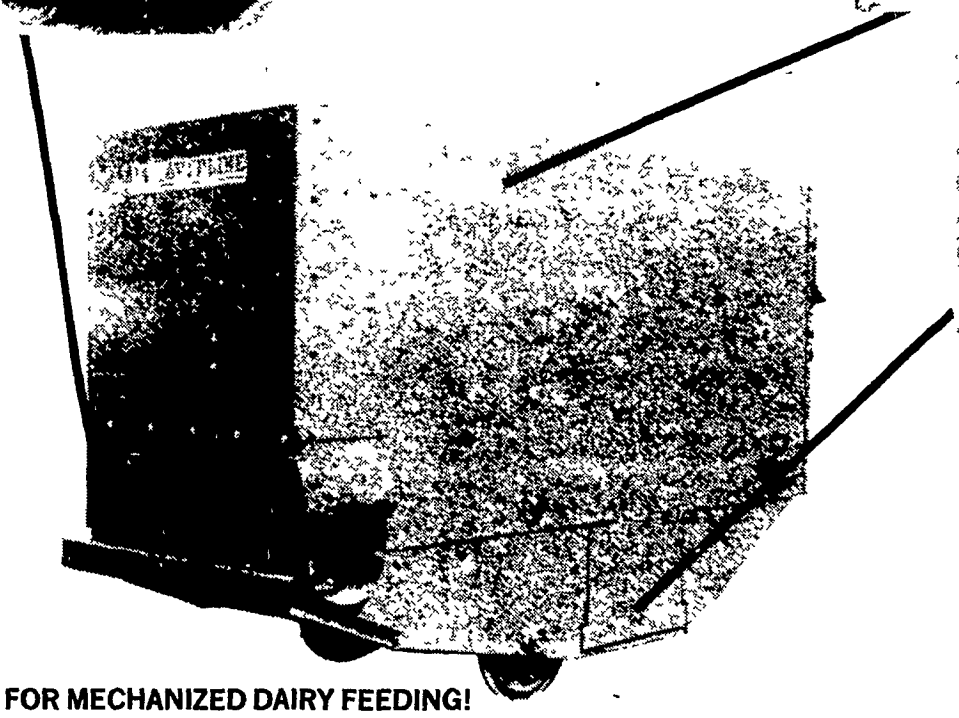


Check These Advanced-Engineering Features

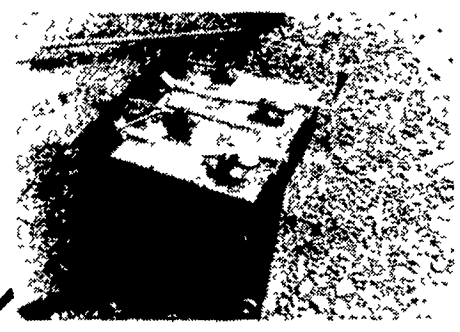
PROVEN UNLOADING-DRIVE LINKAGE
Smooth-running roller-chain and belt-drive combination provides 6 conveyor speeds plus individual on-and-off control of upper and lower sets of augers.



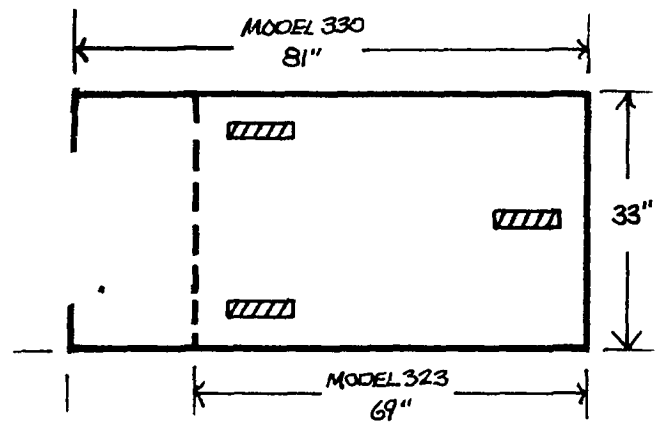
CONTROLLED UNLOADING
Apron conveyor and two pairs of augers can be controlled individually. Upper augers prevent bridging. Lower augers and conveyor control discharge flow.



FOR MECHANIZED DAIRY FEEDING!
Cut your labor costs with this modern Weaverline material-handling system. Built to stand up to years of heavy loads, Weaverline Series 300 feed-transport carts are designed with larger discharge augers, more auger clearance, extra-heavy steel bottoms, stronger conveyor shafts and heavy-duty bumper guard shields. For a dairy feeding system that demands minimum maintenance and service, specify Weaverline. See these new Series 300 transport carts at your dealer. Or write Weaverline Corporation, Churchtown, Pennsylvania 17510. Telephone (215) 445-6724.



CONVENIENT POWER PACK
Weaverline 4-unit battery pack provides plenty of transport and unloading power. Batteries roll out either side of quick servicing. To charge, just plug into charging recepticle from any 115 volt AC power source.



TWO MODELS
For maximum capacity, the larger Model 330 measures 81 inches long, 33 inches wide and holds 30 bushels. For tight corners, the compact Model 323 69 inches long and 33 inches wide. Holds 24 bushels. Tricycle running gear makes both units easy to turn—easy to guide.

Simmental Trait Leader bulls named

BOZEMAN, Mt. — The American Simmental Association recently announced 68 purebred Simmental bulls, including 14 that qualified in more than one category, are recognized as Trait Leaders for 1981.

Based on date contained in the 1980-81 National Simmental Sire Summary, these Trait Leaders include bulls whose progeny lead the breed in six important economic traits - calving ease, weaning weight, yearling weight, carcass value, daughters' first calf calving ease, and daughters' first calf weaning weight.

"This recognition is based upon an evaluation of the performance records from 1038 bulls listed in the 1980-81 Sire Summary" said Executive Secretary Earl B. Peterson. "A total of 411,341 performance records from 38,315 management units were considered. Publication of comparative performance data is an automatic feature of the ASA system.

To qualify as a Genetic Trait Leader in the Simmental breed, a bull must be used in at least two herds and have 20 or more progeny whose performance ranks in the top two percent of all those reported in the breed.

Each year when the Sire Summary data is printed, the list of elite sires is published. A bull can be named in more than one trait provided his progeny continue to rank among the best in the breed.

Data on all 1038 bulls and a complete listing of every trait leader is contained in the 1980-81 National Simmental Sire Summary which will be released on or before November 1, 1980.

Farmers for Carter name dairyman state chairman

MILLVILLE — Pennsylvania's Farmers for Carter Committee today announced the appointment of Christian F. Wolff, Jr., a dairyman from Columbia County, as its Chairman.

In partnership with his son, Dennis, Wolff operates the 360 acre Pen-Col Farms near Millville.

The dairy farm boasts a renowned herd of registered Holstein cattle, and Wolff was presented the Master Farmer Award in 1978. He is a member of the State board of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association.

"I am honored to have been asked to serve as chairman of the Pennsylvania Farmers for Carter Committee," Wolff said, "because it will give me the opportunity to talk to farmers about the important agricultural achievements of President Carter.

"Jimmy Carter has done a lot for agriculture in four years. Many people have forgotten the chaos in agriculture that Jimmy Carter inherited when he became President, and even more need to be reminded what this Administration has done in order to correct those problems," he said.

Wolff and other officers of the state committee are in the process of organizing county and regional chapters of Farmers for Carter. Meetings will be held across the Commonwealth, coordinating local and state efforts to distribute information that spells out the Carter record in agriculture.

This record includes:

Nearly doubling the value of agricultural exports in four years from $22.7 billion to $40 billion and increasing the tonnage from 114 million to 162 million,

Establishing the Nation's first farmer-owned grain reserve,

Proposing and signing a new Meat Import Law to ensure a viable domestic livestock industry, and Supporting the Agricultural Conservation Program with a $190 million appropriation.

"I'm convinced that when Pennsylvania's farmers take time to compare the record of President Carter to the statements of Ronald Reagan, they will vote for Jimmy Carter," Wolff said.

Thornburgh proclaims October Livestock Month

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania Governor Dick Thornburgh has proclaimed October as Pennsylvania Livestock Month, to help all Pennsylvanians become better acquainted with the livestock industry.

In his proclamation, Thornburgh said "Pennsylvania's Livestock Industry is a business that is always growing better. Each year, Pennsylvania farmers produce quality cattle, hogs and sheep valued at more than $1.4 billion dollars.

The livestock produced in this state provide nutritious protein as well as essential vitamins and minerals.

We are fortunate here in Pennsylvania to have such a large variety of delicious meats available to us. This variety and abundance has helped increase Pennsylvania's standard of living.

By-products of livestock are also essential for our daily living-from leather shoes, lanolin in medication, wool clothing, to the life saving procine valve for heart patients.

Pennsylvania's livestock industry is always striving to produce genetically superior animals which will better serve consumers' needs. Through livestock shows, and performance testing programs initiated by the industry, livestock is constantly compared and evaluated to meet these needs, not only for today, but for tomorrow as well."

Top steer at Bloomsburg sells for $1.35 per pound

BLOOMSBURG — There were 26 4-H steers and 23 lambs sold last Thursday evening at the annual 4-H Beef and Lamb Sale at the Bloomsburg Fair.

The grand champion steer, a 1115 pound Charolais crossbred exhibited by Barbara Crone of Danville, sold for $1.35 a pound to W. Dean Metzger of Winfield. The contending bidder for the champion steer was Oscar Baumart, Herndon, RD., who was the successful bidder on the reserve champion steer, a 1160 pound Charolais.

The latter was exhibited by Cris Nipple of Mt. Pleasant Mills and sold for 82 cents a pound.

The champion lamb, sold for $1.00 per pound to Oscar Baumart.

The 23 lambs sold had an average weight of 99 pounds.

The first place lightweight steer exhibited by John Hartman, Danville, weighed 1025 pounds and sold to Oscar Baumart for 82 cents per pound.

The first place middleweight steer, exhibited by Brenda Moslock of Montour County, weighed 1075 pounds and sold to Keystone Harvestore Systems Inc., Tunkhannock, for 82 cents per pound.

The first place light heavyweight steer, exhibited by Dave Hartman of Montour County, sold to Oscar Baumart for 76 cents per pound.

The steers sold Thursday evening have been under the care of their 4-H member-owners for the past ten months, having been purchased by the members as 400 to 500 pound calves last fall. The lambs were on feed for a shorter period of time. The auctioneer was Mark Glick.

Other buyers of 4-H Steers were: Danville Cattle Company, Danville RD4; Green Leaf Fertilizer Company, Danville; Harold Shultz, Danville; Northern Central Bank, Williamsport; Roger and Nancy Sanders, Bloomsburg; Paul Reichart, Orangeville.

Also making purchases were Shady Hollow Farms, Benton; N.S. Troutman and Sons, Freeburg; James Cole, Bloomsburg; Catawissa Bottling Company, Catawissa; Keister's Middleburg Livestock Market; Preston Lawton, Bloomsburg; Pytko and Keller, Danville.

Short course set for new farmers

KENNETT SQUARE — How much money do you need to operate a farm? Will livestock or cash crops be more profitable for someone just getting started in farming?

Tough questions, but questions you will have to answer if you are thinking about starting a farming business.

Now a special short course has been planned for those who have thought about getting into farming but who lack the practical experience.

Offered by the extension service at Penn State University and the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine, the new farmers short course will cover basic steps in livestock and crop production as well as the economic aspects of acquiring land, taxation and budgeting a farm business.

The short course will be held October 25 at the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center near Kennett Square. Enrollment will be limited to the first 150 individuals who register.

Registration fee for the course is $10. Additional information and registration forms are available by writing Short Course Office, 306 Agr. Admin. Bldg., University Park, PA 16802.

Mastersonville 4-H Club attracts members

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

MASTERSONVILLE — With millions of 4-H members across the nation observing National 4-H Week with the theme "Expanding Horizons", it is worth noting that at least one section of Lancaster County afforded youngsters their first opportunity to expand their horizons this year. Mastersonville has a Community 4-H Club for the first year and nearly 100 young people came out to sign up for projects.

According to Organizational Leader Mrs. Paul Hoffer, Manheim R4, "It was not difficult to start. The difficult part was realizing I was in it. It was really challenging to see the cooperation of parents."

Ruth Hoffer credited the community for backing the club, saying that the area is made up of "strong, Christian families" who work together. She said it is vital for parents to be interested for a club to be successful.

A need for the club in that areas was felt because several area youngsters, including the Hoffers' two children, were traveling to Elm-Penryn to participate in the very large, very active club there. Several families had called Extension 4-H Agent Nancy Meyers and asked that a new club be organized. Nancy called upon Ruth, who agreed to help "just to get it started." Ruth says now, "I could see the need for it and the benefits if offered, but I felt my time was limited."

Eventually, however, Ruth became involved in the club and never did get out of the job. In fact, she not only carried out the duties of organizational leader, but when the need arose, she also served as a leader for a cooking project.

How did they find youngsters to form the nucleus of the club? Ruth explained that a letter was sent to grades three through six at the Mastersonville Elementary School and a notice was put in Manheim's weekly paper. Interest began at that point, and at the first meeting at the Mastersonville Fire Hall, Ruth recalls, "It was really packed with parents and children. Ninety-four members signed up."

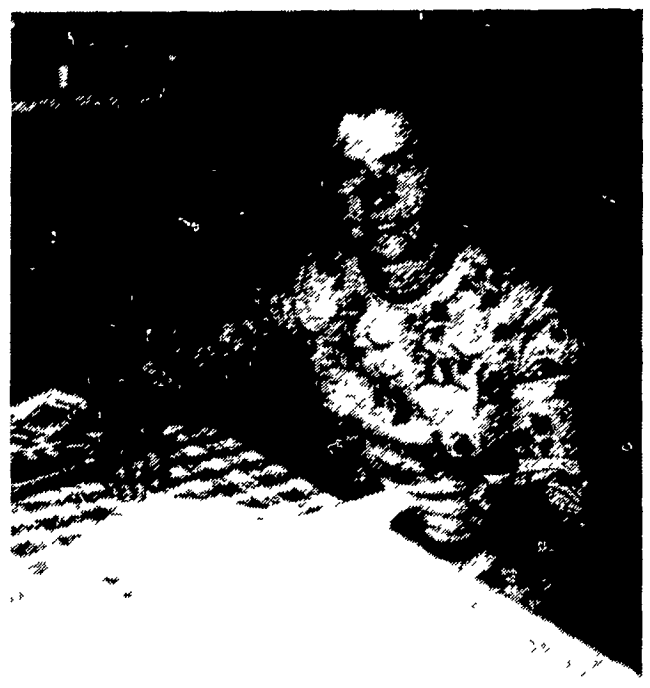
"We had a fairly young representation in the club, and I feel that is good. We have a lot of future leaders," Ruth states. "There were a few junior high school youth who had prior 4-H experience."

It was decided to offer 10 projects and it was up to Ruth to find the leaders to carry out the work of teaching the projects. She says, "I had four good peole in mind, and I knew they would be good if they were willing. I asked everybody I knew. When I talked with someone I asked them if they knew someone else."

In the end, getting the leaders was easier than she had expected, but Ruth acknowledges that it is easier to find leaders for traditional girls' projects than for some of the other. Her one disappointment was in not being able to offer the handyman project for lack of a leader.

Nevertheless, the club offered a wide variety of projects, including electricity, swine, macrame, three levels of sewing, ceramics, pet care, cake decorating, capons, indoor

(Turn to Page C34)



Ruth Hoffer, organizational leader for the Mastersonville 4-H Club, looks over her membership list. In the first year the club attracted nearly 100 members and offered 10 different project area.

Hallowell urges quotas on mushroom imports

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell Tuesday urged U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland to recommend adoption of quantitative restrictions on the import of mushrooms in light of recent rulings by the U.S. International Trade Commission.

Hallowell, in a letter to Bergland, said, "The time has come for the federal government to take action on behalf of its consitituent industries. I strongly urge you recommend to the President that he considers the minority opinion of the USITC ruling of August 6, which calls for quotas on the import mushrooms for a five-year period, beginning with 78 million pounds for the first two years, and escalating at a 9.7 percent annual rate for the subsequent three years."

Hallowell told Bergland that the minority report would be the only action which might assure the domestic mushroom industry of a period of stability in which to rebuild and regain its strong position in the agricultural economy.

Should the President fail to approve the minority report, he urged that, "He, at the very least, accept and approve the majority opinion and a three-year quota on mushroom imports."

The Agriculture Secretary noted Pennsylvania is the mushroom capital of the nation.

"Our 350 growers and the dozens of mushroom processors annually account for $250 million in direct sales," he said. "Approximately 5680. Pennsylvanians are employed on the state's family-owned mushroom farms, and the mushroom processing industry adds several hundred employees to this figure."

But he added, "In recent years, the relative position of the Pennsylvania mushroom industry has suffered at the hands of imported mushroom products. Employment by mushroom processors has dropped by 50 percent in the last eight years, and the number of canners involved in the industry has been reduced by more than one-third. The effects on the entire economy has been severe, especially in southeastern Pennsylvania. It is unforgivable that our mushroom industry is forced to close its doors while domestic consumption is increasing."

Hallowell said the U.S. government has, in effect, been subsidizing the foreign mushroom industry for decades — initially by providing technical assistance to foreign growers, and more recently through its inaction in meeting the threat to the domestic industry from foreign markets.

He noted the ITC majority opinion, which calls for a three-year period of global quotas on mushroom imports at an initial rate of 84 million pounds, would "at best, provide minimal relief for a short period of time."

Hallowell said Bergland would be making recommendations to the President prior to a decision on adoption of the ITC recommendations.

A final decision must be made before October 10, 1980. Similar rulings by the U.S. International Trade Commission in recent years have been rejected.

plants, cooking, rocketry and a community horse club project.

Ruth credits the leaders for the club's success, and is obviously proud of the way they accepted their responsibilities. At the second meeting of the club which was to be election of officers, Ruth was in Germany through the Friendship Force Exchange program. Her leaders went ahead without her and the officers were elected and carrying out their duties when she returned.

"Most of the leaders had some limited experience in 4-H as members themselves. Furthermore, most of them have agreed to serve next year, and I think that's a good sign," Ruth says.

Reflecting on the past few months, Ruth says, "I'm glad I got involved in it. I really felt good about it when it was over." The club was unusually active from the beginning, and Ruth proudly notes that they had three grand prize winners at the County Achievement Day including one in ceramics, cake decorating and sewing. Furthermore, the Mastersonville Club had three contestants in the county talent contest, including two finalists, and two queens in that contest.

Ruth said many parents have expressed their appreciation for the 4-H club, saying, "It gave the children something to do." She agrees that the experience was beneficial for all concerned. "I think it is good experience for them in leadership in the offices. It is helpful for them to be in charge of a group and to be a part of a smaller group. The leaders benefitted too by seeing the children achieve and do well. They gain satisfaction from accomplishing something."

Her goal for the club's second year will be to expand the number of projects offered. But with the enthusiasm of the youngsters, she feels another letter to the school will not be necessary. The Mastersonville 4-H Community Club is now well-established.

Grange meeting dates

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa — The 114th annual session of the National Grange will be held in Cedar Rapids, Ia., Nov. 10 to 16. The Grange will be the first major farm organization to meet following the Presidential election.

Edward Andersen, Master of the National Grange, said " No matter who is elected, the resolutions our delegates will be debating will reflect the everyday grass roots concerns and attitudes of farmers and people in rural communities."

Andersen said while agriculture is the Grange's primary concern, "it is not one-dimensional."

He said "Rural citizens are also consumers, taxpayers, property owners and businessmen: They are just as affected by high inflation, taxes and interest rates as their urban neighbors."

Northern Tier names new management agent

WYSOX — Lehan R. Power, Jr., recently appointed farm management extension agent for the Northern Tier Extension Region, was introduced to the Bradford County Extension Service Executive Committee at their regular September meeting held in the Extension offices in Towanda.

Orville Yoder, Bradford County Agent explained that Power will conduct educational programs in Bradford, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga, and Wyoming Counties. He is headquartered in the Regional Cooperative Extension Service office in Wysox, Bradford County.

Power will be available to help individuals with tax assistance and tax management questions. He will be conducting meetings in estate planning; a seminar to acquaint bankers with farm financial problems; and a three day school on farm management record keeping for young farmers.

A native of Arlington, Massachusetts, he received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Northeastern University in 1968, majoring in business administration and a Bachelor of Arts degree in agricultural economics in 1978 from the University of Massachusetts. He is completing requirements for a Master's degree, also at the University of Massachusetts.

Prior to being named to the Penn State Extension staff, he was teaching and research assistant and an occupational therapy aide. He also served as an officer in the U.S. Army.

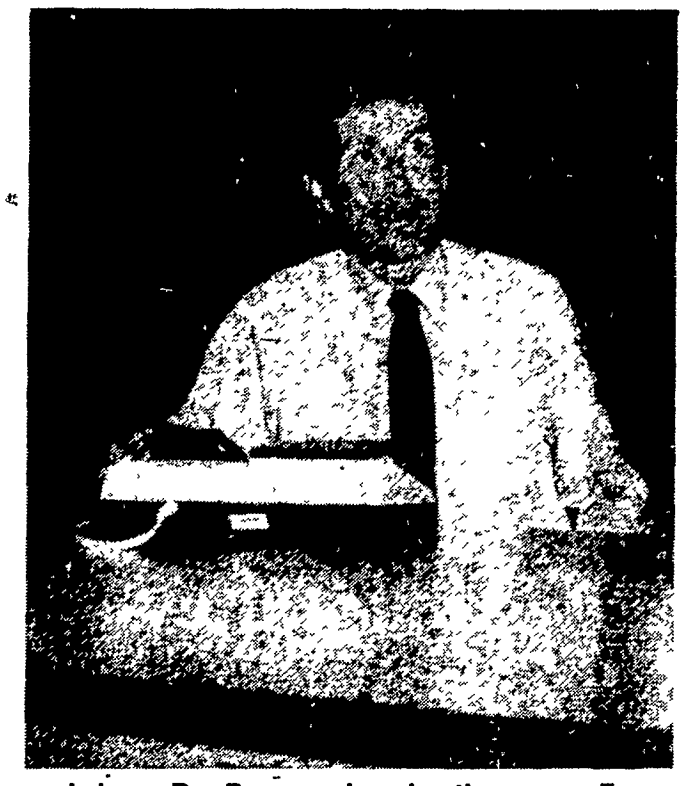
Power is a member of the American Agricultural Economic Association, American Economic Association and Northeast Association of Agricultural Economics.

He is married to the former Leslie Kramer, an artist and printmaker. They reside in Athens, Pennsylvania.

Jeff Hale, of Rome, chairman of the Executive Committee, welcomed Power to the Extension staff.

In other business, the annual dinner meeting for the Bradford County Extension Service Community was planned tentatively for December 11 with a program on Wild Turkey. A planning committee was appointed.

The objectives of the education programs conducted by the extension service are to improve the income-producing skills and quality of life of both rural and urban people.



Lehan R. Power, Jr., is the new Farm Management Extension Agent for five Northern Tier Counties. Headquartered in the Regional extension service office in Wysox, Bradford County, he is available to give assistance to farmers in any area of farm management. Powers is shown with a new T159 computer recently purchased in Bradford County to assist in answering problems quickly.

Rhoads Feed Mill buys champion

BLOOMSBURG — Jerry Rhoads, Rhoads Feed Mill, Milton, purchased the Grand Champion market lamb shown by Kimberly Smith, Milton at Bloomsburg Fair. The $1.65 per pound price was a record.

Sam Creveling's Reserve Champion sold to William Cole, Danville at $1.10 per pound.

Twenty-one participating lambs were sold to the following buyers: Danville Cattle Company; Oscar Baumert, Herndon; Keister's Middleburg Auction; Snyder's Meat Market, Sunbury; Green Leaf Fertilizer Company, Danville; M.L. Bowersox, Penns Creek; Gordon Gee, Tioga County; Cole's Hardware, Danville; Eddie Mellar, Bower, New Jersey; Charles Chapman, Benton.

County Agent Leonard Yearick reported the sale averaged 85 cents per pound without the Champion's prices, a very satisfactory sale. Robert Houston, Columbia County Agent, served as show chairman. The sale was auctioned by Mark Glick, well-known local auctioneer.

THE "EASY HANDLER"
By FARMER BOY PRODUCTS

RD 1, Box 1270, Lebanon, PA 17042
717-272-5089

165 BUSHEL GRAVITY UNLOADING BED

Farmer Boy gives you big value in an easy-handling hauler designed to make efficient work of all harvest and material handling jobs. It is especially suited for the average farm terrain, where a larger wagon can bog down or is not practical for small or just average loads. It will get in and out from very difficult ground much more quickly. It pulls easily, making towing more than one wagon practical — and it is priced right, to support a reasonable time-saving investment in multi-wagon operating efficiency.

FREY FREE STALL

LIFETIME FREE STALL HOUSING

Cut bedding costs 75 per cent, reduce labor for barn cleaning and cow washing; reduce teat and udder injury to the minimum — house your milking herd in free stall housing. Each cow provided a stall for loafing. She won't be stepped on, the rear curb forces manure out into alley for mechanical cleaning or washing. A few minutes twice a day cleans the stalls and curbs, bedding lasts almost forever if your stalls fit the cows. Popular sizes are 6'6", 7' and 7'6". Size 'em by breed.

Our free stall partition may be mounted on wooden head boards or we make a steel divider. Set the legs in 8 to 10' concrete curbs to hold and retain bedding. Stall floor can be soil, sand or gravel. Bedding — straw, sawdust, peanut hulls, ground corn cobs, etc. Should be installed with paved alley surface 8 feet wide for mechanical cleaning or washing.

- 8 Models all steel welded farm & feedlot gates
- 2 Models all steel welded head catch gate

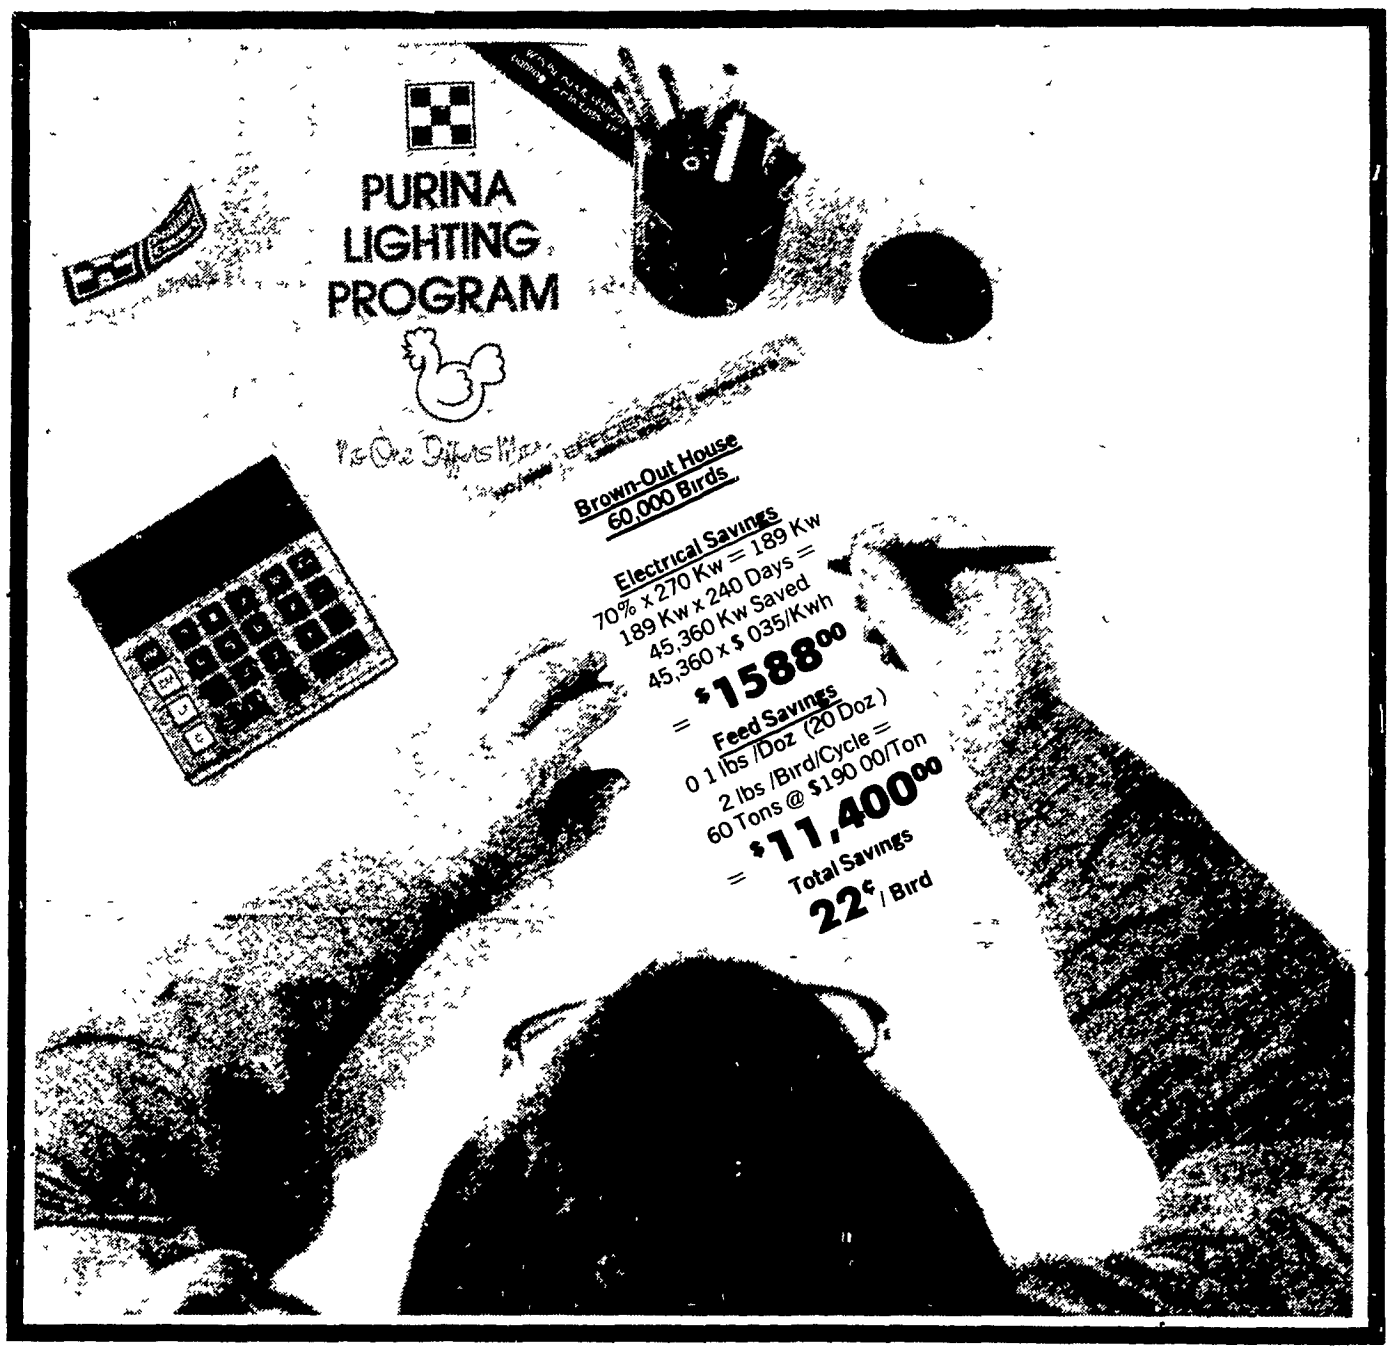
Over Two Million Lancaster County Birds Have Proven

Bio-Mittent™ Lighting Makes Cents



Field results of Bio-Mittent lighting programs have confirmed what Purina research results have shown. Here are what three managers have had to say about their results:

"The most significant feature of the intermittent lighting program is a feed savings over birds that previously were on a full-fed program. I feel there is a potential for 40¢/bird increased income from using the intermittent lighting program. Mostly, this income is a feed savings, but some is associated with increases in egg size plus the potential for an extra 3 or 4 eggs per bird year" (Note, hens in some cases in this operation had been mechanically restricted with smaller egg size resulting.)

"Intermittent lighting does not affect production. It does definitely save electricity. We experience less mortaility with the experimental group (Bio-Mittent lighting). We have put four more houses on the program."

"I don't know why producers don't use Bio-Mittent™ Lighting just to save some electricity. We've also seen some improvement in feed conversion even though our house isn't light-tight."

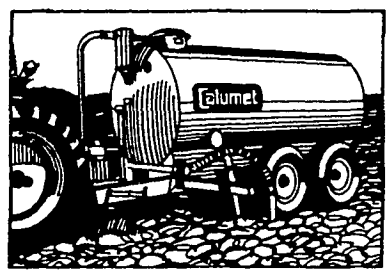
Fertilizer factories

A single 150-lb. hog yields about $11.00 of fertilizer value a year. Multiply that by the number of hogs you raise and you have a substantial supply of N, P, K you don't have to buy.

But it has to be managed. That means the right handling and spreading equipment. Calumet vacuum tanks are built to last with heavy-duty components and a choice of two vacuum pumps — both engineered to load fast and run cool.

To get the most value from hog manure, pair your Calumet vacuum tank to a Calumet 2 or 4-shank soil injector and put manure where it does the most good.



Take advantage of the value produced by your living fertilizer factories — with Calumet manure management equipment.

Uni-Loader...

See your Local Dealer For Details On A New Rebate Program. Expires Oct. 31

Uni-Loader design eliminates pedal controls. Helps dairymen get their scraping, lifting, dumping and other backbreaking chores done faster and easier, without unnecessary "steps" to coordinate foot and hand movements Two hand levers control everything—power, speed, direction, loader and bucket functions

Other productive advantages include hydrostatic 4-wheel drive for smooth going with infinitely variable control 360 turn capability for getting in and out of pens, outbuildings and other tight spots with ease. Quick parts and service—with dealer access to the Case nationwide network of computer-linked parts depots

See your nearby Case dealer for the Uni-Loader to suit your needs. Available in 16, 30 and 45 hp models with lift capacities up to 1700 lbs.

ABS AMERICAN BREEDERS SERVICE

The White 2-85 and 2-105...85 and 105 hp performance that's hard to outgrow.

Today, you probably still find it difficult to be without that 85 or 100 hp tractor. That's why we still offer you dependability in tractors of this size...the White® 2-85 and 2-105 Field Boss® Tractors.

The respective 85 and 105 hp 2-85 and 2-105 are among the heaviest candidates in their class with the weight coming from built in components such as the 3x6 Over/Under Transmission. Closed center hydraulics, Cat. II 3-point hitch, and independent dual-speed 540/1000 rpm pto also add up to standard features and value.

We've not forgotten the tractors you rely on most. And our 2-85 and 2-105 Field Bosses won't let you down. Stop by and see for yourself.

With 18 forward speeds in three shift-on-the-go power ranges, hydrostatic power steering plus optional power front axle, the 2-85 and 2-105 give you flexibility equal to the biggest 2-wheel drive tractors.

A special message to farmers who appreciate the difference...

PRICE vs. VALUE in liquid fertilizer

When the first thing a fertilizer salesman wants to talk about is a "bargain basement price," you can be pretty sure that's all he really has to offer

We're cost-sensitive at NA-CHURS, too But because we're dedicated to selling quality, we like to discuss value— at a fair price Here's what NA-CHURS has to offer

☐ Highest quality product. Remember, first, that NA-CHURS liquid fertilizer is a precisely-formulated, complete liquid plant food — not just a blend of raw materials Just because another fertilizer may have the same basic NPK ratio, does not make it the "same" fertilizer That's because NA-CHURS starts with only the highest-quality raw materials These are formulated into a solution that won't separate and settle out like many poor-quality, suspension liquids That's why NA-CHURS stores safely over winter, giving you the advantage of lower fall prices and planting time application as early as you're ready

☐ Extra service — at no extra cost. NA-CHURS customers know that what comes with a fertilizer is just as important as what goes in it. The NA-CHURS Program includes year 'round extra services — all at no extra cost ☐ Composite soil samples are taken and a written fertility recommendation for each field is supplied by NA-CHURS agronomists No charge!

☐ Your NA-CHURS Representative assists with installation and calibration of liquid equiment No charge!

☐ Follow-up service Your NA-CHURS man is on hand throughout the growing season — to help your crops reach full yield potential.

☐ Special credit terms and discounts are an important part of the NA-CHURS program You help us plan for production, and we'll help you save money.

These are just some of the extras that we call SERVICE — to help you achieve optimum yields and after-cost profits That's what the NA-CHURS program is all about. See your NA-CHURS man and talk about the real differences between price and value

Eastern maintains happy outlook despite FmHA questions

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Eastern has been working with the FmHA since May, 1978, in an effort to finance the cheese plants in New York and Pennsylvania. Eastern said it understands the FmHA is ready to approve financing of these plants, but has delayed this final approval until Leprino's name is cleared. We have confidence this clearance will be forthcoming shortly, the Co-op said.

Eastern has requested the FmHA approve its financing, subject to receipt of a satisfactory report from the FBA regarding Leprino. Since the FmHA has already completed its review work, this puts no additional burden on the FmHA, Eastern said it is certain the report will verify Leprino's good standing in the business community. In this way the FmHA is consistent with the objectives of the Agricultural Act of 1970 as set forth below:

"The Congress commits itself to a sound balance between rural and urban America. The Congress considers this balance so essential to peace, prosperity, and welfare of all our citizens that highest priority must be given to the revitalization and development of rural areas".

Reports that Eastern will be bankrupt or otherwise severely financially threatened by the failure of its refinancing efforts are completely false, the Co-op said.

Eastern is one of the healthiest of all cooperative in the Northeast whose equity accumulation program is continuing to increase its financial strength and capabilities, the Co-op said.

The refinancing of its receivable loans through First Pennsylvania Bank have lowered interest costs significantly, and these benefits are now being passed on to its dairymen producers.

Leprino must take required volumes of milk, regardless of the success of the refinancing efforts. It is Leprino who is at risk for the financing, if Eastern is not successful in its efforts. Losses Eastern has incurred in the past due to processinf of surplus supplies of milk or sales of surplus supplies to financially unsound milk dealers is now a thing of the past.

In 1981, Eastern will be the only cooperative in the Northeast having a total capability of balancing surplus supplies in the spring and summer through the New York and Pennsylvania cheese plants, Eastern claimed.

Eastern stands to gain through completion of the refinancing by ownership of the cheese plants. These plants will be paid for by Leprino over 20 years.

In addition, Leprino takes the risk of production; production problems have been the Waterloo for other cooperatives in the Northeast, Eastern said.

Eastern said it wants the refinancing completed, but our producers can rest assured that Eastern will be strong in the future regardless of the outcome.

Eastern said it believes its FmHA Application meets all requirements of the FmHA program, and the FmHA will help Eastern complete its financing.

York County farmers use alcohol as fuel

LEWISBERRY — With the experience of more than 1000 miles of operation behind them, directors of the York County FUEL Cooperative Monday unveiled a standard pickup truck and tractor which have been operating on straight alcohol fuel.

George Hoke, president of the Farmers Union Energy League Cooperative (FUEL), said engine adjustments were minimal, and that overall performance of alcohol is at least comparable to gasoline.

"The greatest advantage of alcohol" said Hoke, "is that we can produce it from corn in Central Pennsylvania and OPEC can keep its oil."

FUEL, established in March, 1980, is a non-profit cooperative incorporated under the Cooperative Agricultural Association Act of Pennsylvania. Since its inception, the cooperative has advocated farmer-controlled production and use of alcohol as a farm fuel.

York County members hope to create a dependable source of domestic fuel for farm operations of members.

Both the truck, owned by Albert Bentz of Thomasville, operated on straight 190-proof alcohol.

Bentz' truck, a 1974 Chevy Cheyenne pickup, has logged almost 1,000 miles on alcohol fuel. The eight cylinder, 350 cubic inch engine has been slightly modified to run smoothly.

Its "alcohol" mileage equals its gas mileage, both at nine to ten miles per gallon.

The tractor operates just as efficiently on alcohol as it does on gasoline, according to Goodlander. He says the tractor starts more quickly and has more power when using alcohol as a fuel.

On hand for the demonstration were Victor K. Ray, vice president of the National Farmers Union, George F. Hoke, president of the York County FUEL Co-op, FUEL members and representatives from the Pennsylvania Farmers Union.

The Denver, Colorado based National Farmers Union has been urging its members to become involved with alcohol fuel experimentation.

Ray, who has coordinated NFU efforts, said he believes farmer-controlled production and use of alcohol as a farm fuel can truly be a "Declaration of Independence" for farmers and for America.

Board members of the York County FUEL Co-op have spent countless hours during the last six months in research and development of the project. The idea of experimenting with alternative forms of fuel came when farmers, like everyone, were faced with rapidly rising petroleum prices and gasoline shortages.

The cooperative is applying for $1 million in financing from the federal Department of Energy to construct a million gallon per year alcohol fuel plant. This amount would account for nearly 40 percent of the total $2.2 million required to build and operate the facility.

The new alcohol fuel plant would bolster the economy of York County, provide an additional market for grain, and generate a local supply of alcohol fuel.

Appeals court allows pseudo-product labeling

DES MOINES, IA. — Pork producers are disappointed in the ruling from the Court of Appeals in St. Louis which upholds the USDA regulation permitting uncured meat products to look like and bear the names of traditionally cured products such as hot dogs and bologna.

"Our concern for consumer safety is only heightened by the new court decision," said National Pork Producers Council President Bill Buller. "The lower court concluded this regulation would confuse, if not deceive consumers," said Buller, "and we still agree."

NPPC said it challenged the regulation last year out of concern for the public's safety. The industry contended that consumers would be confused by "look-alikes" and would suffer food poisoning as a result of handling the unpreserved products in the same manner they now handle the cured or preserved products.

"People with an active interest in avoiding nitrite may spot the difference between the look-alikes," said Buller. "But what's to happen to the ordinary American consumer who spends little time studying the labels of what appear to be plain old hot dogs?"

In appealing the lower court ruling, USDA argued that it was obligated to provide consumers with an alternative to nitrite cured products since nitrite was believed to be a health hazard. In mid-August USDA and FDA refuted the study condemning nitrites, saying that there is no basis for regulatory action against nitrites at this time.

"Tuesday's court ruling is especially unfortunate," said NPPC Executive Vice President Orville Sweet, "in that the public is again the loser in this regulatory battle. Individual consumers now face the burden of avoiding botulism poisoning through their own extreme care and preventive action."

The possibility of further appeals or action by NPPC is being studied at this time.

John Hershey prepares to bring in tobacco.

It's a sea of sunflowers along the Landis Valley Road in Lancaster County.

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

LANCASTER — A patch of sunshine was shining through the dark clouds of drought in Lancaster County this week.

In most areas of the county typical farm scenes depicted:

--Parched-brown cornfields, dried leaves and stalks rustling noisily in the Autumn wind, or others already chopped to stubble.

--Soybean fields, prematurely yellowed.

--Hayfields, struggling unsuccessfully to yield another cutting before frost heralds the end of another season.

But along Landis Valley Road, it was quite another scene. A crop, not exactly indigenous to this land of tobacco and corn, was in full bloom and providing a bright, golden sight that contrasted sharply with the prevalent drought-spawned rural panorama.

Yes, it was truly a patch of welcome sunshine in the form of about an acre of blossoming sunflowers — something more expected to be seen in the distant dry regions of North Dakota or Minnesota.

The sunflowers are being grown by the John B. Hershey family, 2151 Landis Valley Road, as a double-cropping experiment following wheat.

About an acre stands next to their home and another two acres in the Delp Road area off the Manheim Pike in another section of Manheim Township.

"Until I made up my mind whether to try the sunflowers, I lost a couple of weeks in getting them in," Hershey explains.

"I want to see if they'll mature and what kind of a yield can be achieved. If the weather holds off and a killing frost doesn't come too early, I should get an idea of how they'll do as a second crop. Then, I'll have a better idea of what to do next year."

Ruth Hershey describes her husband as a "book farmer," who does a lot of reading about his second occupation. John works for the township road department operating a grader.

The Hersheys farm about 160 acres, all but three rented from some 11 landlords. They grow corn, soybeans, wheat, tobacco, strawberries, sweet corn and, this year, the sunflower experiment.

John read about sunflowers in the Farm Journal and decided to give them a try after harvesting wheat. But a bit of indecision delayed their planting until the last of July, putting them a few weeks behind schedule.

Since sunflowers are not exactly a common Lancaster County crop, the Hersheys had a bit of a mild hassle getting them in.

"It took me about two hours to convince our seed people that we were still serious about puting them in. Then, we had to get some plates for the corn planter. They were just hanging on the wall of our supplier."

Ruth Hershey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Zeager, who once farmed in the area of the Alcoa plant along the

Reagan declines farm debate invitation

HARRISBURG — Ronald Reagan has declined an invitation by the National Farmers Union to engage in a farm policy debate, Leonard Zemaitis, Director of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union, announced today.

"I am deeply disappointed that Governor Reagan has flatly turned us down on an opportunity to tell farmers where he stands on agriculture," Zemaitis said. "I only hope this is no indication of the kind of priority family farmers in Pennsylvania and elsewhere would receive in a Reagan Administration."

Earlier today National Farmers Union President George W. Stone echoed similar dismay. Stone said farmers all over the country are wondering where Reagan stands on agriculture since his statements in Wichita, Kansas, earlier this year, when he stumbled over parity.

"I would guess that the governor has since learned about parity, but he has said very, very little about agriculture since then," Stone said.

On September 4, from the podium of the Iowa Farmers Union Convention, Stone invited President Carter, independent John Anderson, and Governor Reagan to take part in a 90 minute farm policy debate that would be held in Des Moines, Iowa. All general farm organizations would have had a role.

The Carter Campaign responded first, saying the debate offer was under active consideration, and that a decision would be made soon.

"All we know for certain," said Zemaitis, "is that the Reagan campaign has given farmers a flat-out 'no'."

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — With a lot of drought-damaged corn going into silos, and pastures suffering from a hot, dry summer, there's a big temptation for dairy and beef cattle farmers to start feeding silage right away.

But beware warn extension animals science specialists at the University of Maryland. Silage from drought-damage corn may have good feeding value; however, it is apt to contain relatively high nitrate levels, which can result in dangerous silo gas formation.

Be sure to ventilate silos and silo rooms before entering a recently filled silo.

If you see a yellowish gas on the surface of the silage, get out fast and wait a few days, warns Emory C. Leffel, extension ruminant nutrition specialist and professor of animal science. Leffel recommends waiting for four weeks after a silo is filled before attempting to start using the silage.

Then, it might be a good idea to take a sample from each silo on your farm for nitrate testing by the state chemist's office for the Maryland Department of Agriculture. County Extension agricultural agents throughout the state can provide assistance on this procedure.

If you know, or even suspect, that one or more silos on your farm contain high-nitrate silage, Leffel, suggests that you:

Supplement silage with high levels of carbohydrate or energy feeds, such as grain and molasses, and vitamin A.

Feed only limited amounts of high-nitrate silage; supplement with hay.

Alternate or mix feeding of high-nitrate and low-nitrate silage, if such conditions exist on your farm.

Making silage is a good way to utilitze drought-stricken corn, Dr. Leffel commented, since the ensiling process lowers dangerous nitrate levels considerably.

"Whatever you do, don't feed drought-stricken corn, Dr. Leffel commented, since the ensiling process lowers dangerous nitrate levels considerably.

"Whatever you do, don't feel drought-stricken corn as green chop feed," he warned.

David Clarke, state chemist for the Maryland State Department of Agriculture adds that making drought-stricken corn into silage may also be a good way to avoid aflatoxin contamination—a concern this year in many areas.

Clarke reports he has never found aflatoxins in corn silage samples tested in his laboratory.

Fruitville Pike in Manheim Township. But the 230 Bypass took that land, and the Zeagers moved to the Milton area.

It was from that area that the Hersheys partially got the idea for the sunflowers, too. A friend, Pete Beachel, tried 40 acres there last year.

John Hershey, although coming from a non-agricultural background, has always been interested in farming.

John and Ruth went to the Brecht Elementary School together along the Lititz Pike.

"I remember that John used to stand at the fence at recess and watch a farmer working the adjoining field where the Weis Market now stands," Ruth explains.

"That farmer was my father. Little did John know at the time that he was watching his future father-in-law."

The Hershey children — John, 14; David, 12; Jim, 10; and Anita, 6 — all are interested in farming. They had an acre of strawberries out this year and "sold them faster than they could be picked."

John and Ruth admit their sunflower experiment is touch-and-go this year because of their late start. It's all going to depend on the weather and how long Jack Frost holds off his first real visit to the county.

"But we've raised pumpkins, before," Mrs. Hershey explains.

"We know how it is to plant something and not get anything out of it but something nice to look at.

"Not only us, but a lot of other people have enjoyed the flowers, even if nothing more comes out of it."

With such a healthy, non-selfish attitude toward their agricultural avocation (that really is a first-love vocation), it's quite appropriate that the Hersheys should be the farm family to bring a bit of sunshine to Lancaster County in this year that will be remembered as the Drought of 1980.

Eastern-Leprino deny any mob connection

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Officials of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative based in Syracuse, New York and Leprino Foods of Denver, Colorado issued the following joint statement Wednesday:

There has been much publicity recently of organized crime in the cheese business, and more especially in businesses related to mozzarella and pizza cheeses. It should be kept in mind that much of this publicity is focusing on an extremely small segment of the business. Major manufacturers of mozzarella cheese include subsidiaries of large wellknown corporations whose affairs are public, such as Beatrice Foods, Universal Foods, Unigate, Inc. and Mid American Dairymen.

"The one company, whose owners are of Italian descent which has been successful in the mozzarella business due to professional management, hard work, production and product innovation is Leprino Foods.

"Leprino's name should not be associated with this very small element, but rather with the credible companies who make most of this country's mozzarella. The following is Leprino's position relative to insinuations concerning underworld connections:

"Leprino Foods has become aware over the past several weeks, through newspaper reports, of insinuations about some connection between the Company and Joseph Bonanno, Sr. The Company's knowledge of these insinuations is limited to what has appeared in the press, and it appears from the press accounts that the connection with Mr. Bonanno is based on a piece of paper found in his trash.

"No one from the Company has seen this piece of paper or has any knowledge about the circumstances under which it was produced.

"The Company is both curious and concerned about the insinuations that are being made about a connection between the Company and Mr. Bonanno and, in an effort to put an end to those insinuations, the Company has requested that the FBI conduct a complete and thorough investigation of Leprino Foods, of the piece of paper found in Mr. Bonanno's trash, and of any allegations concerning any connection between the Company and organized crime.

"The Company is certain that the investigation being undertaken by the FBI will show no connection between it and Mr. Bonanno or any other element of organized crime. Because the Company's integrity has always been of paramount importance, the Company will continue to take all available action in the future to protect its name and reputation".

The Elevations and Glendells

These 19 young cows are milking with first calves and have exceptionally good udders, straight and good rumps. The kind of individuals that will develop into the type of cattle that will please you.

Sale Manager's Note — This herd has unlimited capabilities, being rich in the blood of some of the breed's greatest sires. Service sires include Conductor, Pete and Elevation, so the calves they are now carrying are certainly valuable. You'll like the type as well as the breeding, and if given the opportunity they deserve, these cows can only increase in value for their new owners.

SHADY LANE DAIRY SALES, INC.

TOTAL HERD LEASING

How it works:

You select the stock or herd from our inventory

You take the cattle home and let them pay for themselves plus giving you additional cash as well as the offspring

You are not bound by a set price per head as with conventional lending. Rather the quality sets the price.

Here is an opportunity to acquire Registered and grade dairy cows carrying valuable calves without putting a large down payment down. Letting you use that money elsewhere to avoid high interest rates.

If you are looking for a hedge against inflation - Your set payments are made with tomorrows escalated dollars and income

If you're looking for tax advantages - The rental payments are a direct deduction from your earned income and You may be eligible for investment tax credit.

Nothing is free in life, but for the qualified man willing to go to work, here's a way to avoid the fluctuating high interest rates you have been paying.

Lease agreements tailored for your special needs.

For more information contact us soon.

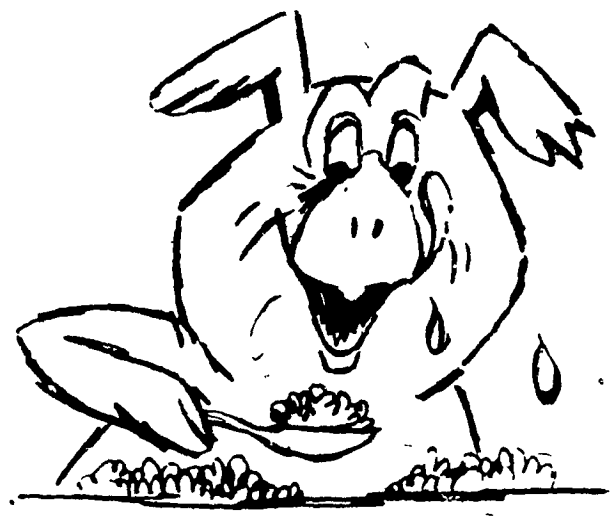
HIGH OCTANE PIGS DO BETTER



Approximately three years ago Ralston Purina released revolutionary new growing and finishing rations called High Octane Hog Chows. They were based on several major nutrition discoveries by Purina Swine Research.

Today, you can take advantage of the High Octane breakthrough from the very moment pigs are farrowed ... a lactation ration ... a pre-starter ration ... a starter ration, and the already well-established growing and finishing Hog Chows.

So now you can go all the way with Purina High Octane Chows. Four feed products known as ... The High Octane Performance Team.

	WHAT THEY NEED	WHAT WE PROVIDE
NEW SUPER PALATABLE FARROWING CHOW® easier, safer farrowing	FARROWING ■ Laxative feed for easy, safe farrowing. ■ Appetite satisfaction. ■ Medication to reduce scours-causing organisms. ■ Low-energy, bulky ration to reduce incidence of MMA.	FARROWING ■ Special laxative ingredients to prevent constipation. ■ Palatable formula to satisfy appetite. ■ Medication with high activity against scours-causing salmonella types of organisms. ■ Low-energy, bulky, pelleted formula.
NEW HIGH OCTANE® LACTATION CHOW® COMPLETE more milk, stronger sows	LACTATION ■ Help in producing lots of better-quality milk, even in hot weather. ■ Sufficient nourishment to wean heavier litters without excessive sow weight losses. ■ High nutrient levels which prevent sows from robbing their muscle tissues and bones to make milk.	LACTATION ■ High nutrient density to support production of superior quality and quantity of milk. ■ Correct balance of energy, amino acids, vitamins and minerals needed to wean heavier litters. ■ Necessary nourishment needed to prevent body-robbing and excessive weight losses.
HIGH OCTANE® BABY PIG CHOW® starts 'em right	NEWBORN PIGS ■ High palatability. ■ Excellent digestibility. ■ Correct ingredients needed to supplement sow's milk and promote fast, early growth. ■ High nutrient concentration to accommodate the pig's small stomach.	NEWBORN PIGS ■ Attractive aroma and great taste appeal, specially packaged to seal in freshness. ■ Ingredients specifically chosen for easy digestibility...combined into a small particle size. ■ Proper balance of nutrients needed to promote fast, early growth while nursing. ■ High nutrient density formula designed to ensure every ounce gives pigs a real boost.
HIGH OCTANE® PIG STARTENA® you can see the difference	15 to 50 LBS. ■ Good palatability. ■ High digestibility. ■ Plenty of nutritional power. ■ Help in fighting disease and stress.	15 to 50 LBS. ■ Special ingredients selected for tastiness and good aroma combined with "ett" form for easy eating. ■ High biological availability of nutrients for easy digestibility. ■ High nutrient density balance of energy, amino acids, vitamins and minerals needed for improved growth and reduced conversion. ■ High level antibacterial drugs to reduce effects of stress and help prevent disease.
